NO NEED OF "FAKE" NEWS.—This being the dull season, and the weather inclined to be unfavorable for outside work, a friend remarked to one of the reporters yesterday: "I suppose you have to manufacture news these dull times." "It cannot be done successfully," was the reply, "though the temptation is often great. I was cured of trying that scheme many years ago, by the sad mishap which occurred to my friend Billy Boone, a versatile genius, who on one occasion, in order to help fill yawning columns, wrote a flowery account of a funeral of a bodacrier. He being a member of the union and a number of societies, there was a large turnout at his funeral and Billy spread himself on a description of the procession which filled about three columns, not in The Oregonian. He said the carriages required three trips of the ferry boat—the old Stark-street ferry—to cross the river. It turned out that the funeral took place in a little country graveyard somewhere up on Cornhill Mountain, on the road to which there was no ferry, and Billy never heard the last of 'his slip of the pen.' No, it doesn't do to make up news, except under favorable circumstances, as in a case where this same genius, Boone, when he heard the dispatch of 27 birds from The Dalles in regard to a big fire there, extended it to fill two columns—not in The Oregonian—and there were no fatal errors either, that is none that could be proven or for which a correction was demanded." These times telegraphic news is furnished in such style that it is more often necessary to condense than to extend it.

TRAPSHOOTERS HAVE A GOOD DAY.—Sportsmen who went out to the Riverside grounds to shoot bluebirds Sunday say that they had one of the finest trap shoots on record. While it was a very favorable day for duck shooting, it was not so nice for bluebird shooting, as the strong wind sent the clay birds through the air like flashes of lightning. There were 14 members present and some 300 birds were thrown from the traps and a number of remarkable shots made. The participants say trap-shooting is the thing, and that later there will be 20 to 30 shooters on the ground and, when the sport is in full blast, there will be a regular young tournament every Sunday. "Big George" says that following up duck shooting continuously makes a man "nutty" and he soon gets to be good for nothing else. He says he felt it coming on and so is going to take to trap shooting.

SMOKER OF FISH AND GAME ASSOCIATION.—The Oregon Game and Fish Association will this evening hold a business session and at its close will give a smoker to the sportsmen of Portland. Not all of the business was concluded at the annual meeting, which was held some time ago, and the meeting was adjourned to 10 o'clock this evening. The sportsmen will gather in the rooms of the Mining Exchange in the Chamber of Commerce and they will have a chance to listen to some splendid papers which will be read by members of the organization. Dr. E. F. Tucker will read a brief paper on "Field Trials," James A. Taylor, "Upland Birds," and "Game Protection," Dr. N. K. Churchman, "Trout in Oregon," and F. V. Holman, "Amateur Shooting." The association issues a cordial invitation to all sportsmen.

JUST A TASTE OF WINTER.—The sight of two inches of snow on the hills west of the city yesterday morning, and the fir bushes clad in fleecy mantles like Christmas trees heavily trimmed with cotton, gave many a chilly feeling. The weather was not favorable for outdoor work and many contractors suspended operations on street work for a few days, directing their men to have all repairs made ready for work when fine weather comes. Crowds of people were abroad all day, especially after it had ceased spitting snow, and the stores were crowded. Two portable schoolrooms, 32x40 feet, have been completed for the Brooklyn school, and owing to the bad weather no more such buildings will be started at present.

ELECTION AT SACRED HEART CHURCH.—At a meeting of the parishioners of the Sacred Heart Church on Sunday for the following officers and ushers were elected: L. Langenberg, president; P. Warmuth, secretary; Messrs. Thomas Dunn and Friedman, ushers. The expediency of furnishing the handsome church with new pews was suggested, and a liberal contribution was tendered. In the near future, therefore, a beautiful new high altar and pews will be procured for this new church. An elaborate entertainment, given by the young ladies of the Sacred Heart Church parish will soon be put on the spacious and well-furnished stage of the parish hall.

