BARRELL TODAY, 3 P. M.—Portland grounds, 24th and Vaughn, Frontal vs. Los Angeles.

CLEARING AWAY DEAD LEAVES.—This is the season when the Street Cleaning Department is kept busy clearing away fallen leaves, and Superintendent Alex Donaldson has his full force out. Sixteen horses and 41 men keep eight corners going in the day and as many at night, and the amount of dust and dead leaves they haul away is wonderful. The loads from the south end of the city are the most numerous; those from the north and east are dumped under the elevated roadway on Northrup street, and the East Side loads are dumped under the elevated roadway along the river on that side. As the leaves have been dry for late, owing to the fine weather, the department has disposed of many and saved much hauling by raking them into piles and burning them. Some object to the smoke, but it is no worse than when these people clean out their yards and woodsheds and burn the rubbish in the street, and they never notice that. As there are 450 miles of improved streets in the city, it is, of course, impossible to clean them all even once a week; and some are not cleaned oftener than twice a year, but an effort is made to clean up the residence district every week, and if householders would get their sidewalks swept off before the carts come around, they would help the department considerably. Some wait till the street has been cleaned up and then sweep the leaves off them into the streets, making them look about as bad as ever. Trees are growing fewer, and the effect is seen on streets where at this season pedestrians used to have to wade to their knees in the dead, dry, falling leaves.

ACTIVITY AT FAIRVIEW.—The fine weather of late has been very favorable for the work of preparing and beautifying the grounds for the Lewis and Clark Exposition. Last week 140 men were employed in the grounds, cultivating, pruning shrubbery, sowing grass seeds, laying water pipes, etc., and the tract is already beginning to make a fine appearance. The thinning out and pruning of trees and shrubbery, the spading of the ground, eradication of weeds and fern, and the final seeding and raking of the slope have produced a really wonderful effect. The work of grading the roadways, a traction engine and two three-wagon teams in hauling material from the mountain side. They are securing more wagons as fast as possible, as they have to be procured from the East by special order, and hope soon to have two five-wagon teams in operation, each team carrying three cubic yards at a load, and by Spring intend to have three such teams, so that there will be one coming, one going and one being loaded at all times. With such an outfit very rapid progress can be made, and as there is a large percentage of cement in the road, it is certain to make satisfactory roads.

GROWS FINE STALKS OF CORN.—William Crow, of North Irvington, who was told on his arrival here that corn would not grow in Oregon, has decided to remain in office several fine stalks of Dent corn, just such as is grown in Nebraska, and which for height, weight and number of ears can hardly be surpassed in the West. This is very gratifying to Mr. Crow, but is nothing new to old Oregonians, who have long known that good corn can be grown here. An Eastern man here on a visit during the Summer was told by a citizen who had nothing to do with farming that corn was not grown here, which in the main is correct, as what is better and says better, but when this man took the visitor down to the coast they saw over 100 corn patches on the way, all thrifty, and the visitor was puzzled to know what his friend meant. If one wants to know what kind of corn grows in Oregon, he should visit a dairy ranch, where ensilage is put up, and see the tall lush corn being hauled in from the field by a string of teams and chopped and packed in the silos. After that he will not say that corn does not grow in Oregon.

MAT NOT LEAVE SEATTLE.—The numerous friends of C. J. Smith in this city, who have been delighted to hear that he was about to return to his old home in Seattle, are likely to be disappointed. Mr. Smith, who has been in the city visiting Mrs. C. H. Prescott, said that, as Mr. Smith's business here would not require his presence more than about half the time, and as they have a home in Seattle, and their children are going to school there, they may decide to remain there for a while longer. They will receive a hearty welcome when they do come.

PIPE Laid FOR CANNERY.—The work of laying a short length of six-inch pipe on North Front street to supply water to the American Can Company's factory was commenced yesterday. The carload of pipe waited for the Portland from Denver and is being distributed along the line. From this it seems probable that the machinery of the factory will be installed before long. Now that water-pipe has commenced to arrive, it will probably begin coming, and the work of laying some eight miles on the East Side will be got under way and kept going on till completed.

FRINGING OF ROSES.—Frederick W. Holman, the well-known rosarian, advises no grower of roses to follow the recently published advice to prune bushes in the Fall. "No one who has been successful in the Fall," said he, "and all the authorities on rose culture are unanimous in agreeing that the Spring is the proper time for pruning. If they are trimmed now, when a spell of warm weather comes in December or January, the buds will commence to send out shoots, and later fruits may kill the bushes."

