

Morning Oregonian

VOL. XLIII.—NO. 13,451.

PORTLAND, OREGON, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1904.

PRICE FIVE CENTS.

BIGGEST IN WEST

Great Creamery to Locate in Portland.

BUILDING IS SECURED

Cream to Come in Refrigerator Cars Long Distance.

TEN TONS OF BUTTER DAILY

Dairy Industry of Oregon Attracts Heavy Investment—Provision Made for Doubling Capacity as Business Grows.

One of the largest and most completely equipped creameries in the world is to be established in Portland. It is to have a capacity of 20,000 pounds of butter a day, and special efforts are to be made to develop the dairy industry of Oregon. It will be 20 times as large as any now in Portland, much larger than any in Oregon and, in fact, the largest west of Lincoln, Neb. Cream will be shipped into the city from a radius of 800 miles until the dairying industry has been sufficiently developed to supply the demand from this state. Every product of the creamery will be supplied from this plant. It is to be established by the Haselwood Creamery Company, which now has plants operating in Spokane, Lincoln, Topeka and Sioux City. The plant in Sioux City is the largest in the world.

The Heywood building, on Fourth and Oak streets, has been leased by the company and will be fitted for the local plant. The lease was closed yesterday and the work of fitting the building for the reception of the machinery will commence at once. It is expected that the plant will be ready for operation by March 1. It will have a capacity of 20,000 pounds of butter a day at first, but the machinery will be so installed that it may be increased to 40,000 pounds at any time that the demand warrants.

Oregon Great Dairy Country. The dairy possibilities afforded by the grass-covered country of Oregon have attracted the attention of the promoters of the company. They believe there is a great field here for the production of dairy articles and that the establishment of a creamery will stimulate this industry until there will be sufficient cream produced in the state to supply one of the largest plants in the world.

The cream will all be pasteurized as soon as it is secured from the cow and then will be shipped to Portland for manufacture into butter, icecream and other creamery products.

Contracts have already been made with dairymen as far as 800 miles away to supply cream for this plant.

Refrigerator Cars to Bring Cream.

This will be a decided change from the methods of the existing creameries, all of which draw their supply of cream from their immediate neighborhoods, and it necessitates a radical change in methods. As soon as contracts now under negotiation for a large supply of cream from all points along the Willamette Valley have been closed, a line of refrigerator cars will be put on the railroad to bring the cream to Portland.

Besides the precaution taken to keep the milk and cream pure and sweet, while in transit from the dairy to the creamery, the plant will be fitted with the latest and most improved machinery. An apparatus is to be installed for the purpose of pasteurizing the milk of the butter department, also the water used to wash the butter.

Will Have Great Pay Roll.

The plant that is now running in Spokane is said to have the largest payroll of any similar institution on the Pacific Coast, but will be small in comparison with the one that will be established here. Portland is to be made the center of the creamery business of the West. The plant will draw from every direction and its products will be sent in every direction. The officers who are at the head of the company in this city are: David Brown, president; George M. Brown, general manager; Thomas Armstrong, sales manager.

CHINESE MUST BE KEPT OUT.

Premier of New Zealand Cables Warning to British Colonies.

MELBOURNE, Jan. 19.—The Federal Premier, Alfred Deakin, after a consultation with the Premier of New Zealand, R. J. Seddon, has cabled to the authorities at Pretoria to the effect that Australia, after an experience of years, is convinced that the prohibition of Chinese labor is imperative in British communities expecting to enjoy responsible self-government.

Premier Deakin added that he was reluctant to interfere outside of Australia, but the Federal Ministry was compelled to express deep apprehension as to the results of the introduction of Chinese labor into the Transvaal. He foresaw grave racial, social, political and sanitary, as in spite of safeguards it was impossible to prevent serious evils.

Premier Seddon has cabled to Pretoria in similar terms.

NOTABLE ROYAL WEDDING.

Lady Greville and Viscount Helmsley Married Before Great Audience.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—Lady Marjorie Greville, daughter of the Earl and Countess of Warwick, and Viscount Helmsley, heir apparent of the Earl of Peversham, were married at Warwick today. The ceremony, which was brilliant, took place in the presence of some 200 guests.

The presents numbered from 500 to 600, and included a diamond and ruby brooch, accompanied by an autograph note, reading:

"To Queenie, on her marriage, with the best wishes for her happiness, from Edward, R. I."

Many Narrow Escapes at Fire.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 19.—The large plant of Michaelovitch Fletcher & Co., on East Pearl street, used as a distillery and for compounding liquors, was burned today. Loss, $250,000. Two firemen were seriously injured by falling walls. Fifty girls and many men employed in the six story warehouse had narrow escapes.

TO BEAT HEARST

Strong Triple Alliance Is Formed.

GORMAN ONE OF THE CHIEFS

His Associates Are McLean and "Boss" Murphy.

WAR ALSO WAGED ON BRYAN

Any Man With Free-Silver Ideas Must Not Be the Democratic Candidate—Move Will Probably Help Party.

POLITICAL CONTESTS.

ANTI-HEARST.—Gorman, McLean and Murphy oppose his nomination as President on the ground that Bryan would dictate his policy.

HEARST.—His latest play is to encourage the organization of a rival to the American Federation of Labor, taking up the grievance of Chicago unionists.

OHIO.—Foster has no fight to make on "Boss" Cox, who desires to be a delegate to the National Convention, but is determined to defeat Roosevelt.

LOUISIANA.—Senator Foster carries the Democratic primaries for re-election; Blanchard appears to have won nomination for Governor.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(Special.)—A new triple alliance has been formed, according to a prominent Democratic politician, who has been at the Capital some time.

The head-centers, to use an old Fenian phrase, of this alliance are Senator Gorman, of Maryland, candidate for President; John R. McLean, of Ohio, capitalist and editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer, and Charles F. Murphy, Tammany chief.

