Coroner's Jury Brings Verdict That Jonathan J. Butler Killed Frank Mulkey in Self-Defense.

JUNCTION CITY, Or., Sept. 8.—(Special)—

Frank Mulkey, a young man of this place, was stabbed to death today at 2:20 P. M. by Jonathan J. Butler. Mulkey had for some time been causing trouble at the Butler home in Junction by his attentions to one of the women in the family, and he had been repeatedly warned to desist.

Mulkey, wounded to death, staggered painfully back to the Butler home and called for the woman who had been the object of his attentions, but before she reached him he fell dead.

Deceased was a son of C. C. Mulkey, and is well known here. J. J. Butler is an ex-justice of the Peace, ex-City Recorder, and as a citizen is much respected.

The coroner held an inquest this evening over the remains of Frank Mulkey. The jury rendered a verdict that the deceased came to his death at the hands of J. J. Butler, and that the killing was done in self-defense.

IMPORTED BUGS FOR ORCHARDS

Plan to Rid Jackson County of the San Jose Scale.

JACKSONVILLE, Or., Sept. 8.—(Special)—At the meeting of the Rogue River Fruit Growers' Union held here today, S. L. Bennett, president of the union, was in the chair.

Professor B. R. Lake, botanist and horticulturist of the State Agricultural College, spoke at the meeting and presented a report from a business and scientific standpoint, and showed the necessity of an intelligent selection of stock to meet the demands of the market.

Professor A. B. Cordley, entomologist of the State Agricultural College, called attention to the great good that had been accomplished in California by the introduction of the American Lady-Bird beetle which had cleared the orange and lemon orchards of the destructive Cuckoo scale.

He then spoke of the general distribution of the San Jose scale in this country and the world-wide search that has been made, under the auspices of the United States Entomologist for the original home of the scale, in the hope that some similar Lady Bird might be found to feed upon and destroy it.

The professor said he had succeeded in obtaining the scale in the laboratory and exhibited them at the meeting. The professor stated that he wished to introduce them here if he could find a suitable place where they would not be disturbed by spraying.

The Lady Birds were placed in Peter Britt's orchard, in Jacksonville, and their growth and operations will be watched with much interest.

C. A. RYAN DISAPPEARS

Resident of Wilhoit Last Seen in an Oregon City Bank.

OREGON CITY, Sept. 8.—(Special)—C. A. Ryan, of Wilhoit, Clackamas County, has been missing since Saturday morning, and his family is apprehensive for his safety.

Mr. Ryan left his home at the Springs last Saturday morning, coming to Oregon City, where he cashed a check for $150 on a local bank. Since he neither gambled nor drank, the suspicious of the family that he has met with foul play are strengthened.

His home life was pleasant and his relatives are satisfied that he has been done away with. When he left home he told the members of the family that he would return as soon as he could transact the business that called him to this city.

Ryan is described as a man 5 feet 9 inches high, weight 135, and aged 41 years. He is of light complexion, has sandy hair, light mustache, and when he left home, wore a light coat and vest and dark trousers. He has a brown hat with a leather band.

OYSTER INDUSTRY GROWING

Five Hundred Men Engaged in the Business on Shoalwater Bay.

NAHOOTTA, Wash., Sept. 8.—(Special)—Oyster planting and gathering on Shoalwater Bay is fast growing into a large and profitable industry. Fully 500 men and more than 100 boats are engaged in the business.

The natural beds are south of this place on the bay and at Mena Flats. The bivalves are taken from these beds with dredges, and the larger bivalves where they are sorted, the large or matured are sacked and the young ones are transplanted in beds at Bay Center, Oysterville and Toke Point. These beds belong to individuals and companies, and are growing more valuable every year.

KENNEDY HAS FRIENDS

HILLSBORO CLERGYMAN IS BELIEVED INNOCENT BY THEM.

IT IS ALLEGED THAT MRS. MACKINDER'S SWORN TESTIMONY IS FAR FROM CONVINCING.

