BUILD ALONG SNAKE

Lewiston - Huntington Road Seems to Be Assured.

MAY ENTER EASTERN OREGON

Plan of the Company Includes Extension Through Oregon to Northern California--Touches the Seven Devils Country.

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 12.—(Special.)—M. O. Reed, the Colfax attorney, who has been East financing the Lewiston & Owyhee Railroad, gives assurance that the enterprise to open Eastern Oregon and the Western border is a go. Mr. Reed returned yesterday from New York, where he has been for the past ten weeks in the interest of the enterprise. He said today:

"We are receiving bids now, and will start actual work about next March. We have sufficient money now to run us for a whole year, the names of the people who are back of us I cannot give out, but they are men whose standing is such as to assure the success of the road.

"The New York Security & Trust Company is to act as trustee, and the bonds will be issued as the road is completed in sections of ten miles each. The bonds, which are to be 30-year 5 per cent bonds, will be issued about the first of the year, but, of course, will not be delivered at that time.

"For the present we will give our attention to the line between Huntington and Lewiston, a distance of 181 miles. The line from Huntington to Alturas, Cal., a distance of 470 miles, and the one from Lewiston to Wenatchee, a distance of 175 miles, will be after considerations.

"We will build the Lewiston-Huntington line first. This will take about two years. The route between Huntington and Lewiston will be along the Snake River. We will follow the river all the way. It was estimated by our engineer that there were 700 tons of ore per day tributary to this route.

"We will follow the west side of the Snake River, and so will be just across the river from the Seven Devils country. The longest haul from any part of the Seven Devils country will be five or six miles. It will put all the mines in that country on a paying basis.

"In addition to this, we pass right by the Cornucopia, Iron Dyke and Imnaha districts, opening up many valuable sections of the country. The lumber industry along the route will be another source of revenue.

"We will have a fine road, the greatest grade being not more than half of 1 per cent. The road will be a standard-guage steam road."

PRAISES WASHINGTON GUARD.

Major Miller Says He Has Never Seen a Finer Lot of Men.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 12.—(Special.)—The report made by Major Samuel W. Miller, the officer detailed by the War Department to inspect the last encampment of the National Guard of this state, is very creditable to the organization. The report has just been received and is the subject of a general order issued by Adjutant-General Drain today.

Condensed, Major Miller's report is that the encampment was a great success from beginning to end; that the ambulance and hospital corps was efficient, the signal corps was very efficient and entitled to great credit; that the target practice brought good results, and that the encampment site was ideal. But the highest praise is given to the personnel of the Guard. Major Miller says: "The personnel of the Guard is excellent. I have never seen in any National Guard as fine a lot of men physically."

Practically the only criticism of at all adverse character is regarding guard duty, which was not well performed at first, but which showed marked improvement toward the end. At all drilling, close order and ceremonies the troops did very well when under their own officers, but the field exercises showed that in extended order the men soon got beyond good control of their commanders.

The encampment site is recommended for the Government maneuvers if the Government decides to hold a joint encampment of regulars and Guardsmen in the Northwest next year. Major Miller recommends that the Guard be supplied with 520 addicional 30-caliber rifles.

BOISE COMPANY IN TROUBLE.

Receiver Asked for the Payette River Electric Power Company.

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 12.—(Special.)—A bill in equity was filed today in the Circuit Court of the United States by Richards & Haga, counsel for the Mercantile Trust Company, of Massachusetts, praying for the appointment of a receiver for the Boise Payette River Electric Power Company and the foreclosure of certain mortgages held by the plaintiff against the defendant, amounting in all to about $225,000, and which constitute a lien upon the property of the defendant.

The bill sets forth that "on the first day of October, 1903, there became due and payable accruing upon the said bonds secured by the said mortgage and then actually outstanding, the semi-annual installment of interest evidenced by the coupons attached to said bonds, amounting to the sum of $13,250.

"That default was made in the payment of the said interest on said bonds, and the said installment of interest accruing on said bonds, as above stated. That the defendant has wholly failed and refused to pay the said installment."

