

MUST BUILD LINE

Gould Now Bottled Up by Harriman.

PACIFIC TRADE WITHHELD

Missouri Can Get Only What Competitor Desires.

DETECTIVES WERE SPIES

They Declare the Son of the Famous Financier is Behind Salt Lake-Coast Scheme, Despite His Protests.

THE MISSOURI PACIFIC. TERRITORY—The Missouri Pacific Railway traverses Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Louisiana and Illinois; total mileage, 6000; eastern terminal, St. Louis.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(Special.)—The detective bureau of one of the most powerful Western railroads has been working for six months to find out who is behind the Western Pacific Railroad, now projected to be built from San Francisco to Salt Lake City.

Mr. Gould is not backing either of these lines, so far as I know. If he were, and he didn't want it known, it would take three or four detective bureaus to find it out.

So much for the denial. A somewhat similar denial was published early in 1902 with regard to the Western Maryland. It transpired later that Mr. Gould had bought the road. The purchase of the Ann Arbor, West Virginia Central and other small roads in the Virginia were denied by the same people in the same way.

Syndicate Has Money to Burn. The conclusion of one official of the road whose agency reports are in control is expressed about as follows: "Gould and the Rockefeller have advanced $25,000,000 to the Denver & North-western, and about $2,000,000 to the Western Pacific. In all, their advances to the latter are expected to reach $2,000,000 before they get through, and the line will probably be built well toward Salt Lake before they become definitely known as the backers of the road."

Reason Not Far to Seek. The reason is not far to seek. Hill, Harriman and the Rock Island have made the Missouri Pacific a local line in the past two years. The big railroad that has to depend on connections for its Pacific traffic is a big railroad that is going backward. Hill and Harriman have shut the Missouri Pacific in at the North and the Rock Island and Atchison at the South. Now the Atchison is going to be controlled virtually, though not actually, by Harriman and the Rock Island, and the Missouri Pacific is nowhere. That is the reason, and it is a good one. Harriman and Gould tried to do the same thing with the Rock Island. The freaks from the West wouldn't be cornered. They pyramided profits, and built the Rock Island to the Pacific and the Gulf. Now they are trying to do some cornering themselves. Gould, who was foremost in trying to catch them napping, is now compelled to build. He will do it.

Rockefeller is inscrutable as night and death. His name never appears on any official paper. Only a few know his signature. He isn't a director of the Missouri Pacific, but his son is, and so with Hyde and Parmelee. They handle the Rockefeller interests. If any one could find out just how large these interests are in Missouri Pacific and the Gould syndicates, it would stagger Wall Street in all probability. It is really Rockefeller that is doing these things. Two years' income from his investments would complete the Denver & Northwestern from the moment when the first line is

FLOCK TO THE FEAST

SENATOR HANNA VERY LOW.

She remained and sent some dispatches. The news quickly spread that the Senator was sinking, and the number of callers and inquiries, which had come in greater number today than at any time previously, were vastly augmented.

Mrs. McCormick, a daughter, was with her mother in the sickroom much of the day. She, also, accompanied the Senator, who was busy at the telephone answering anxious inquiries from the Capitol and from public officials throughout the city who had been advised by news bulletins of the sudden change, while a large number of others called in person at the hotel. Among these were Senator Lodge, Postmaster-General Payne, Commissioner of Corporations Garfield and General Charles D. Smith.

Mrs. Roosevelt With Mrs. Hanna. The President and Mrs. Roosevelt called during the afternoon. Mrs. Roosevelt called Mrs. Hanna, who the doctors, at noon, announced an improved temperature. The President called later, and remained in the Senator's apartments nearly half an hour. He was fully advised of the condition of the Senator at that hour. He had not been gone long when the change occurred.

The constant attendance occasioned by the Senator's critical illness, has been a severe strain on the physicians, and especially on Dr. Carter. Dr. Carter was so much exhausted tonight that Dr. Fletcher, of Baltimore, the assistant of Dr. Osler, came over to spend the night, and relieve Dr. Carter of the watch over the Senator.