FOREST GROVE, Or., Sept. 8.—(Special)—Rev. R. H. Kennedy, who was held in Hillsboro on a charge of burglarizing the Warren home, but has just been released on a bond furnished in the main from here, is far from giving the impression of one who could be a house-breaker, even though the victims claim their despoliation was patiently and well educated. Genuinely he certainly is well educated, too, for he is a Harvard man of the class of '93, and afterward for three years in the divinity school at Cambridge, but anyone who sees his frank glance and feels his hearty handshake will hesitate to believe him a midnight marauder without convincing evidence. And however strong the case made out in the newspapers the prosecution has not yet advanced any testimony which is hardly even raised enough presumption to justify so serious a charge against a man of his high standing.

The prosecuting witness' testimony was that this was the clergyman whom a week or ten days before she had noticed kill a snake. It was not that his position as she looked toward the hallway resembled that of the man who had swung the ax that cut in two the reptile, his hair is noticeably curly was noticed only by her that it was not red, his deep brown eyes might have been brown, or if blue a very dark blue; the derby hat of a size worn by probably one man in three was a very large stiff hat—not one definite description but that first impression as she came back from dreaming and had been "the man who killed the snake."

So her mind pictured him all through the exciting experience which must have extremely affected a woman who was markedly nervous when merely telling her story before a group of attorneys in a lawyer's office, for the taking of her testimony had some of the appearance of a court trial, she seemed falling into a calm mood was shown by her not having noticed the spraining of her ankle, which occurred when she jumped the ten feet from the porch. Barefooted, she ran on the night, and then ran down the middle of the road to a neighbor a quarter of a mile away, then with her companion, and her first statement, two breaths hardly to speak of, she met her companion in the experience, was to gasp "Kennedy."

All through this time she kept firmly in mind that first impression and kept thinking till she recalled the name of the man who killed the snake. This same tenacity to the original impression marked Mrs. Mackinder as a witness, and though she seemed falling into a calm mood was shown by her not having noticed the spraining of her ankle, which occurred when she jumped the ten feet from the porch. Barefooted, she ran on the night, and then ran down the middle of the road to a neighbor a quarter of a mile away, then with her companion, and her first statement, two breaths hardly to speak of, she met her companion in the experience, was to gasp "Kennedy."

Probably the bitterest blow was the betrayal of confidence by Superintendent C. F. Clapp, who visited Mr. Kennedy during his confinement and asked for a confidential statement of his side. This was given under the pledge of secrecy, only to be made public as speedily as the confidential could get to those who were prosecuting the case, and while Mr. Kennedy's case was not yet settled by the district court, he feels deeply the betrayal of confidence by a brother clergyman, especially since the story gained a misleading color in the telling.

It was a happy Sunday at the Kennedy home as the wife and six children were combed back his head, and for them, at least, there are no fears for the future, no misgivings about the outcome of the terrible cloud which for a few days so cruelly separated them.

The preliminary hearing of Rev. R. H. Kennedy, charged with burglary, has been continued. Justice Bagley leaves Wednesday for Walla Walla, Deputy District Attorney E. B. Tongue will be engaged with other matters until after the 15th inst., and Hon. S. B. Huston is investigating the defense, and it has therefore been agreed upon to hold the hearing the early part of week after next.

PIANO DID NOT BURN

Had Been Removed From Hillsboro Dwelling.

MRS. TROMLEY IS ARRESTED

Wife of Tarred-and-Feathered Man Accused of Larceny by Bailor—Was About to Leave Town With Obnoxious Spouse.

HILLSBORO, Or., Sept. 8.—(Special)—The residence occupied by Mrs. Lizzie Gishweiler-Tromley, the wife of the man who was tarred and feathered, burned this morning between 5 and 7 o'clock, and Mrs. Tromley was treated to a coat of tar and feathers, and upon his return was lodged in jail on a charge of threatening to kill.

The firm of H. Wehrung & Son had a chattel mortgage on Mrs. Tromley's household effects, and after the tar-and-feather incident instructed their attorney to collect their claim or sell out the property. The matter dragged along until last week, when Mrs. Tromley and her husband were arrested on a charge of larceny by bailor, and the charge was to remain over his head. They were to have decamped this evening.

