

WOMAN AS SHE IS Physical Decay Due to High Culture, SO SAYS DR. VAN DYKE Beauty and Babies Sacrificed to Overtaxed Brains. LOVE SMOTHERED BY SCIENCE

State Medical Convention Hears Radical Opinions Which Arouse the Anger of Learned Women Doctors.

Causes of Woman's Physical Decay as Seen by Dr. F. W. Van Dyke. "No girls considered cultured unless she has broken her health down trying to learn music, Sanskrit root, Browning and Emerson at some fashionable female college."

The thirtieth annual meeting of the Oregon State Medical Society began yesterday morning at 10 o'clock when President Henry W. Coe called the society to order in the Elks' Hall in the Marquam building and delivered the annual address. He was followed by Mayor Williams, who welcomed the physicians to the city and spoke warmly of the great advances made by medical science in the past few years.

Previous to this Dr. Joseph W. Courtney read an excellent paper on "Osteomyelitis." In the afternoon Dr. Joseph Stenberg addressed the society on "Technique in General Anesthesia," which was followed by a bill discussion. Dr. Franklyn Cauthorn and Dr. Edward A. Pierce followed with a discussion of climatology and pulmonary diseases. Then the X-ray symposium brought forth papers by Dr. Richard Nunn, Dr. George E. Houck, of Roseburg, and Dr. George F. Wilson. The therapeutics of cancer was taken up by Dr. R. C. Coffey and that of the skin and glands by Dr. L. H. Hamilton.

Dr. Coe settled himself down in his chair a little more and a very respectable rustle ran through the hall. Dr. Van Dyke's voice was soberly determined and the words rang out pugnaciously. "At a time when they should be in the open air playing, or at least studying within their limits, girls of a tender age, the doctor went on calmly, "are forced to the utmost effort they are capable of, for unfortunately the curricula of all schools, colleges and universities are no longer constituted to fit the average pupil, but the talented."

Dr. Coe shifted himself down in his chair a little more and a very respectable rustle ran through the hall. Dr. Van Dyke's voice was soberly determined and the words rang out pugnaciously. "At a time when they should be in the open air playing, or at least studying within their limits, girls of a tender age, the doctor went on calmly, "are forced to the utmost effort they are capable of, for unfortunately the curricula of all schools, colleges and universities are no longer constituted to fit the average pupil, but the talented."

raise children, nor should she be brought up in ignorance. A woman with talent or genius should have it developed to the fullest extent, but the constant effort being made to make ordinary ability keep pace with well-developed talent is predestined to failure. Dr. Van Dyke then apostrophized Venus, and threw in a few side comments to other goddesses of good looks. He denounced the modern methods of marriage as calculated to increase a race already degenerate enough and said that the only marital happiness was that due to the union of two healthy people. After another dig at blue stockings he ended: "Penelope, the faithful wife, Corneille, the proud mother whose children were her jewels, Thunseida, the ideal of the ancient German, and St. Elizabeth, the personification of Christian faith and charity, knew nothing of soul yearning, telepathy, psychology and other useless things, but they possessed those womanly qualities which have sent their names down the ages and will continue to do so until the name of the last graduate of Wellesley, Vassar and Bryn Mawr shall have faded from the recollection of men forever."

Dr. Mac Cardwell snorted. It was a perfectly well-to-do, unexceptionable snort, but even Dr. Van Dyke recognized its quality. Dr. Coe got up hastily and mentioned that the laws allowed a discussion which would be opened by Dr. Nicholas Molitor, of La Grande. But aside from a few feeble chirrupings, the men had little to say. There was a large sprinkling of women in the audience and they were some of them extremely pretty and every one of them looked daggers at Dr. Van Dyke. Then Dr. Mac Cardwell got up and intimated that she considered Dr. Van Dyke a heathen. She stated plainly that he was preaching a doctrine of mere physical passion and that women had souls and minds, and a woman was more attractive to a man, that is to some men, men with minds and souls, than a woman without education could ever be and that she did not think men with any sense picked out their wives by their figures and that so far the well-developed kitchenmaid had not usurped the throne in the matrimonial market place. She also said that Dr. Van Dyke's theory about a woman's mind being developed at the expense of her vital functions was nonsense and tommyrot and proved it by words as big, and thunderous as the doctor had used himself. Then the photographer blushed and explained that she was not a beginner and the big words were not to be made with hooks and the naughty ones wouldn't look nice in longhand and Dr. Coe got up and stated that in view of the near approach of the luncheon hour and the limited time, and so forth and so forth.