ROBBER CAUGHT AT TARTAR.—A hold-up man, who is evidently new at the business, held up Karl Gronstadt of the U. S. S. Heister, at the foot of East Washington street, last night about 11 o'clock. The man, who pretended to be under the influence of liquor, staggered up to Gronstadt and ordered him to hold up his hands. Kulkus, who immediately did. While the robber had both hands in Gronstadt's front pockets, Gronstadt took the opportunity to hit him on the jaw. Before the robber could discharge himself he was so well satisfied with the beating he received that he ran away and disappeared in the darkness of one of the best-lighted streets in that vicinity.

EVANGELIST ON THE EAST SIDE.—George Robert Cairns, an ex-convict evangelist, has begun meetings in the Second Baptist Church, on the East Side. Services will be held each evening at 7:30 o'clock, and Bible lectures will be given at 3 o'clock every afternoon. Arrangements will also be made for several addresses by him in the Y. M. C. A. building. Mr. Cairns has conducted meetings all over the United States, and has just returned from Great Britain, where he assisted in the Free Mission Church. This finished his tenth tour of the Old World. He will be in Portland about two weeks.

PARENTS' DAY AT Y. M. C. A.—This is parents' day in the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. At 4 o'clock 100 boys will exhibit their skill in the gymnasium classes, games and sports, swimming and diving and water polo. The water polo exhibit will include not only the regular class work, but the best work executed by students, among which is the famous Chateau de Fe and a beautiful dollhouse built in the manual training department.

FELL OFF PORCH.—Gustave Bowman, who lives at 204 Washington street, fell from a porch yesterday afternoon and sustained serious injuries. He was taken at once to Good Samaritan Hospital, but it could not be ascertained last night how seriously he had been crippled. His scalp was badly cut, and his back was wrenched in such a manner that he was unable to support his own weight.

THE SECOND TERM of the current school year at Portland Academy will begin Monday, February 1, 1904, at 8 o'clock A. M. Catalogue may be obtained on request. Portland Academy, Portland, Ore.

COMING HOME BY EAST STAGE.—F. M. Warren, the well-known canneryman, who has been traveling in Europe for several months, accompanied by his wife and daughter, was due to arrive in New York on his return, yesterday. It is understood that he will find his way across the continent by depress spending a short time in Boston, Chicago and other American cities to become re-Americanized, and not arrive here too suddenly. Some veracious incidents of his trip, in regard to his wine lands on the trans-Atlantic steamer, and his life in "gay Paris" published in The Oregonian have been rather extensively discussed by the members of the church of which he is a member, and it is said that he is a little shy about getting home in view of the amount of "joshing" he is bound to have to undergo. This sort of thing, however, is all in the day's work, and it is an old and true saying that if one will dance, he must pay the fiddler.

FRAUD IN SELLING BINDING TWINE.—Collector of Customs I. L. Patterson has received a letter from Secretary of the Leslie M. Shaw, calling his attention to the fact that much Canadian binding twine is being shipped into the country as measuring 600 feet to the pound when in reality it measures from 45 to 500 feet. All binding twine of Canadian manufacture measuring 600 feet and less to the pound is brought into the country without custom charge and, while the Government is not defrauded if the twine measures less than the label declares, the consumer is often the loser, as he pays for something he does not get. No Canadian twine is sold in this city, but the customs officials have been authorized to seize any Canadian twine bearing labels that misrepresent it to the public.

WHEN MITCHELL WAS CITY ATTORNEY.—Times change and we change with them. "Is an old saying," which was recalled to the mind of City Auditor Devlin yesterday, while looking over an old code of ordinances of the City of Portland. The particular ordinance which recalled this old saying was one enacted September 27, 1861, fixing the salary of J. H. Mitchell, then City Attorney, at $1000 a year. During the term Mr. Mitchell has been Senator for Oregon he has probably forgotten that the service of this city at such a salary, which he probably considered a fair salary in those bygone days.

