

PUTTING ROLLERS

Corvallis Citizens' Rough Treatment of "Apostles."

SCARES ONE INTO MARRIAGE

Crefield, After Removing as Many Feathers as Possible, Accompanies Miss Hurt to Albany, Where a Justice Makes Them One.

CORVALLIS, Or., Jan. 5.—(Special.)—Joshua Crefield and Charles Brooks, the two religious fanatics who lead the Holy Rollers in the recent spasmodic outbreak of religious enthusiasm in which household articles were burned and cats and dogs destroyed, were taken from their lodgings on the east bank of the Willamette at a late hour last night, and plastered with tar and feathers.

About 26 men engaged in the affair, and, according to the best obtainable accounts, they are all Corvallis citizens, and men of respectability and standing. They were not disguised, and made little or no attempt at secrecy. They crossed the ferry to the Corvallis side of the river, and surrounded the Holy Roller house, 200 yards beyond the river. With all their efforts to escape out of four or five stalwart men approached the front door, which they burst in after a loud knock.

They took the two apostles from among eight or ten other members of the sect in the room, and, after recrossing the ferry, conducted them back to the north of the Corvallis sawmill, a quarter of a mile north of the city limits, where the tar and feathers were applied.

The clothing was taken back on the shivering apostles, and they were ordered to leave the community and not return, on pain of a worse treatment. Both men hastened to obey, and hurried away on a run, going north along the Albany road.

A sensational sequel to the affair was the subsequent return during the night of Crefield to the Holy Roller headquarters, and his marriage at Albany this morning to Miss Maud Hurt, one of the leading disciples of the sect, and a young woman of beauty and high character.

Though the whitecappers made no attempt at secrecy, but little was known of the occurrence until late this forenoon. In the main, there is but little condemnation of the proceeding, due to the lack of sympathy for the Holy Roller movement in the community, and to the fact that one or more of the female members of the sect have become next to insane by reason of their pursuit of the Holy Roller system of worship.

It is understood that several of those who took part in the affair have suffered more or less in the family circle as a result of the effect the new faith has had on members of the household or upon relatives.

For some time before the party went to the Beach house, which has become the headquarters of the sect since Mr. Hurt sent them away from his house, they were congregated in little groups about Main street, and the same night they returned to the ferry and crossed, serving notice on the ferryman that they would be back in a few minutes, and adding, ironically, that there would be others in the party on the return. At the house they cut off all avenues of escape and then broke in the door. Present in the room were Brooks and Crefield, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hurt, Mrs. Hurt's sister, Miss Maud Hurt, the Seelye sisters, Miss Bray and others. All were seated about the room, some on chairs and others on the floor.

Some, if not all, were unseated. After the door was burst in the rollers made no resistance. It is now known that they had long expected that such an occurrence might happen at any time, and they were ready to meet it.

One of the members at the house when interviewed this morning said: "I killed Christ, killed the apostles and stoned the disciples to death, and we expect them to do anything with us."

"It is either Heaven or hell, and I am for Heaven."

When ordered to do so, Brooks and Crefield stepped forward, and, after putting on their shoes and hats, were tied together and ordered to pass out. They did as instructed, and with the captives began the march to the ferry. After reaching the Corvallis side of the Willamette, they passed out onto Main street, making no effort to avoid the street lights or passersby, and proceeded to the bridge, a quarter of a mile north of the Corvallis mill. Halting there the men were ordered to remove their clothing, and they promptly obeyed.

"Let us go," said Crefield, but a gruff voice responded: "We have had too much of your kind of prayers already, and without further hesitation the trembling apostle removed his clothing, throughout the whole of the fair Brooks remained atonal, never uttering a word."

The moon shone bright and clear in the eastern sky as the tar and feathers were administered. The silence was unbroken save by the movements of the men or an occasional gruff order or jocular remark. Surveying Crefield earnestly after the feathers had been added to the coat of tar on his body and head, one man remarked: "Well, you would make a handsome Santa Claus, now."

After the tar and feathers had been applied the apostles were required to put on their clothes and were then ordered to leave and never return to the community, and that he had encountered much difficulty in removing them after arrival home.