As they had not settled the Wehrung claim the Constable went to the house yesterday and notified the woman not to pack up any of the furniture under mortgage. He watched all day and part of the night. As soon as he had gone the valuable piano and other furniture, all mortgaged, was hauled to a barn in East Hillsboro at 2 o'clock this morning. The climax came when a fire alarm was turned in this morning. The house was ruined by the blaze, and several old sofas, bed springs and chairs were visible in the ruins.

When asked where the piano was, she stated to the attorney for the Wehrungs that it had burned, and showed where it was supposed to stand. Pitches were procured, and the entire floor carefully searched, but no wire or other metallic substance could be discovered. This led to an investigation, and the piano and accompanying furniture were found.

Charles Stewart, who knew nothing of the chattel mortgage, stated that the woman had hired him to haul the piano and furniture to his barn, and that she was to pay him $25 for the service of secreting the load and shipping it to her after she had left Hillsboro. The woman was placed under arrest late this afternoon on a charge of larceny by bailor, and her bonds fixed at $500.

The first question Mrs. Tromley asked, after the fire, was whether or not the insurance would cover the property. She was told that the policy had been canceled several days ago, when she was notified to that effect. Although the coal oil can was found in the center of the sitting-room after the fire, no charge of arson has been preferred. Mrs. Tromley alleges she slept in her clothes all night, and gives this as an explanation as to why she was fully dressed at so early an hour.

ROAD SUPERVISORS HOLD OVER

Judge Boise Declines Legislature Dis Not Contented Vancouverites.

DALLAS, Or., Sept. 8.—(Special)—Judge R. P. Boise, sitting in an adjourned term of Circuit Court for Polk County, Department No. 2, today rendered a decision to the effect that Road Supervisors elected in June, 1932, are entitled to hold office until January 1, 1934. The case at issue, that of E. C. Kirkpatrick vs. John Middleton, Supervisor of road district No. 17, has attracted considerable attention in Polk County and elsewhere, not because of the amount involved, but because of legal questions which affected not only the defendant but also every other Road Supervisor in Oregon.

Ever since the passage of the road law by the last Legislature there has been much contention as to whether the law of 1932 repealed the act of 1931, and legislated out of office the Road Supervisors holding under that act. The case of Kirkpatrick against Middleton was brought in order to test this question in the courts.

A few weeks ago Middleton demanded of Kirkpatrick the payment of $3 road poll tax. Kirkpatrick refused to pay the amount, on the ground that he held a legal claim against Polk County for a sum equal to or greater than the amount of the tax. Middleton refused to recognize or accept Kirkpatrick's claim and immediately began an action in the Justice Court. The case was then taken to the Circuit Court for review, the principal contention raised by Kirkpatrick being that Middleton had no authority to sue in the lower court for the reason that the law

DIES IN GREAT AGONY

Mysterious Illness Takes off G. L. McGinnis at Eugene.

EUGENE, Or., Sept. 8.—(Special)—G. L. McGinnis, a Civil War veteran, aged 61 years, died suddenly at his home in this city this morning, and the coroner will hold an inquest tomorrow to determine the cause of death. He was chopping wood in the yard of his residence and about 10 o'clock went into the house and complained of terrible pains. A physician was called and administered to him, but he went into convulsions and died an hour after his first complaint.

The attending physician gives as his opinion that death was caused by neuralgia of the heart.

Indian War Veteran Sues

SALEM, Sept. 8.—(Special)—Attorney-General Crawford went to Portland today to argue for the defense in the mandamus case brought against Secretary of State Dunbar to compel him to issue a warrant in payment of an Indian War veteran claim. The reason the Secretary of State refused to issue a warrant or to audit the claim was that the appropriation had been exhausted and there was no law authorizing the claim.

CRIMES APPEAL TO THE SUPREME COURT

shows a decrease of one in the number of patients at that institution. On July 31 the enrollment was 1332, and during the month of August 1331 were discharged, 2 not improved, 13 died and 4 elapsed. This leaves 1331 in the institution on September 1.

The cost of maintenance was $108,737; salaries, $258,482; total, $367,219; average cost per capita per month, $9.03; per day, 29 cents.