"The first purpose of this combination is to kill off William R. Hearst as a Presidential candidate," said this authority. "Gorman and McLean are ready to scuttie a ship to accomplish this, and have maneuvered to get Murphy into the enterprise, but the Tammany leader has no particular quarrel with Hearst, beyond the fact that Murphy would like to see Judge Parker get the Presidential nomination, and, of course, Hearst's boom interferes with that plan. It was this alliance which kept the convention from going to Chicago, where it was feared the Hearst newspapers would influence the delegates—a silly notion, to my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

Tammany Has Already Paid Hearst. "Gorman and McLean are so thoroughly identified with the gold standard wing of the party that they can make common cause against Hearst or any other candidate with a Bryanite flavor. Murphy is not picking a fight with Hearst, for the latter's papers helped to elect McLean Mayor of New York, when most of the other journals were lambasting him early and late. I am told that Tammany is ready to argue that Hearst thereby merely reciprocated for the Congressional nomination rendered him by the organization. But, anyway, Tammany has no grudge against Hearst, so that Gorman and McLean are pulling him into the fight by telling him a New York man can be named for President, that is, the right sort of a New York man.

"Murphy has been told that if, by any chance, Hearst should be President his Grand-Vicer, Chamberlain, right-bower, or whatever you want to call the man behind the throne, would more likely be William J. Bryan than a Tammany man. The same would be true, if Hearst got no farther than the nomination. Although nominally a New York candidate, he would listen more to Bryan than Murphy, for it would be the Bryanites to whom he would owe his place on the ticket. So the game is to get Murphy into the anti-Hearst alliance, ostensibly to land another New York man, probably Parker.

Field Not Seriously in the Race. "Of course, Gorman will grab the Presidential nomination if he can reach it, and McLean will help him, for there is a close bond of sympathy between these two. The mention of Marshall Field for President or Vice-President is only a part of the plan to distract attention from the Hearst boom. Everybody knows that Mr. Field would not seriously consider the question of running on the Democratic ticket, but it is anything to muddy the waters and injure the Hearst candidacy.

The same politician says that John P. Hopkins, of Chicago, will be Chairman of the National Committee, succeeding Senator Jones, of Arkansas. The selection of a Western man for Chairman will leave the Secretaryship for Tammany, which will demand one of the two places.

HEARST WORKING WITH LABOR

Chicago Row Will Result in the Formation of a New Central Body.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—(Special.)—There is forming in Chicago a new central labor body, a rival to the Federation of Labor, and its promoters hope to spread the movement all over the United States and Canada. The organization will be under the wing of the American Labor Union.

The Western organization, until it is strong enough to strike out for itself.

Nineteen delegates from 18 local unions will meet Sunday to perfect the organization. National officers of the American Labor Union will be present to see that the proper start is made. The new organization will be socialistic in character, and will offer a haven for all dissatisfied labor unions. The socialists, so overwhelmingly defeated at the election last Sunday, are expected to turn their full strength to the new organization.

Followers of William Randolph Hearst are working with much assiduity in the ranks of the new body, and it is pointed out that there is a plan on foot "to ditch" some of the old labor leaders and join forces with the "Democrat-Labor party," on the crest of which Hearst hopes to ride into the White House.

So far the American Labor Union has contented itself with taking part in the older organizations in Chicago alone. After plans are perfected, however, it is said incursions will be made into the ranks of the American Federation whenever and wherever dissatisfaction is found to exist. Retail clerks and metalworkers in this city will be given the first opportunity to desert the Federation and join the new organization, which has a nucleus of about 20 organizations.

AS ROOSEVELT DESIRES.

New York Will Instruct Its Delegates If Support Is in Doubt.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Jan. 19.—Senator Platt, in an interview today, says that if instructions are necessary for the New York delegates they will be made. Asked if it were true that there was considerable sentiment in New York for Hanna, he replied:

"I will answer that by saying that Senator Hanna is not a candidate for the Presidency. I have just had a long talk with him. He will not allow the use of his name. In addition to that, he is for the nomination of President Roosevelt. There need be no doubt on that score."

BRYAN ALARMS DEMOCRATS.

They See He Will Make a Great Effort to Control the Convention.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Jan. 19.—Bryan's declaration for silver and the Kansas City platform has disturbed Democratic leaders here, who feel he is determined to control the convention, or at least make it impossible to adopt a conservative platform or nominate a candidate who would have any strength in the East.

Judge Parker is out in a letter today saying that he supported the Democratic ticket in 1896 and 1900. This is taken to mean that he is bidding for Bryan support.

NO FIGHT TO MAKE ON COX.

Foraker, However, Would Be Glad to Serve Ohio as a Delegate.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 19.—Senator Foraker, when asked here today about George B. Cox's announcement of his candidacy for delegate-at-large from Ohio to the Chicago Convention, said:

"Yes, I read about that in the newspapers, but I do not care to discuss it beyond saying that nobody will question Mr. Cox's right to become a candidate for that or any other honor he may desire at the hands of the Republican party of Ohio. He has been a long, hard and efficient worker in the cause of Republicanism, and nobody will question his privilege to seek any recognition he may wish to receive."

"Do you think he will have any opposition?"

"I do not know as to that. If there should be a contest over the nomination of the candidate for the Presidency that of course would have much to do with the selection of the delegates. In any event, I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"Will you be one of the delegates-at-large?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever the convention is held?"

"I do not know. That is for the convention to determine. We must all abide by its decision. If the Republicans of Ohio should think me worthy of such an honor, I would, of course, be very glad to go. But I believe in the right of Mr. Cox to be voted for in my mind, for what was there to prevent Hearst from starting a paper wherever