Shortly before 7 o'clock, Mr. Dover announced that the Senator had recovered consciousness sometime before, and said he had tried several times to speak to Dr. Osler, but was too weak. The doctors asked him to try to get up, but the application of the oxygen by taking deep breaths. He did as directed, thus showing he fully understood what was said. It was also announced that the heart action was better, and that the temperature had lowered. A little later, it was announced that the patient had taken a little nourishment including some diluted whisky and had retained it.

Senator Hanna, as the night wore on, continued at least to hold the rally he had shown, and at 11 o'clock the doctors said the indications are that the Senator would have a quiet and comfortable night. They said that he, at that hour, was resting without any artificial aid, but oxygen, in slight and diminishing doses, was being given at intervals of 15 minutes. They said the bulletin issued at 11 o'clock would be the last for the night, but that if any unusual occurrence followed, it would be reported.

Chill is Unusual. The physicians say the chill from which the Senator suffered is quite unusual in typhoid cases, and has but few precedents. It does not follow, they say, the usual course of the disease, and for this reason they are inclined to hope there may not be further trouble from this source.

A pathetic feature of Senator Hanna's illness is the receipt of a number of telegrams of condolence which his family received, based on reports of his death, which have been printed in the East and West. At 11 o'clock, President Roosevelt sent a personal message of inquiry as to Senator Hanna's condition. He was furnished a copy of the 11 o'clock bulletin by the physician with the additional information that the Senator's condition at midnight was practically the same as before the chill.

Ohio Clubs Hear Hanna is Worse Just as Roosevelt is Indorsed. CLEVELAND, Feb. 12.—A dramatic scene occurred at the convention of the Ohio League of Republican Clubs this afternoon, connecting, as it did, the Presidential indorsement of the League and the critical condition of Senator Hanna. A spirited fight had been precipitated by the report of the committee on resolutions indorsing the candidacy of President Roosevelt for nomination.

Amid much confusion the Roosevelt resolution was finally adopted, only Montgomery County dissenting. At this moment Governor Herrick arose on the platform and in a voice choking with emotion read a telegram from Washington announcing the death of Senator Hanna, and that it was feared his condition was hopeless.

Deathlike stillness followed when the Governor concluded. Senator Foraker arose and said in part: "We are met here today under the most favorable party auspices. The Republican party has everything to be triumphant. No problem has baffled us, and no serious difference of opinion has arisen to create any serious discord in our ranks. We write a new chapter of party history every year and every year we are united party."

"Now while it is all bright on this horizon, there comes one painful feature to mar our joy. No one could feel more keenly than would do the death of Senator Hanna. We have had our differences, but they have been fought out fairly in the open, without the loss of my respect for him, and I find myself hoping that he has none the less respect for me. During his services in the Senate I have seen him engaged in his work and have seen him grow in the estimation of his colleagues. No man in public life has given in the last seven years as has Marcus A. Hanna. He has been outspoken, faithful and loyal to the highest degree to the Republicans. He was not an active participant in general debate, but no one exerted more influence on the floor of the Senate. It would be a severe loss to us if he should pass away."

The resolutions adopted by the convention before the reading of the telegram from Washington primarily indorse Senators Foraker and Hanna to be delegates at large from Ohio to the coming National Republican Convention. Mayor Tom L. Johnson, who welcomed the delegates, said: "I want to add my prayer for the recovery of Senator Hanna. Whether he be his opponents in politics or in business, we cannot help but admire him as a man, and we will all join in the hope that he will be returned to health and strength."

FLOCK TO THE FEAST

Popular Love for Roosevelt.

But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

FLOCK TO THE FEAST

Popular Love for Roosevelt.

But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

FLOCK TO THE FEAST

Popular Love for Roosevelt.

But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

FLOCK TO THE FEAST

Popular Love for Roosevelt.

But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

FLOCK TO THE FEAST

Popular Love for Roosevelt.

But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

Popular Love for Roosevelt. But in all this rapid movement upon the stage of National and international life, impulse has been more apparent than real. There has been little of chance and nothing of indeterminate action. There is the confidence which sustains the popular love for Roosevelt. A love confined not to party or faction of party, above and beyond all local influence, the open verdict of the great American masses.