Papers on Other Subjects. Previous to this Dr. Joseph W. Courtney read an excellent paper on "Osteomyelitis." In the afternoon Dr. Joseph Stenberg addressed the society on "Technique in General Anesthesia," which was followed by a bill discussion. Dr. Franklyn Cauthorn and Dr. Edward A. Pierce followed with a discussion of climatology and pulmonary diseases. Then the X-ray symposium brought forth papers by Dr. Richard Nunn, Dr. George E. Houck, of Roseburg, and Dr. George F. Wilson. The therapeutics of cancer was taken up by Dr. R. C. Coffey and that of the skin and glands by Dr. L. H. Hamilton. "Today 'Nervous and Mental Diseases' will be taken up and a kidney symposium in which addresses will be delivered and papers read by many eminent physicians and surgeons. After this routine business will be transacted and then the sessions will end with a grand banquet at the Hotel Portland. The following were present at yesterday's meeting: Doctors Who Are Present. William Boyd, E. P. Geary, J. B. Eapleson, Seattle; George T. Armstrong, Spokane; C. J. Smith, Pendleton; Mae H. Cardwell, Esther A. Fohl, E. N. Cervick.

Dr. Van Dyke then apostrophized Venus, and threw in a few side comments to other goddesses of good looks. He denounced the modern methods of marriage as calculated to increase a race already degenerate enough and said that the only marital happiness was that due to the union of two healthy people. After another dig at blue stockings he ended: "Penelope, the faithful wife, Corneille, the proud mother whose children were her jewels, Thunseida, the ideal of the ancient German, and St. Elizabeth, the personification of Christian faith and charity, knew nothing of soul yearning, telepathy, psychology and other useless things, but they possessed those womanly qualities which have sent their names down the ages and will continue to do so until the name of the last graduate of Wellesley, Vassar and Bryn Mawr shall have faded from the recollection of men forever."

Dr. Van Dyke then apostrophized Venus, and threw in a few side comments to other goddesses of good looks. He denounced the modern methods of marriage as calculated to increase a race already degenerate enough and said that the only marital happiness was that due to the union of two healthy people. After another dig at blue stockings he ended: "Penelope, the faithful wife, Corneille, the proud mother whose children were her jewels, Thunseida, the ideal of the ancient German, and St. Elizabeth, the personification of Christian faith and charity, knew nothing of soul yearning, telepathy, psychology and other useless things, but they possessed those womanly qualities which have sent their names down the ages and will continue to do so until the name of the last graduate of Wellesley, Vassar and Bryn Mawr shall have faded from the recollection of men forever."

TO BRING BIG CONVENTION DELEGATES OF CHRISTIAN CHURCH OFF TO DETROIT.

All Northwestern States United in Effort to Capture Missionary Convention for 1935. Columbia University Celebrates His Patron's Day. Yesterdays was a day of celebration for the faculty students at Columbia University. It being the feast of St. Michael, the patron of the president, Rev. M. A. Quinlan. The services of the day began with a congratulatory address given by the president, E. F. Fridell in behalf of the students. The president replied with a brief speech, in which he referred feelingly to the generous welcome accorded him and spoke earnestly on the sympathetic relation which, he maintained, should exist between the faculty and the students.

In memory of the eight persons who lost their lives on the British ship Foyleadale, which was wrecked in the early part of the present year after being in Portland for many weeks, an altar was dedicated last evening at the fourth anniversary of the Seaman's Institute. Front and Planders streets. These were Mrs. Helen Phyllis Kerry, wife of the Captain; Alice Kerry, his daughter; W. Sergeant, W. J. Dacre, Alfred George, H. Higginbotham, H. C. Perrin and R. S. Dore.

With the remark that "he didn't want to be tried twice," Grand Commander Thomas A. Wood, of the Indian War Veterans and pension agent extraordinary to the organization, stated preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Sladen, yesterday morning, on a charge of securing fraudulent pension affidavits.