POLICEMEN WIN MUNICIPAL REWARD.

As a reward for their having found and returned one draft for $200 and another for $500, belonging to one E. J. Doyle, a mining man from Idaho, Police Sergeant Carpenter and Policeman Resting were given a $100 reward by the city. They were passing Sixth and Everett streets yesterday afternoon, when a man standing there asked: "Why don't you officers take charge of that paper lying in the gutter? Somebody must have dropped it." Carpenter picked up the paper, and was proceeding on his way to the police station to report the find, when Doyle, very much out of breath, came up rapidly. He said he heard they had just picked up a paper on the street, and told of his having lost one with two drafts. He gave such a faithful description of the paper and its contents that the police officials thought that the rightful owner had turned up. However, to make sure, Resting, with the drafts in his possession, accompanied Doyle to the bank where the drafts had been issued, and it was established beyond doubt that the drafts belonged to Doyle. Resting for so good. "Now," said Doyle to Resting, "I will now reward you for your trouble. Here is a cigar. Yet stay. Here is also a cigar for the other officer."

STRIPPED THEIR FATHER.—A citizen who took his young sons out for a walk on Sunday came across something at the foot of Fifteenth street which much interested both him and them, but the intention of the father to investigate was rendered unable to explain to them, and their confidence in his knowledge of things was shaken. The objects in question were square blocks of concrete, three and four feet square, each having a large iron ring bolt set in one side, and he asks The Oregonian to inform him and the boys what they are for. The blocks are made for the United States Government, and are intended for anchors to buoy which mark the channel at the entrance of the Columbia river, between the jetty and some in the river. Such blocks made of good concrete are said to be more durable than the solid stone obtainable here, and are cheaper. They are attached to the anchor by an iron chain, and the only way it can get adrift is by the chain wearing out near the anchor by the constant chafing as it is pulled up and down, as the buoy is moved by the rise and fall of the tide and the action of the wind and waves.

PUSH CLUB AT FAIRVIEW.—At a meeting of citizens of Fairview, held Saturday evening at the Columbia Hotel, Napoleon Davis, ex-Police Commissioner of Portland, was elected chairman, and J. Keller, secretary. Mr. Davis in a short address set forth the need of a road to the Fairview, which was to work to build up Fairview. One thing was to provide for a substitution of the Portland Library. Also he spoke of the necessity of extending the Fairview road to the Columbia River through the Smith farm, recently purchased by the Portland Dairy Association. To push the project a committee composed of A. L. Davis, A. L. and Hiram Stone and E. Heslin was appointed and instructed to interview the County Commissioners regarding this road extension. A. L. Stone, Miss Nancy Davis were appointed a committee on constitution and by-laws to report at the next meeting, which will be held next Saturday evening. Some 100 of the business men of Fairview are members.

SHIPS CANNED FRUIT TO GERMAN.—Several cases of dried Willamette Valley prunes packed in tins and canned Hartley, which were to be sent to Germany, yesterday, bound for Germany. They were covered on one side by the following address: "Norddeutscher Lloyd, Hamburg, Germany." The prunes were forwarded via Bremen to Mrs. Alweten Seyd, Alweten Strasse, Welsbaden, Germany. A wealthy German tourist, visiting the city, who has been greatly impressed by the dried prunes and canned fruits of this region, and is sending them home to his wife as a sample of Oregon produce. His wife is a great lover of the canned fruit of Germany, and a large market for canned goods, it is evident that the Oregon goods must be of fine quality to attract such attention. Mr. Seyd, and there is no telling what may be the result of his shipment.

A NEVER-TO-BE-FORGOTTEN trip will be the one to Goldendale, Wash., in the heart of the fertile Klickitat Valley, next Saturday, returning Monday. Leave Portland 7 A. M. on board Regulator Line steamer Bailey Gatzert to Lytle, thence with Columbia River & Northern Railway to Goldendale, arriving 7 P. M. Sunday will be spent viewing the finest farms of the inland Empire and breathing the fragrance of the great pine forests. The route of rail and steamer is replete with the grandest scenery in America. Passengers will leave Goldendale 6:15 A. M. Monday, arriving Portland 4 P. M. Through round-trip tickets will be sold for $2.50. Steamer leaves Alder-street dock. Phone Main 914.

