COLD STORAGE OF FRUITS=

PRACTICAL DEMONSTRATION TO BE MADE AT PALACE OF HORTICULTURE AT LOUISIANA PURCHASE EXPOSITION .

The Palace of Horticulture at the World's Fair is almost finished. It is the argest building ever erected at any ex-osition for the reception of fruits and ers. The plans of exhibitors are clenity advanced to warrant the asson that the displays will be far astractive and complete than were astractive and complete than were assembled at any world's fair, this handsome building little else fruits and flowers will find place.

getables will be shown in the Palace Agriculture, which is the adjoining ing on the north. The Paince of iculture is surrounded by beautiful ens, showing the choicest collections out-door plants and flowers, while the conservatories will contain the rarest and most beautiful collections ever exhibited at a world's fair.

The main room of the Palace of Horticulture, which covers an area of four cres, will be entirely devoted to the comological exhibits. This large area is ractically twice the area that has been practically twice the area that has been devoted to fresh fruit exhibits at any exposition, and the floor space is so arranged that all of it is good exhibit space. There are no main alses running through the building, but the space is rut up into irregular sections, with the aisles running in all directions, and by this means the visitors are evenly distributed throughout the building.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

In Several Departments It Is the Best Ever Collected in the State.

ALBANY, Or., Oct. 18.-(Special.)-The great agricultural exhibit for the state of Oregon at the St. Louis Purchase Exposition is rapidly assuming shape under the management of J. R. Douglas, of Albany In some departments the display is compiete, and is pronounced the best ever collected in the state. This is particularly true of the horticultural specimens. fruits The have been picked from the best specimens se-cured in different sections of the state, and have been preserved in specially pre-pared bottles, which show the fruit to the best advantage. Such fruits as apples, that, than everything possible began to happen.

This has been one of the best years in the history, of the valley for all agricultural products, the grain in all cereals was large and pl and the display of these should be above the average, even for Oregon. The collector says the display of corn and po-tatoes is also a little shy. Samples o both these can be saved until the Fair

The latter article is beginning to assume some importance in certain sections of Linn and Marior counties, and growers of it claim they can furnish material for a flax display that will be unsurpassed. This has been a great year for hops, and the collection in the Oregon exhibit accords with this year's butput. In the exhibit are four large bales and 50 small square bales of the finest samples.

It is not yet known whether the will be arranged in Oregon and shipped to St. Louis ready to be put in place, or whether it will be sent to the Fair city and there arranged as it will appear in the exhibit. This will be determined when the exhibit. This will be determined when W. H. Wehrung and Jefferson Myers re-

It is thought that the late murders on Two Medicine Creek were just a starter. It is a fact that many of them go to bed hungry. There is no work to be done whereby they can earn anything, and they grow nothing eatable, as they have not yet learned to do so. ## DISTRIBUTION OF RACE. Hebrew Population of the Several Countries of the World.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.-Professor Haman, of Basel, has written a remarkable article on the present geographical distribution of the Hebrew race, says a Herald dispatch from London. The professor is a leading authority on this subject. He says the Hebrews now number about 10,000,000, of whom a good two-thirds are settled in Europe. Russia contains 5,500,000, Austria-Hun-gard 1,860,000, Germany 568,000, Roumania 300,000, and Great Britain 200,000. Next to Europe comes the United States with 1,000,000. Asia, the original home of the race, contains 250,000, Africa 270,000, and Professor Haman believes that more than 200,000 Hebrews embraced Christianity during the 19th century.

TEN-YEAR-OLD BOY LIVED TWO YEARS IN BAD LANDS.

August Bortheson, of Bozeman, Mont., Finds His Child in Vicious Surroundings.

After two years of life in the North End of Portland, a life which left its marks of premature wisdom upon his little face, Jerome Bortheson, 10 years old, was yesterday returned to his father, August Borth. son, of Hozeman, Mont.