The bonds referred to aggregated $500,000, of which $350,000 worth have been actually issued, and are now in the hands of bona-fide holders thereof. These bonds, the bill states, were executed on or about October 1, 1901.

The bill in equity is a voluminous document, containing many specifications and exhibits.

LOSE STUBBLEFIELD HOME.

Walla Walla Refuses to Accede to Provisions of the Will.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Nov. 12.—(Special.)—By refusing today on legal advice the appropriation of $10,000 for the proposed Stubblefield Home for the Indigent Widows and Orphans of Oregon and Washington, the County Commissioners of Walla Walla County practically insured the institution going to some other place than here.

By the terms of Joseph Stubblefield's will last year, $125,000 was left for a Home which was designed to care for all the indigent widows and orphans of the two states. Walla Walla was to get the home if $10,000 were donated for a site and building before November 20, 1903.

Both city and county have refused appropriations, and no private aid is in prospect. Many business men regard the Stubblefield idea as impracticable.

Major Evans Visits Washington.

VANCOUVER BARRACKS, Wash., Nov. 12.—(Special.)—Major Robert K. Evans, Adjutant-General of the department, will leave Friday for Washington, D. C., where he will remain for a month. During the temporary absence of Major Evans, Captain David Du B. Gaillard will take charge of the Adjutant-General's office.

ROUSING CLUB INTEREST

WALLA WALLA COMMERCIAL CLUB INVITES MEMBERS.

Business Men Desire to Make Organization More Helpful to the Town's Best Interests.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Nov. 12.—(Special.)—A strong effort to revive the decadent Walla Walla Commercial Club was made today when circular letters were issued to all the business men of Walla Walla inviting membership in the club and setting forth reasons why the business body should be practically a unit in the make-up of the club. Behind the circular is a committee consisting of H. H. Turner, president of the Commercial Club; W. P. Hooper, its vice-president; F. W. Kaser and L. L. Tallman. All are leading business men.

The circular says a membership of at least 300 or 400 Walla Walla business men should be obtained to put the club on a proper basis, while the present membership is about 80. The need of revivification in the Commercial Club is made apparent by the fact that only called meetings are held, and those at very irregular intervals, with attendance not very good in the bargain. The committee also takes up the need of a united, influential organization to handle the problems constantly rising to affect general business interests.

A case in point is the possibility of establishment of trade relations between Walla Walla and Puget Sound. While not specifically mentioned in the circular, members of the committee point out individually that when the recent excursion of Puget Sound business men was here there was no organized body of business men in evidence to deal with them, and that practically all arrangements were between individuals. Other instances, such as promulgating advertising matter for the Walla Walla Valley; are contributing factors toward the rejuvenation.

Behind the story of the present condition of the Walla Walla Commercial Club a condition anomalous among the cities of the state, lies a long story of bitter tribal feud, for the ugly Ankeny-Boxer fight, which has at one time and another convulsed practically every public institution in the town, crept into the business men's organization, too. For a long time natural lethargy seemed to be the inspiring cause; then, when Levi Ankeny's last candidacy for the United States Senate became active, the cry rose that he was using the Commercial Club for political ends, and the organization was regarded as to all intents and purposes Ankeny. It did not play any very prominent part in town affairs.

A short time before the visit of President Roosevelt to Walla Walla and the committees, which had been named through Ankeny influence largely, conspicuously omitted the names of some of the leading anti-Ankeny Republicans, including ex-Governor Miles C. Moore, a Commercial Club election fell due. Suspecting no ill, the Ankeny henchmen remained away, as usual. Many of them were at the theater. When the nominations came, it was apparent that the Boxer element, headed by Banker Miles C. Moore, had completely captured the organization and a set of officers and directors in which one Ankeny man and one Democrat found a place was the result.