STILL AFTER "BABE" LAYTON.—"Babe" Layton, a woman inmate of a notorious Third-street saloon, will have another hearing today in Municipal Court on a charge of stealing $44.50 from C. Bicker on the night of October 19. The case is being fought by John Moore, the prosecutor, who alleges that the woman is being discriminated against. Last Saturday the woman was arrested for vagrancy, but was released on bail, and the night following Bicker called the police on his charge, and the woman was again arrested.

VAN B. DE LASHMUTT STARTS A DAIRY.—Van B. De Lashmutt is getting his dairy started up in good style in the Hitchcock farm, with 40 cows or a beginning, and as he has 500 acres of fine land there, he is likely before long to show some of the old dairymen some new points in the business. He is now shipping the milk daily to the creamery at Forest Grove. He was in the city a day or two ago, looking for some plow teams, and was congratulated by many of his old friends on his new departure in the business.

BAR DREGGE SOON TO START.—A telegram received yesterday by President Robert Livingston, of the Chamber of Commerce, states that the new dredge Grant will leave San Francisco on November 2. Work will commence on the bar at the mouth of the Columbia as soon as possible, and will continue so long as the weather permits. The message was from Chief Engineer Gillespie, who is in charge of the remodeling of the old transport.

CLEVER COPPING TAX-BOLL.—County Clerk Fields has placed a force of 20 clerks at work copying the tax-rolls for the year 1903 from the assessment-roll just completed by Assessor Charles E. McDonnell. The men occupy rooms in the City Hall, and are under the supervision of J. S. McCord, chief deputy in the Recorder's office. After the roll has been finished, the tax will be extended.

TELEPHONE AT TROUTDALE.—The telephone service has again been placed in Fox's store, at Troutdale, and long-distance communication restored. For some time difficulty with the local union caused trouble, and the telephone was placed out of service.

THE Cells Club, under the direction of Mrs. Ellen Kinsman-Mann, will meet Friday, Oct. 29, at 12 E. Main, in the parlors of Taylor-St. M. E. Church. All members requested to be present. The first cooking demonstration in connection with the Y. W. C. A. will be given Wednesday at 2:30 o'clock at Tenth and Alder streets.

Should not miss the delightful trips up and down the Columbia River, Fairview, Pacific Head, and other points. C. R. & N. city ticket office, Third and Washington.

AT THE THEATERS

EMPIRE THEATER. Leonard and Drake...Comedy sketch James Hennessy...Monologist Al Hazard...Ventriloquist The Three Malverns...Acrobats Conley and Klein...Dancers The Three LaMores...Novelty musicians Arthur Cunningham...Barditone The Volkstras...Hand-balancers

Three scores for Arthur Cunningham's singing of "The Message of the Violet" two scores for the three LaMores' acrobatics, and continuous applause for the sensational feats of the Volkstras—that tells the tale of the Empire Theater's new bill which opened last night. "The show for this week is distinctly worth while, and the good-sized audience which witnessed its first presentation was liberal with its applause. Moreover, the programme deserved it. There are before the public hand-balancers and acrobats without number, but in all the world of vaudeville there are only a few like the Volkstras. Their act is a novelty of nothing that has yet been seen on the Pacific Coast, and formed a striking feature of the show. "The Prince of Plisen" is a clever light opera. "The Message of the Violet" is its next song, and the way Cunningham, the California baritone, sang it last night earned him the earnest hand-clapping of everybody in the house. As for James Hennessy, he is funny. He knows it and the audience knows it, and within a minute after Hennessy's entrance the performer and the people out in front are laughing hard together. Bearing these three features, the honors for the remainder of the bill must be divided between Al Hazard, the ventriloquist, the three Malverns, the ventriloquist, the three Malverns, and the three LaMores. Hazard makes his mannerly entrance in Chinese costume, and his comedy work is excellent. The three LaMores consist of two parents and a captivating jockey about four years of age, who is dressed in Chinese costume, and before the parent is a veritable musician, and before the three have left the stage the audience has heard trombones and bugles, Chinese fiddles and Chinese gongs, violin and a push club, and the show is besides various imitations, including an imitation of a monogerie after dark. The three Malverns are rapid-fire tumblers and acrobats, and their trick act through which they tramp are pursued by a policeman, makes people laugh out loud. Conley and Klein are a new team of sketch artists, and made good on their dancing. Leonard and Drake, another team, made a good act and the audience long for the melodious cut-duet that these performers did last week. Pictures on the Bioscope concluded the performance. Some bill every night until next Monday, with matinee on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday.