THAT $5-PIECE IS LOST FOREVER.—As was remarked in a paragraph published yesterday in regard to a man who was charged with a $5-piece for a nickel in a street car, there are always plenty of people ready to claim such money. Yesterday there were a number of calls on the reporter who wrote the paragraph, mostly from women, who wanted to know where to find the man who had received the $5-piece. The only answer that could be given was that the name of the man was not known, and as he has no idea where he received the coin, there was no use in discussing the matter.

SEWERS ON THE HEIGHTS CRUSHED.—Obstructions and breaks in sewers usually occur on the lower levels, but now a sewer at Seventeenth and Myrtle streets, on Portland Heights, has been crushed and choked on account of a big fill settling on it.

FIRST SNOW OF WINTER.

Light Fall Melts as Fast as it Falls—More Coming.

The first snow of the season to remain on the ground clothed Portland Heights in a thin, white mantle yesterday morning. This was the case, however, only on the elevated plateaus surrounding the city, the flakes melting as soon as they struck the ground in the main portion of the city. At 9 o'clock last night a snow storm of half an hour's duration succeeded in covering the ground for a few minutes before it melted away. If District Weather Forecaster Beals is to be relied upon, however, no snow of any importance will be looked for, although this is a period of the year when a light snowfall may be expected.

The maximum temperature yesterday was 29, while the minimum was 24. The precipitation was .35 of an inch. The last snow of any importance fell on March 11, when the precipitation was one-half an inch, but this melted immediately. On March 12 two inches of snow fell, part of which remained on the ground for several hours. On January 3, 1903, the last snow storm occurred in Portland. Six inches of snow fell, but drifts in places piled up several feet deep. The storm played havoc with the telephone and electric light wires, and all the arc currents were dead. Travel on many of the car lines was suspended for several hours, and travel between Portland and Vancouver was completely suspended.

A complete blockade between here and The Dalles stopped the O. R. & N. trains, while ice in the Columbia River was running so freely that the steamer Dalles City, after going up the river a short distance beyond Vancouver, was compelled to turn back. On January 2 the snow commenced to fall at 1:30 in the morning, and at 11 o'clock in the morning nearly every street car in the city was snowbound, while by midnight 15 inches of snow lay on the ground. The schools were closed on account of the weather. At about 9 o'clock on the night of January 2 the snow turned to sleet and six inches of sleet fell during the night. January 3 fully 2 inches of snow lay on the ground, but during the night the good old Oregon rain came to the rescue and reduced the snow to 7 inches in depth, and no heavy snowfall has been registered since. Probably the only persons in Portland who wish for snow besides the school children are the liverymen, who will take their cutters down from the rafters to rent to the individuals who are fortunate enough to be able to indulge in the luxury of sleigh riding at $2 per hour.

Fire at Historic Castle.
 LONDON, Jan. 18.—A large part of the historic Knepp Castle at Horsham, Sussex, destroyed by fire last night. Sir Merrick and Lady Burrell, who is a daughter of Walter Winans, of Baltimore, Md., had narrow escapes. The castle contained a number of valuable Van Dykes and Holbeins, only a few of which were saved.

That great laughter-maker, Rich & Harris' "Are You a Mason?" from the German of Laufs & Kratz, and adapted by Leo Dittichstein, was the attraction last night at the Marquam. There was a fair-sized audience present. "Are You a Mason?" is pleasantly remembered from the success which attended its presentation here last season, and on the present occasion there has been such a change in the cast that the rendition is practically new one, although of course the Ananias plot remains the same. Amos Bloodgood, played by Edward Kelle, is the author of the trouble that gives being to the farce, because of his habit of lying to his wife in accounting for his absence from home on sundry evenings. He is fond of a quiet little game of poker, and when Mrs. Bloodgood sternly demands a reason for his continued absence from her society, he tells her that he has been away attending a lodge meeting of the Masons, where he is supposed to be a shining light. The lie serves as a good excuse for years, until one night Frank Perry, his son-in-law, gets mixed up in a street disturbance with George Fisher, and they narrowly escape being arrested. To allay his wife's suspicions when he arrives home at an unseemly hour in the morning, Perry tells her he has been away to a Masonic lodge meeting, and this moment Bloodgood and Perry play at cross purposes with each other, each one thinking that the other is a Mason.