Heavy Investments Will Produce Vast Output of Gold. E. M. Cedarbergh, who has been superintending the operation of a mine near Nome for the past three years for a company of New York capitalists, has "come out" for the winter and will stay here unless he has to make a trip to New York.

More Holidays Coming. Pupils at Highland School Dismissed Because Building Was Unheated. Nearly 500 children were thrown out of school yesterday, when it became necessary to close the Highland school. It was found when school was opened yesterday morning that the heating apparatus had not yet been placed in good working order.

New Trouble for Pulaski. Spirit-Doctor's Banner Is Again Dragged in the Mud. Count P. A. Pulaski, that Polish physician of high degree, is troubled by another charge besides that of robbing a patient of $10. It seems that he did not obtain a license to practice his mystic arts upon suffering mortals. So license collector McEachern got on his trail, and the spirits will have to come to the aid of their disciple this time, for he has gone up against an official of the City of Portland.

Mushrooms Appear Again. The late rains were favorable for starting the fall crop of mushrooms, and many lovers of these delicacies have been getting out early for the past day or two to search in fields and pastures in the outskirts of town for them. Few have found enough to pay them for their trouble, and it is reported that there has not been rain enough yet, and that the ground is as hard as a rock.

Work For Letter-Sorters. The addition to the force of letter-carriers in Portland, which will be effective October 1, has the effect of changing the district of every carrier on the city with two exceptions. These changes will cause considerable extra work on the part of the distributors in the Postoffice, as well as on the part of the mail carriers in the city. The Postoffice is being reorganized and the mail carriers will be reorganized according to carriers' routes before arrival here. If it's a "Garland" that's all you need to know about a Stove or Range.

HE KNOWS THE MAN Calof Identifies Leslie as His Father's Murderer. IS POSITIVE OF HIS GUILT Brought Face to Face With Men Accused of Robbing Him, He Is Sure of One, but Not of Griggs-Direct Charge Today.

By his looks and voice E. C. Leslie has been identified by Nathan Calof as one of the men who fatally shot his aged father, Max Calof, June 22. Calof also believes that Leo Griggs was the second robber who shot his father after attempting to rob young Calof himself. Of Griggs young Calof is not so positive as he is of Leslie. For the first time since the men were arrested, Leslie last Thursday and Griggs in Wasco on Friday, the son of the murdered man gazed upon their faces. After having told the detectives at the time of the crime that he believed Leslie and Griggs, who went by the name of "Doughnuts," were the guilty men, Calof had to wait until yesterday to look them in the face. The identification of Calof was about all the evidence the detectives wished before filing charges of murder against the two men, and this formality will probably be performed today in the State Circuit Court.

ONE TRIAL IS ENOUGH. T. A. Wood, Waives Preliminary Hearing in Pension Fraud Case.

With the remark that "he didn't want to be tried twice," Grand Commander Thomas A. Wood, of the Indian War Veterans and pension agent extraordinary to the organization, stated preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Sladen, yesterday morning, on a charge of securing fraudulent pension affidavits.

The charges which Colonel Wood is facing were preferred by Special Examiner W. A. Pless, of the Pension Bureau, and there is a very strong case against him. Meanwhile an order has been issued by the Commissioner of Pensions forbidding him to proceed in prosecuting the cases on which the complaint is based.

HELMETIA MILK CONDENSING CO. HELMETIA MILK CONDENSING CO. "Evaporated Cream"

Did you ever notice the difference between country milk and city milk? If you have, you will find there is just as much difference between Economy Brand Evaporated Cream and all the other brands. When you buy Evaporated Cream, look for the helmet on the label. You will see no unsatisfactory claim in Economy Brand. It flows smoothly from the can and is pleasing to the eye. Ask your dealer for the helmet brand.

Anti-Pain Pills (Dr. Miles) prevent as well as cure headache, the commonest affliction of mankind. Carry in your pocket.

