Takes Number Thirteen on Platform as a Good Omen of Success in the Coming Election.

ASHLAND, Or., June 2.—(Special.)—If Jackson County has a Democratic stronghold it is at Gold Hill, and when Representative Hermann spoke there tonight he was at his best. The audience was large and enthusiastic, and Mr. Hermann called attentions. large and enthusiastic, and Mr. Hermann called attention to the fact that a year ago he spoke from the same platform on which were seated 13 men and when the votes were counted there he had a majority of 13. He had heard of the fatality of that number—13—but felt particularly good tonight again to find 13 on the stage and that before him was seated a band of lady musicians, which upon counting numbered 13. He paid a pretty compliment to the local band, comprised of 13 of the little girls of the wide-awake town, and thought that with such music from such beauty, coupled with his lucky "13," he could believe in the prediction of success on June 5.

He showed that the trusts were putting out only 5 per cent of the goods in the markets and that the only legislation for controlling them emanated from the Republican party, and if conceded that protective tariff sided the manufacturers of the trust goods, it also aided the manufacturers of the other 25 per cent of those not in the trusts. His arguments were logical and his mood happy, and the continued hearty applause forecasts him a large majority in Jackson and the continued hearty applause fore-casts him a large majority in Jackson

A mistake was discovered in the registration of the 1700 voters in this city which might invalidate the entire registration if any person should be inclined to press a technical point. The County Clerk falled to comply with the provision of the law which requires voters to sign the precinct registration register. This only applies to the six Baker City precincts, all of the county precincts having been properly registered.

The Clerk assumed that it was not necessary to require a double registration.

The Clerk assumed that it was not necessary to require a double registration in this city, for the reason that the original registration books are kept here, and the preclint books are kept here, and the preclint books could be verified from the original record.