THE BIGGEST MAGAZINE IN THE WORLD THE POPULAR MAGAZINE FOR MARCH The Eternal Snare BY ARTHUR W. MARCHMONT Author of "When I Was Caesar," "By Right of Sword," etc. In addition, this number will also contain the opening chapters of O'Rourke, Gentleman Adventurer BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE a fascinating story of the new Saharan Empire created by M. Leboulay of Paris, and FOURTEEN OTHER STORIES, EQUALLY INTERESTING ON SALE EVERYWHERE A MONTH'S ENTERTAINMENT FOR 10 CENTS

GHIRARDELLI'S GROUND CHOCOLATE THERE'S ENOUGH NUTRIMENT IN GHIRARDELLI'S GROUND CHOCOLATE TO CARRY YOU THROUGH THE MOST EXACTING DAY. IT CONTAINS ALL THE FOOD ELEMENTS THAT THE BRAIN AND NERVE FORCES REQUIRE, BESIDES ENOUGH SUGAR TO GIVE IT A PALATABLENESS YOU'LL NEVER FIND IN OTHER BEVERAGES. EASILY AND QUICKLY PREPARED.

A New Wrinkle, (No. 2.) Brown Soup Stock Three tablespoons of Armour Extract of beef, 3 quarts cold water, one sprig marjoram, one half teaspoonful pepper, 2 sprigs parsley, 4 cloves, 1 bay leaf, 1/2 cup each onion, carrot, celery, turnip, cut in dice, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 cups butter. Melt the butter, add the onion and brown; then add the vegetables and cover and cook slowly and evenly for one hour. Strain through a cloth and add the beef extract, stirring until it is thoroughly dissolved. Add more salt and pepper if necessary. Cool as quickly as possible. This stock is used for a number of soups, for thickening soups in considerable quantities and kept in a cool place until it is all used.

Armour's Extract of Beef The Best Extract of the Best Beef

Twenty Years of Success In the treatment of chronic diseases, such as liver, kidney and stomach disorders, constipation, diarrhoea, dropsical swellings, Bright's disease, etc. Kidney and Urinary Complaints, painful, difficult, too frequent, milky or bloody urine, unnatural discharges speedily cured. Diseases of the Rectum Such as piles, fistula, fissure, ulceration, mucous and bloody discharges, cured without the knife, pain or confinement. Diseases of Men Blood poison, gleet, stricture, unnatural losses, impotency, thoroughly cured. No failure. Cures guaranteed. YOUNG MEN troubled with night emissions, dreams, exhausting drains, bashfulness, aversion to society, which deprive you of your manhood, UNFITS YOU FOR BUSINESS OR MARRIAGE. MIDDLE-AGED MEN, who from excesses and strains have lost their MANLY POWER. BLOOD AND SKIN DISEASES, Syphilis, Gonorrhoea, painful, bloody urine, Gleet, Stricture, Enlarged Prostate, Sexual Debility, Varicocele, Hydrocele, Kidney and Liver Troubles, cured without MERCURY OR OTHER POISONOUS DRUGS. CATARRH and BRONCHITIS CURED. Dr. Walker's methods are regular and scientific. He uses no patent nostrums or ready-made preparations, but cures the disease by thorough medical treatment. His New Pamphlet of Private Diseases sent free to all men who describe their trouble. PATIENTS cured at home. Terms reasonable. All letters answered in plain English. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Call on or address DR. WALKER, 181 First Street, Corner Yamhill, Portland, Or.

Vapo-Cresolene Cures Who You Sleep For Whooping Cough, Croup, Coughs, Bronchitis, Influenza, Catarrh. It cures because the air rendered strongly antiseptic is carried over the diseased surfaces of the bronchial tubes with every breath, giving prolonged and constant treatment. Those of a consumptive tendency, or suffering from chronic bronchitis, find immediate relief from coughs and inflamed conditions of the throat. CATARRH is a boon to ASTHMATICS. ALL DRUGGISTS. THE VAPOR-CRESOLINE CO.,