Armour's Extract of Beef The Best Extract of the Best Beef

Dr. Miles' prevent as well as cure headache, the commonest affliction of mankind. Carry in your pocket. No opiates. Non-toxic. There are no drugs in it. Do not buy cheap imitations. 25 CENTS PER BOX. Never sold in bulk. DR. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

THOSE WHO GET JOBS. City Engineer Makes First Appointments Under Civil Service Rules. A number of appointments in his department were made yesterday by City Engineer Elliott as a result of the recent civil service examinations. The new appointees will take their positions on October 1. Following is a list of the successful competitors: Assistant engineer-George Scoggin, salary $115 a month. Chief deputy-A. M. Shannon, salary $115 a month. Instrument men-D. S. McBride, T. H. Compton, salary $75 a month. Inspectors-George F. Bodman, grade A, salary $100; A. L. Powell, Amos C. Gross, grade B, salary $85; G. Flemming, August Gihloff, W. P. Lilla, Frank Brandt, John R. Carr, John Rankin, grade C, salary $75. Sewer inspectors-M. E. Gordon, E. J. Maxwell, Charles McLaughlin, Martin McCarthy, class II, division C, salary $250 a day; William Braden, salary $100 a month. Bridge inspector-E. B. Elliott, salary $100.

PRICE TOO HIGH FOR SCHOOL. Residents in the neighborhood of East Couch street between East Twenty-seventh and East Twenty-eighth, have for some time been importuning the School Board to build a schoolhouse there. It was finally determined to look into the matter and the building committee were a few weeks ago directed to ascertain what a suitable site in that vicinity could be procured for. They had concluded that at the last meeting of the board and the prices asked for sites rather astonished the members. They asked for prices on the three blocks between East Twenty-seventh and East Twenty-eighth, and for that between East Burnside and East Couch $500 a piece was asked, and for that between East Couch and East Davis the price was $700. These blocks are 30x200 feet, but the board thought the price exorbitant. They had not yet secured the location and price of which may suit the board, but they expect the erection of a building soon.

Price Too High for School. Residents in the neighborhood of East Couch street between East Twenty-seventh and East Twenty-eighth, have for some time been importuning the School Board to build a schoolhouse there. It was finally determined to look into the matter and the building committee were a few weeks ago directed to ascertain what a suitable site in that vicinity could be procured for. They had concluded that at the last meeting of the board and the prices asked for sites rather astonished the members. They asked for prices on the three blocks between East Twenty-seventh and East Twenty-eighth, and for that between East Burnside and East Couch $500 a piece was asked, and for that between East Couch and East Davis the price was $700. These blocks are 30x200 feet, but the board thought the price exorbitant. They had not yet secured the location and price of which may suit the board, but they expect the erection of a building soon.

AN ABSOLUTE NECESSITY. So Think at Least One Traveling Man. I would as soon book of starting out without my mileage books and grip as to start out on a trip without a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in my valise, said a traveling man who represents a St. Louis hardware house. Why? Because I have to put up at all kinds of hotels and boarding-houses. I have to eat good, but indifferent food at all hours of the day and night, and I don't believe any man's stomach will stand that sort of thing without protest; anyway I know mine won't. It has to have something to break the fall, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the crutch I fall back on.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I'm an easy mark for patent medicine fakery, that advertised medicines are humbugs, etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion, while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work which it needs me, and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week, and after standing for this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for a month. Perhaps some of the best investment I could make would be a fifty-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for a month. Perhaps some of the best investment I could make would be a fifty-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for a month.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I'm an easy mark for patent medicine fakery, that advertised medicines are humbugs, etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion, while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work which it needs me, and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

I used to have heartburn about three times a day and a headache about three or four times a week, and after standing for this for four or five years I began to look around for a crutch and found it when my doctor told me the best investment I could make would be a fifty-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for a month. Perhaps some of the best investment I could make would be a fifty-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I have invested about fifty cents a month for a month.

My friends often "josh" me about it, tell me I'm an easy mark for patent medicine fakery, that advertised medicines are humbugs, etc., but I notice that they are nearly always complaining of their aches and pains and poor digestion, while I can stand most any old kind of fare and feel good and ready for my work which it needs me, and I believe I owe my good digestion and sound health to the daily, regular use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, year in and year out, and all the "joshing" in the world will never convince me to the contrary.

Advertisement for Falcon Self-Rising Pancake Flour and Crossett $3.50 Shoe $4.00. Includes images of a man in a hat and a shoe.