Later in the night Crefield returned to the Beach house. It is supposed that Frank Hurt followed the whitecappers, and was an unseen witness to the ceremony at the bridge, and that later he overhauled the men in their flight and led Crefield, who had been back to the headquarters. In any event an hour or so after the incident, Hurt applied at a local drug store for a specific for the removal of tar, and secured it, using linseed oil for the purpose.

This morning Hurt came over to town and shortly afterward passed back over the ferry to the Beach house in a lively rig, with himself, his wife, his sister, Maud Hurt, and Crefield, and the carriage and were driven to Albany, where Crefield and Miss Hurt were married, the ceremony being performed by Judge Palmer.

At the Beach house this morning one of the four or five young women there admitted to the reporter that Crefield had come home covered with tar and feathers, and that he had encountered much difficulty in removing them after arrival home.

Bedroom Smelt of Tar. ALBANY, Or., Jan. 5.—(Special.)—Giving off strongly from his person the odor of tar, and with his face and neck red from excessive scouring, Apostle Crefield, chief dignitary of the Holy Rollers of Benton County fame, was in Albany today for the purpose of getting married, and brought his bride-to-be with him. At the County Clerk's office license to marry was issued to F. E. Crefield and Maud Hurt, both of Benton County. The witnesses were Frank Hurt and wife, County Judge H. M. Palmer united the couple, who in company with the bride's brother and wife, spent several hours parading the principal streets of Albany, the cynosure of all eyes.

Crefield looked like he was in trouble, but was not very talkative. He said they would return to the Beach house on the Albany County side of the river, near Corvallis, and take up their residence.

ALBANY PEOPLE WERE RELIEVED TO HEAR THAT THE APOSTLES AND HIS FOLLOWERS HAD NO INTENTION OF LOCATING IN ALBANY.

MYSTERY ABOUT GALE'S DEATH

Two Women Mentioned Before the Coroner's Jury—No Money Taken.

COTTAGE GROVE, Or., Jan. 5.—(Special.)—A Coroner's jury was impaneled this morning to investigate the cause of the death of Fred Gale, who was severely beaten the morning of January 1. The jury, after getting all possible evidence and spending many hours in deliberation, rendered a verdict that Gale came to his death from injuries received from a party, or parties, unknown.

There was a variety of evidence given in. A woman was seen in Gale's room about 2 o'clock New Year's night, and it was supposed that the husband saw her in there and as a result went in and dealt severely with Gale. Other evidence pointed to a woman who has been following Gale years ago, and attempted to take his life, as he positively refused to marry her. This theory seemed hardly plausible, as the woman in question has been absent from here nearly two months.

The jury could get at nothing tangible to show who was responsible for the crime. Robbery, however, was not the motive, for no money was taken, as previously reported. Gale had for the last few months become addicted to drink and under the influence of liquor a great deal. He was a member of the Oddfellows and was buried by that order this forenoon.

The deceased was born in Minneapolis, Kan., was 41 years of age, was a harness-maker by trade, having located in Cottage Grove about three years ago. He had recently sold out and after taking a trip to California, returned to this place and was preparing to open a cigar stand. He was a cripple, having been thrown from a horse when young, receiving injuries to the spine, from which he never recovered, the lower limbs being paralyzed, necessitating his using an invalid's chair as a means of moving about.

MARSHAL USED HIS CLUB.

Suspicious Character With Skeleton Keys Then Left Grant's Pass.

GRANT'S PASS, Or., Jan. 5.—(Special.)—A suspicious-looking character was seen prowling around in the Layton Hotel a few nights ago. The Marshal was notified of the fact and he and the night clerk spent a half hour following the fellow, who dodged into a dark alley on every approach.

The Marshal finally overhauled the man and inhaled him for the cooler for the remainder of the night, but in the morning he was liberated and told to depart, after being relieved of a full set of skeleton keys that he carried. He was seen on the streets the next night and received a clubbing from the officer.

The man then decided to give Grant's Pass a clear berth.

An attempt at burglary was made Sunday evening at the store occupied jointly by the Demaree Music House and Curtis & Co., jewelers. The after portion of the building is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Curtis as a residence, of which fact the would-be burglar was probably unaware. The thief was frightened away before securing anything.

DIRECT NOMINATIONS MEETING

Executive Committee Meets January 12 to Revise Bill and Petition.