Since then the Ankeny people have sedulously refrained from part or parcel in the Commercial Club's affairs. Ankeny is Senator now, and the bitter city and county fights, which, during the past year roused all the enmity dormant in each party, are over for many months. Deep behind the prospective "booming" of the business men's body is a sentiment that when Walla Walla's general interest is concerned there should be no political bias intervening.

If the effort to revive this body is successful, it will be the first of many prospective steps toward the welding together of the sundered Republican factions of Walla Walla County—steps that are actually under contemplation now that Levi Ankeny is safely Senator for six years and that a Presidential election when the best party strength is needed for other purposes.

Movement of Recruits.

VANCOUVER BARRACKS, Nov. 12.—(Special.)—Notice has been received at this headquarters that 34 recruits who were ordered from Columbus Barracks, Ohio, to Fort Lawton, have arrived at that place, from which they will be sent to Fort Skagway to join a detachment of the Eighth Infantry.

Forty-five artillery recruits are on their way to Fort Worden and Fort Casey. Thirteen will arrive at Fort Lipscom at about the same time.

Fred Grunow, who claims to be a deserter from the Ninety-ninth Company of Coast Artillery, stationed at Fort Morgan, Ala., surrendered himself at this post yesterday. He was placed in the guardhouse to await trial.

Mangled Body Found on Track.

DRAIN, Or., Nov. 12.—(Special.)—The mangled remains of a man were discovered this morning about four miles north of here, lying beside the railroad track, by the crew of a helper engine which was returning here from the divide.

Justice of the Peace J. W. Krewson summoned a jury and held an inquest, but found nothing by which the man could be identified. He was evidently of Swedish descent and about 25 years old. He had probably fallen from the brakebeam of the southbound overland train. The remains were buried in the Drain cemetery this afternoon.

Admitted to Oregon Bar.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 12.—(Special.)—John A. Mears was today permanently admitted to the bar upon the recommendation of L. T. Harris, of Eugene.

MRS. SPENCER COMPLAINT

MARSHAL ROUNDS IS ACCUSED OF A FELONY.

Used Unnecessary Force in Attempting to Prevent Discharged Deputy From Working.

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 12.—(Special.)—The case against United States Marshal Ruel Rounds, who was accused by Mrs. George E. Spencer of "assault by means of force likely to produce great bodily harm," was dismissed in Judge Herrick's Court today on motion of Deputy County Attorney Kinyon.

Shortly after the case was dismissed, Mrs. Spencer swore to a second complaint, amplifying the charge by adding that the defendant had attempted to force her from her seat on a high office stool, "with force likely to produce great bodily harm."

The Marshal was rearrested and released on him own recognizance. The hearing on the second complaint will probably be set for tomorrow. It is now claimed by counsel for Mrs. Spencer that the charge set forth in the second complaint constitutes a felony.

The motion to dismiss was made after Judge Herrick had granted the request of counsel for Mr. Rounds for a jury trial on the ground that the complaint stated a misdemeanor, and not a felony.

Mrs. George E. Spencer, the complaining witness in the case, was formerly First Deputy Marshal in the office of Mr. Rounds. She was recently dismissed by the Marshal, whom she accused of grasping her by the arm with unnecessary force in an attempt to prevent her from working on the office books after her dismissal.

The late Dr. J. M. Burt, of Vancouver.

IN COLLEGE TEAMS' CLASS.

Pacific University's Light Team Has Made a Good Showing.

PACIFIC UNIVERSITY, Forest Grove, Nov. 12.—(Special.)—Tomorrow morning the Pacific University football team will leave for Salem, where it will meet the Willamette University eleven in the afternoon. The Salem team is thought to be a strong one, and the local players expect a hard game.

McMinnville College is the only institution which both teams have met this year. Willamette defeated them 27 to 0, while Pacific University succeeded in running up a score of 39 to 0, thus indicating that the teams are quite evenly matched. However, Pacific tied the Oregon Agrics Saturday, which team, according to the games with Pullman, is as strong as the University of Oregon eleven, which overwhelmed the Salem aggregation 37 to 0, and reasoning this way Pacific seems to have considerably the better of it. Sweek, Ward and Waterman sustained injuries in the Corvallis contest, which will keep them out of part of the game at least tomorrow.