How the youngster came to live two years in the Bad Lands of this city stead of with his father in Montana, is the story of a wife's unfaithfulness, and a mother's strange deed in taking her little son to witness her degradation. Mrs. Bortheson left Bozeman with Jerome two years ago, ostensibly to visit friends in California. As her husband is a well-to-do man of the Montana town, she left me with $4000. She never reached Cali-rnia. The Bad Lands of Portland held out its fascinating arms to her, and for-getting her husband hundreds of miles away, and regardless of the precious charge in her care, she stayed in Portland, and is now regarded by the officers as a woman of the town. Together with little Jerome she has been living in the neighborhood of Second and Burnside streets. The child roamed the Whitechapel district with pleasure. When found yesterday by Officer Hawley, of the Boys' and Girls' Ald Society, he was a weazened, worldly-wise youngster, a gamin of the streets, and disreputable streets at that. But separated as he had been for two years from his father, his childish mem-ory was strong, and he recognized his parent instantly. "Oh, papa, I'm so glad," he cried, and ran to his father's arms.

When seen at the police station Mr. Bortheson had with him another little son, a few years younger than Jerome. Though the kinship was apparent by the features, the life the older boy had led had indelibly stamped itself upon his experience. pression, so while one was an innocent child the other looked like an old man. "And you're glad to find your papa?"

asked Officer Hawley.

The happy little boy snuggled close up to his father's side, and nodded his head

"And you don't want to go back to your mother?" continued the officer.
The suggestion made the lines about his ld-young eyes deepen. He shook head and nestled closer to his father for

Two hours later Mr. Bortheson and his two little boys were seen about the Third-street stores. In place of the little street Arab which had been seen af the police station was a clean, well-dressed boy, new-ly outfitted from heel to crown. Burnside street had been washed off him, and what was left had been covered over with new clothes. Mr. Bortheson returns to Montana today.

Gypsies in a Play

Whenever a wandering band of Gypsies appears suddenly from nowhere and camps in the neighborhood, there are immediate in the neighborhood, there are immediate signs of trouble in the air. Every misdeed that should happen to occur is at once marked down as "Gypsies," and all the mischievous small boys for blocks around have the chance of a lifetime to "let loose," with almost perfect assurance of freedom from detection and punishment. The poor Gypsies are shown in every way that their presence is entirely unwelcome, and sooner or later are visunwelcome, and sooner or later are vis-ited by some important minion of the law, who orders them to move on. Still, these same neighbors will flock to the theater. drawn by wild pictures of romantic Gypsy life such as are portrayed nightly this week by the Neill-Morosco Company at the Baker Theater in Victor Hugo's pow-erful and weird story of the "Hunchback of Notre Dame," and go home again forgetting all about real Gypsies who camped in the grove last Summer, and dream only of the beautiful Esmeralda and her free and careless followers, so full of life, song and laughter.

Portland has always been compar-atively free of the cheap young sport who ogles the women on the street and passes remarks on the passers-by. But a few "muckers" of this class sometimes gather and annoy people by their incivility. A small crowd of them were making game friends of "Garland's Stoves and Ranges.

The "muckers" failed to show that they were affected by the incident, and continued their horse-play.

HER HEADLESS BODY FOUND Mystery Surrounding Disappearance of London Doctor Cleared Up. LONDON, Oct. 19 .- The disappearance of a woman doctor, Miss Hickman, which has been a sensation here for the last two months, has been partially cleared up by the finding of her body in an un-frequented part of Richmond Park. The remains were horribly decomposed, the head having been entirely separated from the body, apparently by the gnawing of rats. Miss Hickman, who was a fully qualifled doctor of medicine, was performing her duties at the free hospital on the afternoon of August 15, when she left the hospital. Since that time the police of the whole country have unavailingly searched for her. She was a healthy woman, 29 years of age, and took nothing with her except a few pounds sterling in cash.

The reason for Miss Hickman's disanearance is a complete mystery. Owing the decomposition of the body and the fact that it was badly gnawed by rats the remains were only identified by means of a medal which Miss Hickman won in a awimming contest and by her ambu-
