How Should We Spell It? FORT WALLA WALLA, Wash., Oct.

8.—(To the Editor.)—On page 217 of "The History of the Lewis and Clark Expedition," edited by Dr. Eiliott Cones, we find the name of the bird woman spelled "Sahcajahweah." Dr. Cone's note says: "Her name is usually spelled Sacajawca. out five miles above the mouth of (the Mussel) Shell River a handsome stream of about 50 yards in width discharged itself into the Shell River on the upper side. This stream we call Sahctarge our interpreter, the Snake woman. Lewis D., 131, with "Sahcagahwia" in-terlined in red ink by Clark instead of Crooked Creek." Is it not probable that the "Snake is it not probable that the Snake woman" carried her name with her from her own tride when she was captured, and that we should go to the Shoshone language rather than the Gros Ventre. Why not refer the question to Smithsonian Institution, or the Ethno-logical Bureau, Washington, D. C., for investigation? ED S. GODFREY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.-Police Captain McDermott, with a large number of detectives and reserves, raided Clarendon Hall today and arrested 65 men who are charged with an attempt to pull off a prizefight. The police confiscated the box-ing gloves and ring paraphernalia. All the prisoners gave fictitious names, but it is said that among those arrested were several purilists with reputations. They were taken to the Fifth-street station. It was necessary to break down the door before the police could effect an entrance.

NEW YORK FISHING CLUB TACKLES . AN UNSAVORY CANAL.

Waits for a "School" in an Inky Stream and Catches an Old Hoop Skirt.

August J. Gloistein and several members of the Gioistein Fishing Club went fishing yesterday in Gowanus Canal, in Brooklyn. Inasmuch as it was the first fishing party seen along that sweet-smelling stream whose inky ripples bathe the sides of coal wharves, garbage dumps and gas houses, says the New York Sun, old South Brook lynites at first rubbed their eyes in astonishment and then turned out by the hundreds to enjoy the rare sight.

Charlie Crawley, the sage of the Homard Club, at Sixth avenue and Ninth street, Brookiyn, arranged the trip, but kept very much in the background when the fishing began.

Crawley met Gloistein for the first time several days ago in Gloistein's hotel in Forty-second street. 'I understand that you are something of a fisherman," said Crawley,

"Sure," said Gloistein. "I've got der greatest glub in New York. Efferybody knows dem.'

"That's so," said Crawley, "they are ertainly great."
"By the way," continued Crawley, "have you fellows caught any mackerel lately?"
"Ach, no," said Gloistein. "Ve only

"I'll put you on to something," said Crawley. lyn where there have been several schools of mackerel lately, and the fishing has been great. Nobody is on to it, except a few of us. The stream is so narrow that the school fills up the entire space when it comes in. I caught 92 in 35 min-utes the other night."

"Ach, dell me abould id," said Glotstein Section 1. No exhibit or object upon exhibition may be sketched, copied or reproduced in any way whatever without the perexcitedly, "dell me quick. Ninedy-two in tirty-fife minudes! Ach, dell me undi

"Bring along some of your friends Sunday morning," said Crawley. "Meet me at Hamilton Ferry with some kind of a boat and I will pliot you to the spot. As you have to wait for the schools some time you had better bring refreshments. Gloistein's crowd was at the ferry i time yesterday morning with the club's over from Staten Island. It was well stocked with beer and eatables. Crawley and several of his friends were waiting for them, "Pop" Duval, one of Crawley's friends, added to the excitement by telling how on Saturday the mackerel were so thick in the stream that he scooped them up in a basket and had hard work pulling a row boat through the school.

"When I put me oars in the water," said Pop, "they fairly bit them. The ends of the blades was all chipped." Under Crawley's direction the launch was guided into the canal up as far as

A crowd gathered on the Ninth-street bridge and guyed the fishermen.

"Vait, we had der laugh ven school bens," shouted Gloistein to them. About an hour later Gloistein thought he had a bite. He tried to pull in the line and there was a stout resistance. "Der school! Ded school!" he shouted "I haf der bide! I haf der bide! ould efferybody, loog ould undt pull it

Gloisteln tugged at the line and then something came flashing through the air on the end of the line that showered the crowd with black mud and filled the air with an overpowering smell.

The thing on the hook wriggled as it descended, and Gloisteln threw himself on it bodily. There was great excitement on the deck as Gloistein struggled with his catch, and the crowd on the bridge

"Begorra, we have been fishin' in a sewer," yelled Connolly. "Let's get the boat out av here or we will be shmothere wid sewer gas. Wow! Wow! Will zey shmell av it!"

When Gloistein was disentangled from his line it was found that he had hooked an old hoop skirt. Several cops came along a few minutes

"What are you doing down there?" shouted one of them. "Fishin' for mackerels," shouted back doistein. "Ve are vaiting for der school der oben.'

JUST ONE DAY. How the Coffee Crank Compromises His Health,

Some people say: "Coffee don't hurt me," and then add: "Anyway, I only drink ne cup a day." If coffee really don't hurt why not drink more? There is but one answer, and that is coffee does hurt them and they know it. When they drink it once a day they compromise with their enemy. There are neo ple whom one cup of coffee a day will put in bed, if the habit be continued. "Although warned by physicians to let coffee alone I have always been so fond of it that I continued to use it," confesses an Ohio lady. "I compromised with myself and drank just one cup every morning until about six weeks ago. "All the time I was drinking coffee I had heart trouble that grew steadily worse and finally I had such alarming sensations in my head (sometimes causing me to fall down) that I at last took my doctor's advice and quit coffee and began to use Postum Coffee in its place The results have been all that the doc tor hoped, for I have not only lost my craving for coffee and enjoy my good Postum just as well, but my heart trouble has ceased, and I have no more dizz spells in my head.
