ONE IS DEAD, ANOTHER DYING

New Mexicans Were Unfamiliar With Light Fixtures, and May Have Turned on the Peath-Dealing Fumes Through Mistake.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—One dead, another dying and a third seriously ill from the effects of carbon monoxide gas is the record of an asphyxiation case that developed in a room at the International Hotel on Kearny street this morning. The victim of the deadly fumes, whose body now lies at the morgae, was Casimiro Chavez, a lad of 12 years of age. Salmon Chavez, the brother-in-law of the dead boy, is at the hospital, with the chances against his recovery. Mrs. Casimiro Chavez, who narrowly escaped asphyxiation, is at the hotel, under a physician's care, scarcely conscious of the calamity that has befallen her.

Chavez is an employe of the Banta Fe Railroad Company at Albuquerque, N. M., and he came with his wife and her brother on a business trip to this city last Sun-and he came with his wife and her brother-on a business trip to this city last Sun-flay. The trio retired early last night, and all appeared in the best of spirits. At 10 o'clook this morning the odor of gas es-caping from the room attracted attention and the proprietor entered the room. The transom was partly open and a window opening on the light well was opened fully two feet.

On the floor lay the dead body of the lad, and near him Mrs. Chases tossed lad, and near him Mrs. Chaver tossed feverishly. Chaves lay partiy upon the bed, and from his posture it is evident that he rose as if to escape from the room, but fell back overpowered.

The gas fixture in the room was found to be in perfect condition and rather hard to work. This fact seems to indicate that the gas was turned on after the flame was extinguished, whether by Chavez himself or the dead boy is unknown. Mrs. Chavez says she was the first to retire and that the last she heard was her husand that the last she heard was her husnd and brother conversing together.

"This was an accident," said Mrs. Cha-vez in Spanish, through an interpreter.
"We are not used to gas, and perhaps my husband turned the gas on again after having turned it off. He had no reason to commit suicide that I know of."

Stenographer Puts Bullet in Man She Alleges Hounded Her.

SEATTLE, Aug. in.—Mrs. W. E. Pinley, a stenographer employed in H. E. Raser's insurance office, at 1 o'clock this morning shot and fatally wounded Frank Tanghembaugh, a floorwalker in the employ of Frederick & Nelson. The tragedy oc-curred in Tanghenbaugh's own apart-ments on Third avenue and in the pres-ence of his wife and 6-year-old child. The builet pierced the lower obe of the

The builet pierced the lower obe of the left lung. The surgeons have succeeded in extricating it. The victim has been unconscious ever since the shooting.

Mrs. Tanghenhaugh and her child were alone in the room. A little before I this morning they heard a key in their door. They thought it was Tanghenhaugh returning home. To their surprise the door opened and Mrs. Finley, with a revolver in her hand, stepped into the room. She screamed and at the screamed and at the the room. She screamed and at the same time stated that Tanakenbaugh was at her home on Madison street in a cranken condition. Mrs. Finley demanded that Mrs. Tangaenbaugh go there immediately and take him away. Mrs. Tangaenbaugh started to dress when she heard some one coming up the steps. "That's him." said Mrs. Finley, "I know him."

She jumped from the chair in the corner of the room and took another in the center. Presently Tanghenbaugh stepped quietly into the room. Just as he got within the door Mrs. Fuley leveled her revolver at him and first. He dropped with a grean in the doorway. Mrs. with a groan in the doorway. Mrs. Tanghenbaugh screamed and ran across the street to a store, where she told what The patrol wagon answered in a few moments. Tanghenswered in a few moments. Mrs. Finley sat in the room quietly, and as the officers en-tered told them that she had fired the shot and said that she was glad of it.

shot and said that she was gaid of it. The injured man was taken to a hospital and Mrs. Finley, with her little daughter, who was in the hallway when the shooting occurred, were taken to the jail. The child insisted on remaining with her mother and the police allowed it. At the Jall Mrs. Finley was remarkably quiet. She said she shot Tanghenbaugh and she hoped that he would die. Then she told the story leading to the

She said Tanghenbaugh had been worrying her for months. Last night, she says, he went to her home drunk and in-sisted on making a pallet on the floor and sleeping in her room. Mrs. Finley said she refused to allow him to do so knowing that he was married and should be home with his wife. Then he at-tempted to strike her. She ran from the house with her child and started for Mrs. Tanghenhaugh's house to ask the wife to go and force her husband to leave there. Tanghenhaugh evidently followed her. Mrs. Fluicy says that he threatened to kill her if she went to his wife. When kill her if she went to his wife. When Mrs. Finley saw him come through the door, she says, she shought Taughen-baugh would make his threat good, and to avoid being killed horself she fired the fatal shot. At that time, she says, Taughenbaugh asked his wife for a gun, He started for a drawer to get it, so she declares, and then it was that she shot him. She says the shot was not fired when Taughenbaugh entered the öner. However, the man was lying in the doorway when found.