Pacific's gridiron stock has risen considerably as a result of the one-sided game with McMinnville and the tie contest with Oregon Agricultural College. Early in the season she was classed with the academic teams, but now she has won a place well up among the college teams of the state. The men are comparatively light, but fast, and would undoubtedly have scored against the heavy farmers upon a dry field.

HAPPENINGS AT SEASIDE.

Wind Does Damage--Candidates for City Election--Saloons Closed.

SEASIDE, Or., Nov. 12.—(Special.)—The wind storm Tuesday night and Wednesday morning did considerable damage. A large window was blown in at P. Lawler & Co.'s store, signs were blown down, and the outbuildings back of W. T. Stephens' drugstore were demolished.

The Seaside Spruce Lumber Company intend to build another mill below the present site. They have more orders than they can fill, and additional facilities are necessary. The new manager arrived from the East Sunday, and Mr. Froslid has been promoted to traveling manager.

The Seaside public schools now employ three teachers. The present schoolhouse is inadequate to meet the increase in membership, and a room in the Methodist Church has been leased. The total membership is 105.

There are a dozen new houses being built at Seaside, mostly by men employed at the mill. Dr. Cliff, of St. Helens, has the lumber on the ground for two new cottages in the grove.

Seaside will hold its annual election on Monday, December 7, at which time a Mayor, four Councilmen, Treasurer and Recorder are to be elected. There are four candidates for Mayor, Dr. C. E. Linton, M. J. Young, A. E. Miller and W. T. Stephens. James Patterson and J. E. Bralier are candidates for Recorder, and Fred Moore for Treasurer. There will probably be about 200 votes cast.

Fishermen have three nets stretched the full width of the Necanicum, which is contrary to law. The law only allows a net to be stretched one-third of the way across the stream. As it is now, the salmon are prevented from reaching the spawning grounds.

The Kendall & Hansen Necanicum cannery is running, and has put up about 500 cases of salmon. They have a contract with Mr. Samuel Elmore to pack from 1000 to 1500 cases.

Contractor Goodin has a force of men at work on the Elk Creek road, brushing it out. The work will be completed about the 1st of January.

Ducks and geese are plentiful at the various lakes and streams, and local hunters have been very successful in bagging a large number.

There is a good demand for real estate at Seaside, and a number of transfers have been made this week. It is reported that R. M. Wooden is contemplating buying the McGuire Hotel property.

At a meeting of the Common Council the front doors of all the saloons have been ordered closed on Sunday, and no profane or obscene language is allowed. There has been a marked improvement in the quietude of the town since the new orders went into effect.

Assistant Physician at Asylum.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 12.—(Special.)—Dr. J. H. Robinett, of Ione, has been elected assistant physician at the asylum farm, to succeed Dr. A. E. Tamieste, who was recently promoted. Dr. Robinett was formerly an attendant at the asylum, and is a graduate of Willamette University College of Medicine. He has been practicing at Ione for several years.

TAKE OF SALMON EGGS

HATCHERIES OF OREGON HAVE BEEN VERY SUCCESSFUL.

Over a Million a Day the Record at the Ontario Station---Racks Carried Away by Freshets.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 12.—(Special.)—The monthly report of Master Fish Warden H. G. Van Dusen, submitted at the meeting of the Board of Fish Commissioners last evening, shows that very successful work is being carried on at all the state fish hatcheries. In a verbal report Mr. Van Dusen said that the racks at Yaquina were washed out by the freshets early this week, but he thinks the fish thus lost can be replaced by others yet in the lower river. The report says in part:

"The hatchery work on the streams tributary to the Columbia River is well advanced and from reports so far received the season is going to be a very successful one and the take of eggs will exceed anything heretofore done by our department.

