Lewis and Clark Exposition Should Be Thing of Beauty.

EMINENT ARCHITECT'S VIEWS

W. S. Eames, of St. Louis, Has Words of Praise for Mr. Olmstead, Who Planned the Landscape, and Also for Mr. Ion Lewis.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 1 .- (Special.) -"If air. Olmsted planned the landscape improvements and the architecture is made to conform with his general plan the Lewis and Clark Exposition will be a collection of beautiful buildings, artistically arranged."

This is the opinion of W. S. Eames, of St. Louis, president of the American In-stitute of Architects, and one of the rs who outlined the architectural features of the Louisians Pur-chase Exposition. Mr. Eames' firm de-signed the educational building at the St. Louis Fair, and he is regarded as one of the most prominent architects in the

"In only a general way have I any information regarding the construc-tion of the buildings, though I should be giad to see the plans. I understand lon Lewis is in charge of the bureau of archi-tecture, and I have no doubt but that he will arrange a tasteful display of the

"The arrangements at St. Louis are not The arrangements at St. Louis are not those the architects recommended. We asked for more room to make a better arrangement of the buildings, but the directors would not give it to us. Subsequently they did include not only the ground that we suggested, but other territory as well. The result is that the buildings do not conform as we would have had it to the character of the grounds. It is probable, though, that the average visitor will not notice this. Portwerage visitor will not notice this. Portland should endeavor, though, to lay out her grounds with a definite plan in view and adhere closely to the arrangement first adopted. There will then be no marring of the general plan,

"I am convinced that the Lewis and ' Clark Exposition will be the greatest factor in the development of this country. The cheap rates made by the railroads The cheap rates made by the railroads will induce a travel here that could not be gotten otherwise. This is a vast and resourceful region that will certainly attract faverable attention from visitors and investments in the Northwest ought to be heavy. Naturally Portland will benefit largely from the presence of so many visitors and the closer investigation people will make of that city and vicinity, but the other Northwestern cities owe it to themselves to give the Lewis and Clark to themselves to give the Lewis and Clark Exposition every encouragement."

Mr. Eames is a member of the firm of Earnes & Young, who designed the Alaska building, a li-story structure now in course of erection here. He came west primarily to inspect the work here and to look over a Federal building his firm designed for San Francisco. Mr. Eames left last night for San Francisco. He declared before going that only the absolute necessity for his presence in St. Louis immediately prevented him from stopping of the Lewis and Clark Fair plans.

TO GUARD AGATE PASSAGE. Fortifications to Be Made at Port

Madison Reservation.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 1 .- (Special.)-SEATTLE. Wash., June 1.—(Special.)—
The Government has just acquired 48%, acres of land on the Port Madison reservation, opposite Bainbridge Island, which will be used to fortify Agate Passage, protecting this route to Bremerton. When the fortifications planned at the reservation are erected all approaches to the Puget Sound navy-yard will have been protected against a foreign fleet.

Special Indian Agent James McLaughlin was sent here by the Interior Department to secure the tract of land for the fortifications. An engineering corps represent-cations. An engineering corps represent-ing the Army selected the site where the small town on the reservation is located, and asked that the Interior Department arrange with the Indians for the property.

It will require an act of Congress to complete the transfer of the land to the Federal Government, but this is a matter the Indians inof detail. The consent of the Indians in voived the most labor, for it involved an agreement to move the school, church and half a dozen residences, together with a floating dock from the old location north days, and owners of fruit and smade trees have been fighting all this week.

Hoth in Pierce and King Counties the pest has appeared, and unless the invasion is overpowered by Friday the fruit authorities insist the caterpillars will begin a march that will threaten the fruit prospects of this part of the state. At present the caterpillars in King County are maturing but they will leave their tentilike homes by Friday. In Piercs they have begun their march.