OREGON CITY, Or., Jan. 5.—(Special.)—W. S. U'Ren, prominently connected with the proposed initiative and referendum legislation in this state, says the executive committee of the proposed Direct Nominations League will be convened at Portland Tuesday, January 12, when a permanent organization will be formed. The direct nominations bill that has been drafted for submission to the electors of the state through the initiative will be finally corrected at this meeting and a form of petition decided upon for circulation among the people of the state.

The petitions will be vigorously circulated everywhere, and the necessary signatures are sure to be secured before February 1. In time to insure the placing of the proposed law on the official ballot for the consideration of the voters of the state at the regular June election.

City Officials of Vancouver.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Jan. 5.—(Special.)—The new Councilmen met tonight for their first meeting to discuss their business for the year 1904 are as follows: Mayor, L. B. Clough; Councilmen—East Vancouver, D. F. Boddyfelt, re-elected, and J. J. Padden, hold-over; West Vancouver, Owen Mallinor, re-elected, and E. R. Schofield, hold-over; North, Charles McCarty, re-elected, and W. P. Crawford, hold-over; at large, William Tonny, elected; City Attorney, James F. Stapleton; Health Officer, Dr. J. M. P. Chalmers; City Clerk, J. E. Harris.

It is believed quite probable that Mayor Clough will retain Albert Bateman as Chief of Police.

Flagged Train With Matches.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan. 5.—(Special.)—The identity of the young men who flagged the Northern Pacific train New Year's night, and thus gave rise to a supposition of attempted robbery, has been learned by the Thurston County authorities. The men were Louis Bastian, Clinton Inman, Michael Miller, William City, the last named being a former locomotive engineer. All are employees of Perry's mill, near Rainier.

The young men have given the officers a straightforward confession and convinced them that there was no intention to do an injury. They claim that matches were used to flag the train and all are sorry that it happened. It is probable that no arrests will be made.

Increase in Fees for Year.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan. 5.—(Special.)—The following figures on the business of the year just closed have been taken from his records by the Secretary of State: Articles of incorporation filed by domestic corporations during the year 1903, 177; filings by foreign corporations, 179; trademarks filed, 76; boom patents filed by booming companies, 15; marital appointments filed, 58; increase taxed to corporations, 463.

The above aggregated in fees, including miscellaneous filings, copies, etc., $28,651.90, an increase of $255 over the volume of business for 1902.

Pickett Will Case Postponed.

EUGENE, Or., Jan. 5.—(Special.)—The contest over the will of the late George W. Pickett, which was to have been heard today before County Judge Kincaid, has been postponed until the second Monday in February.

The case is based on the competency of deceased to make a will at the time of the making of the instrument filed for probate, and the amount of property involved is about $30,000.

Powell is Wanted in Spokane.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5.—A. J. Powell, a burglar who has been in the city since December 30, was arrested here on a telegraphic advice from the Chief of Police of Spokane. They stated that Powell is wanted there on a forged charge.

EXPORT LOGS PAY A ROYALTY

Experiment Made by a Timber-Cutter for Vancouver Island.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 5.—For the first time since the amendment to the provincial land act became law a boom of logs cut on the E. & N. Railway lands on Vancouver Island paid royalty today prior to transportation to Puget Sound. The royalty was paid according to schedule No. 1 of the amendment and ranged from $1 per thousand feet to $1.50 per thousand feet, according to the diameter of the logs in the boom.

Payment was made by a logger named Cook, who is operating on a section of the E. & N. grant. The boom measured approximately 600 feet.

The seller and exporter of the boom explained that he was merely trying the experiment as an experiment to demonstrate whether or not any profit under the laws of the amended act could be made through selling logs on Puget Sound.

COAL VEIN STRUCK NEAR UNION

In Experimental Artesian Well, Down Nearly 300 Feet.

LA GRANDE, Or., Jan. 5.—(Special.)—At a depth of 292 feet a vein of coal has been struck in W. J. Cowley's artesian well near Union. Just what the depth of cabins this morning with a bullet through his head. He had been missing five days, and it was at first thought he had been a victim of foul play.

The opinion now seems to be, however, that he accidentally shot himself. He went out hunting last Friday. In the evening his dogs returned without him. A search was made, but it was not until today that the remains were found lying in the bushes only a few yards from his home, his rifle lying beside him.

ARMSTRONG ATTORNEYS DALLY

Plan to Delay Case Beyond Time Set for Hanging.

