CASCADE FOREST RESERVE.

Its Enlargement Not Probable--History of Creation.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Wash-ington, Nov. 22.-It is not at all probable that the Cascade Mountain Forest Re-serve will ever be enlarged by the addition of the lands on the west. Such an enlargement has been recommended a number of times by various individuals or public officials, but eventually every man who so recommended has reconsid-ered, and advanced the opinion that such an addition is individually tectorate over Cuba. an addition is inadvisable

In the recent series of Washington let-ters on forest reserve withdrawais in Oregon, through inadvertence no record was made regarding the recent withdraw-al of a strip of townships on the western limit of the Cascade reserve. The facts in that case are here given, to make the record complete.

The original proposal to enlarge the Cascade reserve on the west was made by Forest Superintendent S. B. Ormsby in a report to Commissioner Hermann under date of December 20, 1897. After discussing various matters pertaining to this reserve, he said: "I recommend the extension of this reserve on the west by the following adthe line of these additions a large amount of valuable timber sufficient for all pur-poses for many years to come. Indeed the same might be said of the additions of two more townships in width, instead of one, as now proposed.

considered it strange that this suggestion should come from those who so recently had been so loud in their denunciation of the policy of annexation.

Mr. Newlands interrupted to say the Democratic party had been always favorable to the expansion of the Republic and not of the empire.

Mr. Platt said that the best interests, both of the United States and Cuba, would be subserved by separate existence. Furthermore, he was anxious that the Cuban people should have an opportunity to show their capacity for maintaining a republican form of government, as he believed them to be so possessed from the beginning. The course of President Palma and the leading men of Cuba had been worthy of all commendation. He did not agree with Mr. Newlands that the United States is today exercising a pro-

"We are," he went on. "neighbors and friends of the Cubans, and nothing more. We are friendly to them and our power has been exercised with reference to Cuba for purposes of friendship and not for aggrandisement.

Lodge Expresses Regret.

Lodge also expressed regret over the introduction of the resolution. Many people of our country, he said, do not understand the distinction between the introduction and the passage of a bill, and if our people do not appreciate this difference the Cubans must have a much smaller degree of understanding. He believed the present debate would be of good service in giving assurance that the bill does not represent the wishes of the Government or the people of the United States. Lodge said that Cuba and the United States each acted toward the other in absolute good faith in all respects. He (Lodge) was opposed to island states.

Spooner gave notice that he wished to address the Senate in opposition to the resolution, and the motion to reconsider the vote of reference went over. Hale then presented the list of Senate committees as agreed on by the caucuses of the Republican and Democratic Senstors.