"At the Salmon River and Clackamas River hatcheries the work of collecting eggs was finished some time ago, as previously reported, and they have now begun to liberate the young fry which were hatched and carefully reared until they reached such a stage that they had either to be fed or liberated, and as we were not prepared to feed them, nothing was left to do but to turn the young fry loose. At the Salmon River hatchery 1,498,000 were turned out during the month into the Salmon River in the immediate vicinity of the hatchery, the first plant having been made October 2; and at the Clackamas River station 705,000 were turned loose in the Clackamas River.

"At the Wallowa River station the take of chinook eggs amounted to 3,707,000. This will be the extent of the chinook work on that stream this season, but with the suckeye salmon, on which they have just begun work, somewhere between 5,000,000 and 10,000,000 eggs will be taken.

"At Ontario 13,675,000 eggs had been secured up to October 31. The first were taken October 14. On October 31 the day's work showed 1,500,000 to have been secured, while for the eight days preceding they had been averaging over 1,000,000 a day; as everything seemed to favor the continuance of the work at this rate for ten or 15 days longer, the complete take will amount to between 20,000,000 and 30,000,000.

"On the Wilson River they got started well and had a prospect for a good season's work, but the freshet that occurred October 4 and 5 was too severe for the racks and carried about two-thirds of them away. The eggs secured up to that time amounted to 839,500; these we will take good care of and hatch out and keep the young fry until they are old enough to care for themselves, when they will be turned out into the Wilson River.

"On the Siuslaw the outlook is very good this season, and if Superintendent Slemmons is able to maintain his racks through the freshets that are now liable to occur, he will make a very fair showing, for up to October 31 he reports having taken 707,250 chinook eggs, with plenty of salmon between the racks.

"At the South Coos River hatchery they had taken 3,080,000 chinook eggs October 31, and from the number remaining on hand between racks Superintendent Smith seemed to think that he could safely count on getting 5,000,000 this season, which is far better than anything heretofore done.

CHECK WAS OF NO VALUE.

H. H. Skews Is Brought Back to Eugene From Pocatello.

EUGENE, Or., Nov. 12.—(Special.)—Constable Jack Smith left here today for Pocatello, Idaho, after a man going by the name of H. H. Skews, who has been apprehended there and is wanted here for passing a worthless check.

Last Saturday evening Skews bought a suit of clothes from Cockerline & Wetherbee. He tendered a check on the First National Bank of this city for $22.10. The price of the suit purchased was $18. The check was signed by A. B. Miller, and was indorsed by H. H. Skews. Skews was given the change.

Skews said that he had been working in a logging camp up the river and the check had been received in payment for services.

The bank Monday morning refused to honor the check, and then the officers were put on the track of the man. He was traced to Portland, where it was learned he had left for Pocatello, Idaho, and the Chief of Police there was notified and arrested the man on his arrival.

VETERAN OF THE CAYUSE INDIAN WAR

OREGON CITY, Or., Nov. 12.—(Special.)—Isaac M. Foster, who died at the home of his son-in-law, F. C. Geer, 249 Tenth street, Portland, November 4, was aged 84 years, 5 months and 27 days, was a pioneer of 1845, having been born in Scott County, Kentucky, in 1819. The deceased was an Indian War veteran, having served against the Cayuse Indians as a private in Captain Maxon's company of riflemen during the uprising of 1848. He also served as a Texas ranger during 1838 and 1839 in the Territory of Texas. He settled in Clackamas County in 1845 and resided in this county until 1882, when he removed to Grant County, where he lived until three years ago. The deceased is survived by four daughters and a son as follows:

Mrs. Eliza Geer, Portland; Mrs. L. H. Strickland, Oregon City; Stephen Foster, Idaho; Mrs. Addie Nelson, Portland; Mrs. Claudie Simpson, Portland, and Mrs. Lenora Nelson, Portland.

The late Isaac M. Foster

Mr. Foster was known in every section in which he held his residence for his extreme hospitality and deep-rooted honesty. Funeral services were conducted at the First Baptist Church in Oregon City, Friday, November 6. The interment was in Mountain View Cemetery.