The superintendent reports that the general health of the institution is good, there being no cases of typhoid and no contagious diseases. On August 22 Alexis Borgoin, a patient 30 years of age, was attacked by another patient, Joseph Elias, son, and before the attendant could interfere he had been injured to such an extent that he died. Hansen had always been a quiet patient, and his sudden violence was due to a delusion that he was being murdered. Coroner Clough investigated the matter and decided that no inquest was necessary, as the accident was due to an unavoidable incident of asylum life.

BIOS ON OFFICERS' QUARTERS

LITTLE Lowering of Prices for Fort Stevens Buildings.

ASTORIA, Or., Sept. 8.—(Special)—Bids were opened this morning by Captain Goodale, constructing quartermaster, U. S. A., for the construction, plumbing and electric wiring of six officers' quarters and one double set of Lieutenants' quarters at Fort Stevens. Bids on the same work were asked for and opened some months ago, but all were rejected hold office under the act of 1931 until January 1, 1934. The court holds that it was not the intention of the Legislature in passing the law to abolish road districts or to allow any existing district to occur in the office of Road Supervisor.

The lowest bid received today was only $22,000 less than the lowest of the former bids, so no recommendation was made by Captain Goodale in forwarding the bids to the department, and it is questionable if a contract will be awarded this time. The contractors, however, consider the new bids much lower, as now a great portion of the work must be done during the winter months. The bids opened today were as follows:

C. G. Palmberg, Astoria—Field officers' quarters, complete, $21,341; Lieutenants' quarters, complete, $21,341; Johnson & Anderson, Oregon City—Field officers' quarters, complete, $18,315; Lieutenants' quarters, complete, $23,907; Ferguson & Houston, Astoria—Field officers' quarters, complete, $18,315; Lieutenants' quarters, complete, $23,907. Palmberg and Ferguson & Houston agreed to complete the work in nine months, but in the Johnson & Anderson bid no time was fixed. Bids on the electrical wiring were received as follows: M. J. Walsh & Co., Portland—Field officers' quarters, $31,832; Lieutenants' quarters, $45,830. The Northwest Electrical Engineering Company, Portland—Both sets of other lands, $23,907. The bids were forwarded to the War Department at Washington.

Patents Received at Oregon City. OREGON CITY, Sept. 8.—(Special)—Patents have been received at the Oregon City Land Office in favor of the following persons:

DR. WALKER, 181 First Street, Corner Yamhill, Portland, Or.

Mrs. B. L. Quinn. It is a serious thing for any young woman to undertake the duties of wifehood until she is in perfect physical condition. Her life and habits are entirely changed after marriage and weakness never dreamed of often develops. The excitement of an elaborate wedding often completely upsets her nerves so that menstrual disorders result at the very start. It is then very easy to let the trouble run on until finally, aggravated by the new order of living, chronic menstrual troubles, painful as they are because complicated with bearing down pains, ovarian troubles and periodical headaches. Wine of Cardui cured Mrs. Quinn completely. No testimony can tell better than this letter of the thorough work that Wine of Cardui accomplishes. Wine of Cardui offers the same relief to all women. There is no danger from suffering from an uncertain and risky operation which involves much danger at the best. Wine of Cardui relieves women from so much pain and is such a successful remedy for the ills and irregularities to which women are subject, that every woman should constantly keep it in her home. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles Wine of Cardui.

RELIEF FOR SICK WIVES. No. 211 North Limestone Street, LEXINGTON, KY., May 19, 1905. Soon after my marriage I began to feel my health decline. My appetite failed me, I was unable to sleep and I became very nervous and had shooting pains through my abdomen and pelvic organs, with bearing down pains and constant headaches causing me such misery. The menstrual flow became more and more painful and I became a burden to myself and family, instead of a help and a pleasure. Wine of Cardui cured me within four months. I soon began to feel a change for the better and the time of my next period I noticed a great difference. The pain gradually diminished until I was entirely well. I am stronger and look better than I did before my marriage and there is great rejoicing in the house over the wonders your medicine has worked. Mrs. B. L. Quinn