The caterpillars are of the "tent" variety that prey upon foliage. They appeared simultaneously in Pierce and King Counties upon fruit and shade trees. The State Hortfeultural Inspector and his deputies, made the first onslaught, and have had the support of the fruitgrowers in the Ten years ago a similar invasion of caterpiliars in Whatcom County destroyed the foliage on deciduous tree and shrub growth, the effect lasting for years. President Saunders, of the City-Park Board; State Horticultural Inspector Von Holderbeck and his deputies, Cass and Brown, are directing the fight.

Stripping Off the Foliage.

TACOMA, Wash., June 1.-North Taoma is infested with a scourge of caterpillars. A great army of them has at-tacked the aider leaves and green shade trees and in many places stripped the trees bare. They have become such a pest in cer-tain districts that it has become neces-sary to take official action. The county fruit inspector has ordered property-owners to burn the nests. The insects sleep during the heat of the day and feed at night, so that it is comparatively easy to destroy them in their nests when they are bunched together.

The state law provides that in such cases property-owners must be first notified, and in case they fall to take steps to rid their premises of pests, the in-spector may do so and charge the cost to the owner.

CROP CONDITIONS GOOD.

Malheur Products Show the Effects of Favorable Wather.

ONTARIO, Or., June 1 .- (Special.) -- Stock and crop conditions in Malheur are at present very promising. Owing to an unusual amount of rain this Spring, the range is better than for years past, con-sequently cattle and sheep are in very fine condition. At present the rain is falling, which is just in ample time to keep the range at the best for some time yet. Crops are fully two weeks in advance of last year, and the farmers have excellent prospects for cutting a large crop of al-falfs. Trees are heavily laden with fruits, The irrigation ditches are in working order, and a greater supply of water than usual is coming down the Malbeur and Owyhee Rivers. Wool is coming in rather slowly this year, but a larger amount is expected to be shipped from Oniario this year than ever before. There will be no public sales here this year, but a great part of the clip was sold before shearing time, direct to the buyers.

Floater Is Unidentified.

ASTORIA, Or., June 1.—(Special.)—Coro-ner Pohl returned today from Knappa, where he buried the body of a man found floating in the river near the mouth of Bilnd Slough, yesterday afternoon. The remains were badly decomposed, having been in the water for fully a month. ockets were turned inside out when the ody was found, and the only thing in the clothing was a bunch of keys. Attached to the ring was a brass tag engraved as follows: "Otto Nelson. Watches. No. 187." The body was that of a man about 5 feet 10 inches in height, with long black hair. The clothing consisted of a plaid shirt, dark cotton pants and lace shoes,

Will Probably Get Rallroad Commit teeman Baker's Proxy.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 1 .- (Special.) John S. McMillin, of the Washington delegation to the Republican National Convention, has left for the East, and the other delegates will start for Chicago within the next ten days. Urgent busiess took Mr. McMillin East ahead of the emainder of the delegation.

The departure of Mr. McMillin may make some change in the fight over election of National committeeman from this state. McMillin is a strong candidate for the po-sition, and so is J. M. Ashten, of Tacoma, Charles Sweeney, of Spokane, was a can-didate for National committeeman prior to the meeting of the State Convention. He was not here when the convention met and his friends state that he is still in the East and may meet the delegation for the first time in Chicago. Sweeney's candidacy is no longer regarded as serious. Both Ashton and McMillin claim a majority of the delegation, and each is equally confident he will be elected committeeman. There has been no meeting of mitteeman. There has been no meeting of the delegation that could settle the fight, the only gathering held being attended by but four men. It is likely the election will be made at Chicago.

A general impression prevails that United States Senator Levi Ankeny will

Frantic at Infant's Death. BELLINGHAM, Wash., June 1.—While attempting to cross the Nooksack River, near Deming, on Sunday, in their cance, an Indian family of father, mother and five children were thrown into the water. All escaped to shore save one, a 3-year-old girl, who was drowned. Crazed by the loss of their child, both father and mother attempted suicide Mon-day, the mother by jumping into the river, the father by hanging himself in the near-by woods. The mother was taken from the water by neighbors who wit-nessed her act, while the father was cut down before life was extinct, but he has remained unconscious ever since and is not expected to live.