Fresh trouble springs up in the Bloodgood family when Ernest Morrison, a real member of the Masonic fraternity, makes love to one of the Bloodgood girls, and there are most amusing scenes where the counterfeit Masons and the real one meet. Bloodgood also has trouble because he is haunted by the memory of an Evangelist for whom he had a tender passion several years previously, and there are very funny, complex situations until the plot is unraveled and the members of the Ananias society own up to the truth that they are not Masons, after all. William R. Daly is clever and resourceful in his maneuvering, and is ably assisted by Thomas David, Adelaide Wise is a finished actress, and has a firm grip on her comedy lines. The company is a capable one for the attraction offered, and the last performance takes place tonight.

NEW VAUDEVILLE HOUSE.
 Half of Merrill's Cycle Store to be Changed into Theater.

Still another vaudeville theater for Portland. Fred T. Merrill says that it will open in half of his cycle building at 16 to 11 Sixth street, February 19, and will be managed by the Edison Display Company. The theater will measure 50 by 120 feet, and excavation will start on the ground floor in a few days. About three and a half feet will be excavated, so that a floor can be made sloping toward the stage and the ceiling will be improved, about $200 being spent in all on the work. There will be seating accommodation for 75 people, besides boxes and boxes. The new theater will form part of a chain of 13 vaudeville theaters located at different points in the Northwest, and the Edison Theater, as Mr. Merrill's new house is to be called, will first be visited by vaudeville people coming from the East to work in Pacific Coast houses. "I am to manage the vaudeville theaters of our company in this city and Spokane," said Mr. Merrill, yesterday. "We will give continuous performances at the Edison from 2 P. M. to 10 P. M., and the prices will be from 10 cents up. We will give as good a bill as people get at the larger theaters." Although Mr. Merrill did not say so, it is understood that there is a large amount of Seattle capital back of the Edison Display Company.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.
 Marie Walwright as Viola at the Marquam Tomorrow.

That Miss Marie Walwright maintains her popularity as the leading exponent of the highest class of drama, her enormous popular success this season in the revival of Shakespeare's comedy, "Twelfth Night," demonstrates. This famous actress and an excellent supporting company, will appear at the Marquam Grand Theatre tomorrow night in a production of unequalled scenic splendor. Miss Walwright has achieved a positive triumph as Viola. Although she has played all the Shakespearean heroines, Portia, Rosalind, Juliet, in none has her rare talent been seen to better advantage than as Viola. Of all Shakespeare's comedies, perhaps "Twelfth Night" is the most perfect, with various hues of love, serious and mock-heroic. Seats are now selling.

Arcade.
 Howard, Campbell and Rose, body jugglers and muscular ring artists, head a new bill at the Arcade this week. They come here from the Orpheum circuit, and their work is thrilling. The woman acrobat is clever in her trapeze work. The three Kulkus have made themselves favorites in this, their second week, and not only sing and play in two new tris, "Emancipation Day" and "Abena," but finish their act with a graceful dance. Sam and Ida Kelly, a comedy duo, appear in a farce, "Si and Mandy," and dispense fun with a liberal hand. The man is made up as a "Rube," while Miss Kelly first appears as a society girl and then as a type of St. Hopkins. One of their songs is, "We've Got Hayseeds in Our Hair." Homes and Hurlbut, the man in the team appearing in a colored comedian, present an amusing act. Biocope pictures finish the show. Crowds still throng the Arcade.

"A Chinese Honeymoon" on Thursday
 This morning at 10 o'clock the advance sale of seats will open for the musical comedy, "A Chinese Honeymoon," which comes to the Marquam Grand Theatre next Thursday and Friday nights, January 21 and 22 with a special matinee Saturday. The costumes for "A Chinese Honeymoon" are the most gorgeous and expensive of recent productions. The music is the work of Howard Talbot and the book and lyrics by George Dance. The production was staged by Gerald Coventry, who came from London to superintend it.