ARCADÉ THEATER'S NEW BILL. Clever Spanish Dancer and Comedy Acts Entertain Five Audiences. Yesterday the Arcade Theater presented its new programme for the coming week, and at each of the five performances a good-sized audience was in attendance. One of the best on the bill is the act of Natello Delgado, whose graceful Spanish dance to the music of a guitar, of Castanets, the swish of a silver-braced, black velvet gown, and flashing glances from snappy black eyes the audience found entrancing.

He Did Assault the Prince. DELAWARE, Oct. 25.—The trial of Joseph Delo, the young farmer charged with assaulting Prince Yew, son of the Emperor of Corea, several weeks ago, came up for hearing today. Stout pleaded guilty. Sentence was reserved. Stout's excuse for the assault was that he did not like the Prince's popularity among the American girls.

"In the Heart of the Continent." 11:38 MILES. Of railway east of Chicago, Peoria, St. Louis and the Mississippi River, with returning terminals at New York, Boston and Montreal, are embraced in the NEW YORK CENTRAL LINES. For tickets, information, etc., call on North Pacific Coast Agent, 133 Third Street, Portland, Or. W. B. Jerome, General Agent, 134 Monroe Street, Chicago, Ill.

No route across the continent offers so many attractions as does the Denver & Rio Grande. Write the Portland Agency, 34 Third Street, for illustrated booklets.

HEARTS AFFAIR. "Hearts Affair," the offering for the seventh week of the popular Nell-Morocco Company, is one of those society plays with which the name of Nell is so naturally associated in Portland. The play was written for intelligent and refined audiences, and at this, its first appearance in Portland, has fulfilled every demand that the public taste of fashion can make. Genevieve Haines, the gifted author, is one of America's most successful writers of deep society plays, and "Hearts Affair" is her latest and best effort. She must well understand the heart aches and heart breaks that always linger just beneath all the beautiful gloss and surface sunshine of the social world, for all the scenes and lines are eloquent with the true color and ring of society in all life. The regular Baker prices will prevail, and as "Hearts Affair" is the only play in Portland all week, it will doubtless be greeted every night with large and fashionable audiences.

"Mr. Jolly of Joliet." The largest Monday night house of the season greeted the fourth performance of "Mr. Jolly of Joliet" at Corday's Theater last night. This exhibition is one that has been seen at Corday's this season. The singing is equal to that heard in most comic operas that visit the West, and the comic sayings are in most part entirely new. "Mr. Jolly of Joliet" is an amusing and pleasing comedy. The specialties it dispurses throughout the entertainment are of a high order of excellence. The comedy is well named, for it is a jolly performance, and will continue all week at Corday's, including Saturday matinee.

Haverly's Minstrels. Haverly's Mastodon Minstrels will be the attraction at the Marquand Grand Theater Wednesday night. October 28. Billy Van and Eddie Leonard are with this excellent company.

West's Minstrels. West's Minstrels will be the attraction at the Marquand Grand Theater Friday and Saturday, afternoon and night. The advance sale of seats will open tomorrow (Wednesday) morning at 10 o'clock.

Christing Science Teachers Meet. BOSTON, Oct. 26.—Four hundred or more authorized teachers of Christian Science from various points in the United States assembled today to consider matters with reference to the teaching of this faith in the first convention of the kind ever held. It was decided that the instructors shall hold annual conventions in alternate order at Boston, Chicago and New York. It was decided that the work shall be extended in Canada, Germany and Great Britain with the end in view of strengthening and unifying the teachings of Christian Science.

Pope Not Seeking Protection. ROME, Oct. 26.—It is stated at the Vatican that the report that his holiness is negotiating with the Italian government regarding precautions to be taken to guard him, should he decide to ride in and about the city, is absolutely without foundation.

The play was written for intelligent and refined audiences, and at this, its first appearance in Portland, has fulfilled every demand that the public taste of fashion can make. Genevieve Haines, the gifted author, is one of America's most successful writers of deep society plays, and "Hearts Affair" is her latest and best effort. She must well understand the heart aches and heart breaks that always linger just beneath all the beautiful gloss and surface sunshine of the social world, for all the scenes and lines are eloquent with the true color and ring of society in all life. The regular Baker prices will prevail, and as "Hearts Affair" is the only play in Portland all week, it will doubtless be greeted every night with large and fashionable audiences.

HEARTS AFFAIR. "Hearts Affair," the offering for the seventh week of the popular Nell-Morocco Company, is one of those society plays with which the name of Nell is so naturally associated in Portland.
