Andy Anderson's four-ply swat in the sixth inning with two out and the bases oursting with Browns turned the tables na Lohman's hard losers quickly that the old woman really aged so dreadfully that she had to be assisted off the grounds. Brick Devereaux also lost his temper in the melee and when he had abused Levy until that official benched him, he was not satisfied; he must needs, joined by several others on the team, take a kand in turning loose his billings-gate on several of the Browns because they fell into victory.

The sudden twist to the game cam rather unexpectedly. McKay up to this finning held the Browns down to one meas-ly single. Nadeau got that in the third inning and the game was dragging along until that six chapter which will never be forgotten by those who saw it. Shields was thumped for a double and a single it the opening inning, O'Hars, the first man up, lined out the doublet, and was brought home by Moskiman's single. With this lead and a couple of tight decisions going against the locals and McKay's suerb pitching, the ladies' day matin for the Browns. The big crowd was hall asleep until Francis, Freeman and Hol-lingsworth worked up a corking double play in the third inning that set the lines in Lohman's weather-beaten visage seem about ten inches deeper. It was a pleas ing bit of baseball work and deserved the cheers that came forth. Again in the fifth inning these three players took place in another double, actually the fast-est ever pulled off on the local diamond. O'Hara had been rettred and Moskiman rapped out his second Schwartz came up and he nalled one on the end of his bat that had through or-ders for the left field. Francis flagged its hurricane passage and without wavering a fraction he whipped it to Hollings-worth. Holly with the same speed relayed it to Freeman. The play was so fast and accurate that both Lohman and Devereaux fell on each other's neck and wept tears of anguish.

These two plays keyed up the appetite for what was to happen in the sixth Proncis was wise to the fact that Mar tinke was a very weak sister at third, so he drove a hot one at him and he very promptly fumbled it. Buck Free-man sacrificed him to second, but the best Hollingsworth could do was to fly out to Kruger. Shea knew about Mar-tinke also and he followed Francis' hand, and a second error went against Martinke, Shields helped to win his won game, and he also laid one at Martinke's feet. The scored. Blake placed a nifty single, and Buren by scratching gravel managed to beat a bunt. Shea scored, and city this evening. when McKay walked Nadeau he forced in Shields. The four runs looked mighty When he romped into third, pulled up, Catcher Anderson, seeing that he could beat the throw in, flagged him that the track was clear and he completed the circuit while Gorton was hunting for the completed the complete comp ball near the grandstand.

In the seventh, Lohman's "beefers" managed to sneak in another run, and the Browns furned the same trick in the eighth. The score: PORTLAND

Sensational Letters Introduced at Trial of Farley for "Ringing."

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 8.—The examina-tion of Ed E. Fariey, the Chicago horseman, on the charge of "ringing" the mare Aimless as Sarah Black at the Grosse Pointe running meeting, June 16, was be gun here today. The prosecution created a sensation by introducing two letters secured during a raid on the O'Hara Turf speculation syndicate in that city. In one of the letters, written at New Orleans, in March, 1902, it was said a mare had been secured that could go three-quarters of a mile in 1:13% and that she looked like Sarah Black; that Sarah Black had been put out of the way, and this mare could be entered as Sarah Black at the Roby track and a big killing be made at the expense of the bookmakers. Ground rules were again adopted, allowing three bases for a hit into the overflow in the outfield.

The heavy rain of last night and early morning softened the field somewhat, but this did not seem to handleap the players. as some very fast fielding was done by pitching, and each allowed ten hits. The batting and base-running of Beaumont and the fielding of Parent were features. The visitors scored three runs in the third on Leach's wild throw to first, a base on balls and singles by Dineen, Colline and Stabl. In the fifth they added first by being hit with a pitched ball Ferris' single and Wagner's wild throw to the plate. Their last run came in the seventh. After Freeman had struck out, Parent hit to the ropes for three bases and scored on Lachance's double to left. The Pittsburg players were unable to bunch their hits until the seventh inning, when Sebring and Phelps both made bits. Leever's out at first advanced them one base and both scored on Beaumont's fine single to center. Clark's two-bagger to left scored Beaumont. Leach went out on a fly to Stahl. Dineen then sent Wagner and Bransfield to first on balls, filling the bases, but Ritchie was unable to bring them in, going out, Parent to Ferris, re-tiring the side. Attendance, 11,556. COMING ATTRACTIONS.

"Over Ningara Falls,"

Next week's attraction at Cordray's, which opens Sunday night, should test the capacity of that popular playhouse. The play tells a most consistent story of love, hate averies and expense through which hate, avarice and revenge, through which a vein of comedy runs smoothly. The characters are strongly drawn, and sev-eral are original in their conception. The play is replete with a redundance of startling scenes and thrilling situations of the kind that the average playgoer hankers after—the kind that draws the spectator to his feet and sends a series of chilis chasing up and down his spinal column-a superb mounting, including the most complete reproduction of Niagara Falls ever shown, and numerous mechanical and electrical effects adding to the interest.

