As high as 100 bushels of oats per acre have been reported, and yields of 55 to 50 hushels are frequent. Barley is also showing a big yield of very fine quality.

Where Yields Are Best.

The best yields in Whitman County, so far as heard from, are in the vicinity of Sunset, St. Johns, Thornton, Diamond nd Endloott. Through this region yields of 40 to 45 bushels are quite common, and small yields are the exception. Around Farmington and Tekoa most of the yields are above the average, and the quality is excellent. The crop is giso fairly good around Rosalle, but is poor around Pullman, where the biggest yields were re-ported a year ago. The American ridge district is turning out goed yields, and the crops over toward the Potlack country are also reported good.

Throughout this country, as in Oregon, the yield is "spotted," adjoining fields showing a variation of 25 bushels per acre. in the output, apparently with no differ-

Paradoxical as it may seem, the yield of the county has been cut down by an insufficiency of rain on the light lands and a surplus on the heavy lands. A conarea of the heavy lands lying east of Colfax was not sowed last Fall on account of the dry weather, and when it was sown in the Spring cold rains retarded its growth, but gave the wild onts and weeds such a start that the wheat was choked out.

West of the good crop belt of the Sunset and Endlcott region the Spring grain suffered from lack of moisture, and a considerable area is being cut for hay.

The Smut Evil.

There is again much complaint on ac count of smut, and already two threshing machines have exploded from that cause. About the only localities that seem to be exempt from this ovil are the light lands where a volunteer crop cannot grow. At the same time the superiority of scientific farming over the "hit-or-miss" system is again apparent, for there are Winter wheat farms here that are perfectly free from smut.

Lillis F. Smith, the "Wheat King of the Palouse," has thousands of tons of clean, high-grade wheat without a single grain affected by smut. About a year ago Mr. Smith favored The Oregonian with an interesting and valuable article on his method for treating seed wheat. His theory was that, if the seed was properly vitrolized and cleaned, smut would not the Supreme Lodge rate. appear.
