Homestead Entries Cannot Be Made

for Other Purposes. OREGON CITY, Or., Oct. 19.-(Special.) -In a recent decision the Commissioner of the General Land Office has held that when the evidence in making final proof tends to show that the person making a homestead entry did so for the purpose of making other use of the land than that contemplated in the homestead act, then such entry is liable to cancellation. J. R. Draper, a local attorney, has just been advised that the Oregon City Land Office has been reversed in a homestead contest case involving these questions. The case decided is that of William N. Yeater vs. Fred F. Prince, of Salem. Yeater contested the final proof of Prince, alleging that the latter did not maintain a residence or make the required improvements on the land. The local Land Office decid-ed that the general land laws had been complied with and accepted Prince's proof. Yester appealed and J. H. Fimple, Assistant Commissioner of the General Land Office, in a decision just handed down, holds that Prince was in fault in making proof and as a consequence the department holds that the homestead it open. But the safe, a steel chest, re- entry is liable to cancellation. In this case one of the witnesses for the vionian contestant testified that it would cost $399 per acre to make the land included in the homestead entry suitable for agri-cultural purposes, and from this representation the Assistant Commissioner concluded that the land was desired because of the timber thereon. MARRIAGE IN A HOSPITAL.

Romance of Two Typhold Fever Patients.

BAKER CITY, Or., Oct. 19 .- (Special.) -C. R. Hall, of this city, and Miss Etta Shepphard, of Portland, were married at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in this city today by Rev. George T. Ellis, of the Bap-tist Church.

There is a very pretty romance back of this wedding. Recently Mr. Hall was stricken with typhoid fever, and Miss Shepphard came from Portland to care for him. He was on the road to recov-

The real object in working up the excursion, however, is to divert O. Three hundred prominent business men are expected from the two Sound cities. Probably over twice this number will take advantage of the trip, but the "200"

He could tell the location of the guards, but did not know how many more there were stationed about, and did not risk interference. He says that after preparing for each explosion, the burglar who had it in charge came out and carefully closed the door behind him. After the last attempt he heard one speak to another, saying: "Come on Bob," and they disappeared around the rear of the building.

Nerve-Racking Ordeal.

The closest and most wide-awake spec tators of the attempted robbery were three young people named Maxfield, two brothers and a sister, from Washington, who are students of the Pacific College, and who have rooms over the bank vault. They were awakened at the first attempt to enter the building, which they was made a little after midnight, when the sciric lights were turned off. They aros and dressed, and listened to work going on below them for over two hours, but had no means of escape except by way of the front of the building, and that was guarded. Miss Maxeld, in speaking of the nerve-racking ordeal to which she had been made a victim, said:

We heard the men enter the bank shortly after midnight. They worked along and we knew that they were in the act of breaking into the vault. Looking out over the street, however, we discovered the men standing guard, and as they were armed we saw it would be folly to attempt to raise an alarm. All we could do was to remain in our apartments and take chances with fate. At 3 o'clock, I should say, there was a loud explosion, and we could plainly feel the building tremble. A little later there was another shock and still another. We thought the bandits would completely wreck the building, so persistent were they in their efforts to open the vault. They certainly were trying moments, and we felt great ly relieved when certain that the bandits had abandoned the task." 1

Arthur Austin was the first to give the general alarm. Having heard the shooting he started out and soon learned the facts.

South of Baker City. BAKER CITY, Or., Oct. 19.-A large body of phonolite, said to be as rich in gold as that found in Cripple Creek, Colo., has been discovered on East Camp Creek. 55 miles south of this city. The discovery was made some time ago by J. H. Grayham and J. W. They have received reports from all sources confirming the fact that it is phonolite. Samples of the ore range in value from $4 to $600 per ton. Phonolite or ringstone, as it is called, is said to exist only in sections where there are very rich gold ledges.

carbolic acid Sanday. Johnson rented a farm of Mrs. John Dickinson in Pleasant Valley, 15 miles from Colfax, and lived with Mrs. Dickinson and her daughter, Miss Minnie Renshaw, aged 18 years, whom he was engaged to marry. It is said they had quarreled and the wedding had been postponed several times.

Sunday morning Johnson asked Miss Renshaw to accompany him to Sunday school, but she said she had rather wait until evening and go to the Christian En-deavor meeting. Johnson went upstairs, wrote a letter to his mother telling her good-bye, asked her to kiss his baby brother, gave directions for the disposition of his personal property, including $40 in his pocket, drank carbolic acid and then coolly walked down stairs, laid down on the sofa near which his sweet-heart was sitting and went into convulsions. Efforts to secure a physician from Thornton proved unavailing, and Miss Renshaw and her mother tried all home remedies known to them, but Johnsön died in a few minutes.

The deceased was the oldest son of Bunyan Johnson, a well-known farmer, and was born and raised in Whitman County. He was industrious and bore a splendid reputation. No cause other than despondency over the love affair is known. Miss Renshaw is prostrated.

BURGLARS FRIGHTENTD AWAY. Attempt to Open the Safe of a

Springfield Mill.

EUGENE, Or., Oct. 19. - (Special.)-Burgiars made their appearance in Springfield last night, where they were folled in two attempts at their trade. At the flouring mill of Washburne & Son they effected entrance and were evidently in a fair way to open the safe when Head Miller Humphrey came in and frightened them away. It was a mere accident that they were foiled at this place. It was about 2 o'clock this morning and ordinarily at that hour nobody is about the mill, but on account of a rush of work has been grinding overtime and the miller was coming at that early hour to start the machinery. When he entered the mill he at once noticed the office door open and on investigation found a steel drill on the floor by the safe and three small holes in the safe door near the combination lock. But the burglars had gone and although Humphrey at once gave the alarm, nothing could be found of them.

An attempt was also made last night to enter the residence of James L. Clark. Mrs. Clark heard a noise and awakened Mr. Clark, who went to the window in time to see some one leave the porch. In the morning it was found one of the windows had been pried open.