NOW UP TO COMMISSION. Alaskan Boundary Arguments Will Be Considered Secretly Monday,

LONDON, Oct. 8.-The arguments in the Alaska boundary arbitration were finished at 3:40 P. M. today. General J. M. Dickinson, of American counsel, concluded with an eloquent peroration, dealing with the bonds of amity between the United States and Great Britain. John W. Foster, the agent for the United States, thanked the British Government in the name of the United States Government for its courtesy. Lord Chief Justice Alverstone paid tribute to Mr. Dickinson, and the ses son broke up.

The closing moments were marked by an intensity of interest hitherto lacking in the proceedings. As Mr. Dickinson fin-ished his reguments and commenced his references to international relations, and the possible effect of the verdict thereon, the members of the tribupal and the other listeners appeared to grasp the true im-portance of the proceedings which had al-most been lost sight of in the puzzling technical details in which they had been The commission will hold its first private reselon Monday to consider the verdict.

The arguments opened with practically no spectators present. General Dickinsor continued his speech for America's un broken claim or title to the disputed coast. Mr. Dickinson made a forcible plea that all the evidence established the fact that the boundary should be Grawn around the Commissioner Dickinson, continuing, contended the correspondence between the governments, which British counsel rely upon to establish their posi-tion, showed that Canada and Great tion, showed that Canada and Great Britain had never formally or otherwise protested against the occupation of inlets by the United States. On the contrary, although all the questions now at issue had been discussed by Canadian officials in their reports, they were not adopted by either the government of Canada or the government of Great Britain, and these questions, though raised in 1886, were not advanced by Great Britain until 1898.

After luncheon Mr. Dickinson took up the question of American military and fiscal occupation of the disputed terri-tory, and quoted many reports of American naval and military officials anent the formal taking over of the territory. "There is no concealment," counsel continued, "everything is above board, but Great Britain never protested against or uestioned these actions." Dealing with the dispatch of Ambassa dor Choate to Lord Lansdowne, which At-torney-General Finlay quoted as evidence against the American claim, Mr. Dickinson said he only wished he had Mr. Choate before the tribunal, so he could explain half the Attorney-General had mis interpreted the meaning of.

"I submit," declared Mr. Dickinson that all these acts of the unquestioned occupation in 1867 cannot and must not be dismissed as worthless, as British counsel contend. I submit that mere accounsel contend. I submit that mere accounsel contend. descence in these acts can be taken as favoring our interpretation of the treaty."

"The tribunal," declared Mr. Dickinson,
"is unique and the treaty will entirely miscarry unless at least one member shall decide against the contention of his own people. The faith thus manifested by the vernments of Great Britain and America that judgment and justice will be exalted above the plane where the sym-pathies have sway, challenges the attention of mankind and distinguishes this tribunal above all others. It does not fol-low that a failure to reach a decision will show that such faith was in any degre misplaced; but, if a settlement is reached it will be a triumphant epoch in history the struggle of humanitarian principles for the substitution of something better than war as the sole court determining international differences. "What could give higher inspiration to those laboring at peace of the world than the settlement of these issues so pregnant of possibilities? If the tribunal should render judgment practically unanimous, it would be the strongest assurance yet given to humanity that Christian nations are tending to the only prac-tical realization of the poet's dream of a parliament of nations and a confederaion of the world."

Mr. Dickinson also paid a tribute to opposing counsel and Lord Chief Justice Alverstone's fairness.

Lord Alverstone said he had heard many leaders of the American bar speak in arbitration and other cases, but Mr. Dickinson's argument equaled anything he had ever heard, and he had not suf-fered by the fairness and impartiality with which he presented his arguments.

Argument in Noted Peter Power Case ST. PAUL, Oct. 8.—Arguments were begun today in the United States Court of Appeals in the case of Camille Weidenfeld against the Northern Pacific road. This is the original Peter Power case, the first attempt made to defeat the merger before it had completed its deal for control of the two railroad systems.

The arguments are made on an appeal by Weidenfeld from the order of the United States Circuit Court through Judge Lochren, dismissing the bill of complaint against the railroad two years ago. The original action was brought to enjoin the Northern Pacific road from retiring $75,-000,000 of preferred stock, the first move in the merger game. The attorneys for Weidenfeld insist that the case involves directly the entire merger question, while the appellee holds it does not.

CONSULS IN THE PLOT. Scheme to Smuggle Chinese Into Philippines Involves Many.

MANILA, Oct. 9, 11:10 A. M .- The contract discovered by Collector of Customs Shuster, in connection with the scheme of bringing in Chinese coolies under the guise of merchants, the unearthing of which has already resulted in the arrest of John T. Miller, an ex-Inspector of Im-migration and the issuance of a warrant or W. D. Ballantyne, contains the following clause referring to the United States Consul at Amoy:

"There shall be deducted from the profits of the firm $45 (Mexican) for the Tao Tai, $50 (Mexican) for the United States Consul, $50 (Mexican) for the secretary to the United States Consul, $5 for Mr. Lang, interpreter." Carl Johnsto is acting Consul at Amoy.

It was reported that the name of Consul McWade, who is stationed at Can-ton, was mentioned as a beneficiary of contract, but Collector Shuster says this is untrue. Collector Shuster says h has evidence connecting several United States Consuls with the scheme. The conspirators have, it is said, already issued many fraudulent certificates under which Chinese have been admitted here
