COOD LUCK DOES IT

Spokane Chief Wonders That Portland Escapes Fire.

ADVOCATES PAIDDEPARTMENT

Says Untrained Men Cannot Fight Fires Effectively, and Predicts Big Calamity if Present Volunteer System is Continued.

"Until Portland secures a paid Fire Department and trained fire fighters, it can ver have the adequate protection from loss of life and property by fires. A paid

When asked for an interview yesterday Mr. Myers talked very freely of the superiority of a paid department and pointed out the needs of Fortland in that line.

"Let us first consider the disadvantages of a volunteer department such as Portland has," said be. "To begin with the men are absolutely untrained. They are willing to work and will do all they can but that its little, for they do not know what to do, or how to do it. When an alarm sounds, the volunteers may be blocks away and they have to run to the access of the fire; by the time they reach there they are played out and not fit to fight a fire. Then for the first few minutes all is confusion. Everybody wants to do something, and in the confusion the chances are they don't do the right thing. The first few minutes all is confusion and the men are not trained to know exactly what to do, the effective work cannot be done and the reflective work cannot be done and the fire gains headway. Then it is a long and subborn fight. There is a science and an art in handling hose to the best advantage, in manipulating the ladders and in getting over and through buildings than the fireman. He must be prepared to meet every emergency.

"For instance, in the handling of the tower ladder, the pompler ladders come only by long training. In the saving of life in big buildings these coulpments are very essential, if you have inexperienced men, little can be accomplished with these equipments.

"Again, time is a very essential feature in fighting dires. Every moment must

When the men are drilled, those whose duty it is to lay lines of hose and make con exactly what to do and they proceed to do it without delay or confusion. from devastation by fires.

"Portland needs a paid department of not less than 125 men and should have one of 150 or 160 men. Portland is a big city of 150 or 160 men. Fortland is a big city and needs a large department to protect it. It also needs more fire stations. There are some portions of the city saidly unprotected. These districts contain valuable property and in at least two or three there is urgent need for stations. At present the established stations are far away, and the country the department has to travel over to reach these unprotected districts is such that little can tected districts is such that little can be accomplished in the line of speedy work. The district about the site of the Lewis and Clark Pair should have a fire station. There will no doubt be urgent need for it when the Pair opens. Besides this, that district is rapidly building up and should have protection.

NO NEUTRALS IN RELIGION. Dr. Brougher Declares That All Must Be For or Against Christ.

"The Moral Man and the Hypocrite" was the subject of Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher's sermon at the First Baptist Church last night. Dr. Brougher took for his text, Matthew, xii-30, "He that is not with me is against me," and held that a man was either in the kingdom of Jesus Christ or that of Satan, because Jesus Christ declared that there could be no neutrality in religion. He said in part:

"This is valled a Christian country, it is not with infidels, agnostics or heathens in particular that Christianity has to contend most. It is that large class of people who are friendly disposed toward Christianity, but refuse to publicly identify themselves with the cause of Christ. They consider Christianity an important factor in our civilization. They will help man was either in the kingdom of Jesus factor in our civilization. They will help support a church in the community. It raises the price of real estate and its influence is better than a police force. These people are friendly to the church loss of life and property by fires. A paid fire department is an absolute necessity in any large city. A city without it is at the mercy of a chance conflagration. How Chief Campbell has accomplished what he has with the department at his command is a mystery to me. Portland needs it urgently. The saving in lous of property and in insurance rates would more than repay the extra expense. I am gind to hear that the city is at last to have a paid department."

Such are the pointed statements of A. H. Myers Chief of the Fire Department of Spokane. Wash., who is visiting in this city. Since he came here several days ago Chief Myers has made a thorough impaction of Portland's volunteer Fire Department, and with Chief Cambell has traveled over the various fire districts of the city in the way of protective measures against fire. He is a veteran fire-fighter, schooled by years of experience, and for nine years he has been at the head of the Spokane department, it has been at the head of both volunteer and paid departments and knows the drawbacks of the one and the advantages of the other.

When asked for an interview yesterday. Mr. Myers talked very freely of the superiority of a paid department and pointed out the needs of Fortland in that line.

"Again, time is a very essential feature in fighting fires. Every moment must be made to count. Where a chief is forced to run to a fire and then wait for volunteers to come before he can get the hose strung out, the ladders raised and the engines in working order, as Chief Campbell has to, he is laboring under a serious handicap. If he is successful in fighting the fire he is lucky. The utter hadequacy of a volunteer fire department is proved very clearly by the advanced insurance raises in cities where they are maintained.

"On the other hand, let us look at some of the advantages of a paid and trained department. In such a department the men are always in roadiness to answer an aliarm. They have their places on the various vehicles, they understand perfectly how to handle the paraphernalia at their disposal and they know what to do at the proper time. Thus valuable time is saved and often a disastrous fire is prevented by the quick and intelligent work of the firemen. In almost every
