Newspaper Proprietor Favors Portland's Big Fair.

WILL PUBLISH FAIR MATTER

Homer Davenport Writes Local Offclais That Syndicate Editors Have Been Instructed to Pay Especial Attention to Exposition,

A letter from Homer Davenport to Jeferson Myers, president of the state Lewis and Clark commission, announce that W. R. Hearst has pledged the sup port of all his newspapers to the Lewis and Clark Exposition. Any matter of in-terest to the fair will be published by the Hearst newspapers, and it is the plan of Mr. Hearst to devote several feature stories to a description of the historical events which give the fair its significance and interest.

It is likely that special artists and correspondents will be detailed by the Hearst syndicate to take up the work of the explorers, Lewis and Clark, and to describe the possibilities of the Lewis and Clark Fair. Mr. Davenport, in discussing this probability, declares that he would like, himself, to come to Oregon and take up the interests of the fair. un the interests of the fair.

Mr. Hearst made his pledge of support to the Lewis and Clark Fair just before he left for Europe, and he promptly in-structed the men in charge of his newsonper enterprises to grant any favors the exposition officials sought. It is inferred from Mr. Davenport's letter that the work on behalf of the Lewis and Clark Fair will be taken up whenever the offi-cials believe it advisable to inaugurate the campaign of publicity.

Mr. Davenport was moved to bring the Lewis and Clark Fair to the attention of Mr. Hearst from the fact that he has always cherished a very close friendship for Oregon. He is deeply interested in the development of this state, and has not lost sight of the fact that he is an Oregon boy himself.

The interest of Mr. Hearst is keener in the fair, perhaps, because his father was one of the early pioneers of the Coast. This is a fact to which, Mr. Davenport says, Mr. Hearst called attention, and he expressed a deep interest in the work of Oregon ploneers. The interest shown by the Hearst syndicate in the Lewis and Clark Fair has encouraged officials connected with the Exposition who have recently been berated for asking the support of the small-er papers published in the interior of Oregon. The press bureau of the state commission has been active in keeping the interior press informed regarding the progress of the fair work, but recently these newspapers, whose districts are di-rectly benefited by the exposition, have refused to publish Lewis and Clark Exposition matter unless paid at regular advertising rates.

Another offer of co-operation was made to the State Commission yesterday by H. J. Wilson, of Roseburg. Mr. Wilson offered to do anything in his power to aid the Commission in gathering an exhibit for the St. Louis Fair and proposed to carry on the same campaign for the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

"The Board of Trade at Roseburg is taking an active interest in the two expositions," said Mr. Wilson yesterday. "They are encouraging the people of our county to prepare to make a thorough display of our resources, recognizing the fact that by this means of advertising the county will be greatly benefited.

"The State Commission is doing a good work and is performing this duty without compensation. It is little enough for the rest of us to co-operate in our own districts where we can aid them without loss of time. This is of great aid to the commissioners and bears its own reward in the return each county gets from its displays."

Corruption in Business and Politics Due to Their Failure.

PORTLAND, Sept. 7 .- (To the Editor.)-Modern business methods threaten pop-ular government and endanger life. If it is true that municipal corruption is the outgrowth of politics, it is equally true that political methods are the methods of business carried in to municipal governments. Evils are tolerated by business men in their city governments because the same evils exist in their busipess; hence the reformation of a city is sure to be dependent upon the reformation of business habits.

One fact is prominent and can hardly scape notice: The wealth, the great enterprises of the country, are for the most part in the hands of Christians. PORTLAND, Sept. 7 .- (To the Editor.) -Your article on "The Troublesome Mis-glonary" contains a great deal of truth, but not all the truth. Missionaries, as a rule are self-denying and zealous, though of course as in every other walk in life there are exceptions, and it is very natural to feel great sympathy for men who for love of Christ take their lives who for love of Christ take their lives in their hands and go forth to teach his gospel. Nowhere are the disciples (or minimonaries) commanded to temain against the expressed wishes of the inhabitants nor to force themselves upon those who are unwilling to receive them; and the punishment of those who reject them is deferred to the day of judgment and not given over to the grape and cannister of the countries from which the missionaries were sent forth.

Pumping Station of City Burned. ITHACA, N. The building was burned to the ground and for a while it was feared that the city would be de-prived of a water supply. Coincident with the fire the city has developed a gushing artesian well which flows 500,000 a day. This makes certain that Ithaca will in only a few weeks have an entirely new water supply which will not need to be filtered and which cannot be contaminated.