Tanghenbaugh insists that she es not believe her husband had both Mrs. Finley at her home. She says she cannot account for the crime. Mrs. Finley's husband died five years ago. Since that time she has made her own fiving at stenographic work and sup-perted her child. She is young and good-looking and comes from a family of pio-cers, the Boyds, that at one time owned much valuable property in Seattle.

They were Wiley Howell, injured very seriously, and Willis Purit, injured, but not seriously. The cause was supposed to be a running fuse. Dr. Beiknap is at-tending the wounded. Tanghenbaugh is well-known and has worked as floorwalker in several Sentile business houses. Mrs. Finley has been refused bail until the condition of Tangh-enbaugh is determined. Friends have bffered to go her ball.

Frank Taughenbaugh, floorwalker at Frederick & Nelson's, who was shot early this morning by his cousin, Mrs. Hester Finley, is still alive. During the morning operation was performed and the bul let removed, and late tonight it is said the injured man has a fighting chance for

NEW YORK, Aug. M .- The wind Sandy Hook at midnight was from the Southeast about three miles an hour. The sky is cloudy, and the prospects for a race omorrow appear poor.

The local Weather Bureau is in receip

"That's very bad," he said, but made In response to a query as to whether he had asked to have a four-cornered race between the Shamrock III, Reliance, Columbia and Constitution, Sir Thomas said he had not seen such a suggestion, but if such a proposition should be made he would undoubtedly consider it. He did not care to have it understood that he was taking the initiative.

The Shamrock III put up her mainsail and her club topsail this afternoon, but did not leave her anchorage to go out. She stretched and dried them.

On the Reliance there was not a move, and Mr. Mower, the club measurer, simply put the tape to the new gaff and declared it the same length as the old, so that her measurements are the same as

An alleged wireless report from the yacht Erin, which is equipped with the Deforest wireless system, published in a morning paper, to the effect that Shamrock III paper, to the effect that Shamrock III was seriously damaged during yesterday's storm and that there was a possibility of Sir Thomas asking for a postponement, caused considerable excitement in yachting circles. Investigation proved that the statement was without foundation. Shamrock III rode out yesterday's squall without the slightest damage, although the big anchor was dropped as an additional precaution.

There was no particular evidence at Sandy Hook today of last night's blow, except the broken bowsprit of the Giralda. C. G. Iselin, aboard the Sunbeam, the defender's tender, said that as far as he knew there was no material damage to

The time allowance under which the Reinnee, Constitution and Columbia have sailed in the preliminary races this year was made today. The Reliance allowed the Constitution 1 minute and 65 seconds and the Columbia 2 minutes and 61 seconds in all races. > MRS. HAYNIE WAS WELL KNOWN. Was Candidate for Elks' Queen-Husband a Dude Walter.

Miss Grace Walton, as a society girl and a stenographer, is well remembered by many people in Portland. On two oc-casions she came within a few votes of being elected Queen of the Elks' carnival. In 1891 but a dozen or so votes at the close of the balloting debarred her from the honor.

Miss Walton was known as a girl fond of good clothes and pleavy of spending

Of H. W. Haynie, the mun who has con fessed to the robberies, less is known in Portland. He came here last Winter from Forest Grove, where his father is town Constable. The family was once extreme-ly prosperous. While in Portland Haynie tried many different lines of work without sticking long to any one of them. For a time be was a waiter in a restaurant on Burnside street, and was afterward employed in the Hub clothing store, on North Third street. Invariably weilon North Third street. Invariably well-dressed and gifted by Nature with good looks, he evidently made a hit with Miss Walton from the first. Until she married, Miss Walton was employed by E. M. Bowen as a stenographer, and the couple are supposed to have first met during business hours. Haynie is 22 years old.

any kind could be procured against him, he was never arrested.

The detectives would like to believe that there is a chance of saddling the numerous hold-ups of this Summer upon the shoulders of Haynie. He answers the description of one of the robbers of the Samourer car, but aside from this and the fact that he had no apparent employment for many days at a time, there is a rather slim case against him. If it is possible, however, to bring him to book, the detectives will leave no stone unturned.

Captain of Detectives Sam Simmons chuckled at the thought of placing the responsibility of the robberles upon the shoulders of Haynie.

"My, wouldn't it be great if we could only prove it?" said he.

Haynie does not answer the description of any of the men who held up the Sellwood car on the night of July it, when Fred Day was shot by a robber. If, however, there is sufficient evidence that he was connected with the robbery of the Vancouver car, the local police will be greatly interested after the Seattle police are through with him.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.-Peace negotiations Miss Walton was known as a girl fond of good clothes and plenty of spending money. She is of a romantic temperament—sentimental, some say—and it is thought by some of her friends that a reading of the famous book "Raffles" inspired her and her young husband to enter upon a course of highway robbery quite without parallel on the Pacific Coast.

Miss Walton had many admirers among the young men of the town, and it was a disappointment to many when she married H. W. Haynie, a man whose apparent income was not sufficient to support her in any particular luxury. They were married by Rev. Charles Haffenden, pastor of the Advent Christian Church, at his residence, on March 28, 1903. The couple went to Scattle several weeks ago, but were seen in Portland less than two weeks ago, apparently prosperous.