BAKER CITY, Or., Jan. 5.—(Special.)—Judge Eakin approved the bill of exceptions filed in the Armstrong murder case today. The 30 days' time limit within which the case can be taken to the Supreme Court will expire on the 15th inst. The purpose seems to be to delay the case in the Supreme Court as long as possible, possibly to secure an order for a stay of execution, which is set for Friday, January 23.

John Thomas.

ASTORIA, Jan. 5.—(Special.)—John Thomas, who for years has been known as the "Bard of Clatsop," was found dead this afternoon in a field near Warrenton, where he had been for a walk. He had been suffering from heart failure for several months, but was able to be about, and it is supposed this was the cause of his death.

Mr. Thomas was a native of Wales, 52 years of age, and had resided in this vicinity for over half a century. He first settled upon a donation claim on Clatsop county, and later took up a homestead near Seaside, but subsequently selling the latter, he returned to Clatsop, where he made his home until his death. Before coming to this country he served in the British navy. So far as known he was never married, and had no relatives in America. He was a member of the Masonic Order, being one of the first Masons in Clatsop County, was a veteran of the Indian wars, and a member of the Pioneer and Historical Society. His funeral will be under the auspices of those organizations, probably on next Thursday, and the interment will be in the old Pioneer cemetery on Clatsop plains.

Madame E. M. Paget.

BERKELEY, Cal., Jan. 5.—Madame E. M. Paget, wife of the late Professor F. Paget, of the University of California, is dead, just two weeks after the death of her husband. HOLDS MINE WAS NOT SALTED

Judge Decides Case of Englishmen Against Stratton Estate.

DENVER, Jan. 5.—In the case of the Stratton's Independence Mining Company of London against the executors of the estate of the late Winfield S. Stratton, the Cripple Creek millionaire, claiming $2,000,000 damages for the alleged salting of Independence mine before its sale to the English company, Judge Riner, in the United States Court, this afternoon decided for the defendants. The grounds for the defense were:

First—That the sale was made by Mr. Stratton to a company of which he was a member, payment being made in stock, it being held that a man cannot defraud himself.

Second—The mine has produced $10,000,000 in gold since the sale, which is more than the selling price.

Third—The present suit was filed against the executors of the estate before they had qualified.

Fourth—The death of Mr. Stratton before the filing of the suit ended, according to English law under which the company is incorporated, any rights to demand damage the company may have had.

Judge Riner held that any one of the four grounds for defense is sufficient. The attorneys for the plaintiff were given permission to present arguments on a bill of exceptions tomorrow.

Text: There are pile remedies without number, but there is only one cure, and that is the Pyramid Pile Cure, which is in the form of a suppository and is applied directly to the seat of the trouble. Any physician will tell you that for the proper treatment of Piles, nothing can compare with a suppository, whereas the greater number of preparations that are offered to you for the treatment of this disease, are lotions, salves, and ointments. Why? Because they are not so expensive as a suppository, which is bound to contain more costly ingredients, and which requires special machinery to make it; moreover, a suppository inserted up the rectum comes in direct contact with the cause of the complaint, and no other form of treatment does so. Wallace Cookman, Hallerton, P. Q., Canada, writes: "I have had two surgical operations for piles and they were not a success; after using three boxes of Pyramid Pile Cure I feel as though I never had piles, and they have afflicted me for twenty-five years." B. H. Palmer, Windsor, Cal.: "After suffering from piles for fifteen years and trying different salves and ointments in vain, I was completely cured by the use of two fifty-cent packages of Pyramid Pile Cure." "There are thousands of similar letters so to show that pills can be cured, are cured. Cured to stay cured. Cured so they won't come back. Cured without cutting. Cured without danger. Cured without pain. Cured without detention from work. Cured without indelicate examinations. Cured in privacy of home. Cured by self-applied treatment. Cured with very little expense. Cured without the dread and publicity of waiting your turn at the surgeon's office. Cured without a dangerous surgical operation, its period of enforced invalidism, tedious convalescence and heavy expense. You simply buy and apply a cheap and convenient remedy, it does the rest. All druggists sell Pyramid Pile Cure at fifty cents a package, and a full sufferer to write the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., for their little book on "The Causes and Cure of Piles," which is sent free for the asking.
