The "b'gosh" drama at its best is "Our New Minister," which opened its seco ortland engagement at the Marquam last night. True, there's no snowstorm, nor threshing-machine, nor live chickens in it, but by the same token there is no depressingly lachrymose Anna Moore, and the villain with the stolen documents is kept well in the background. One man and one part makes the play great. Jo-seph Conyers, who by the way is man-ager and part owner of the show, makes is Darius Startle the funniest Rube detective on the stage. The idea has been worked ad finitum since the constable in "Way Down East" was originated, and now every Down East show must have a freak town marshal. Conyers has all others who undertake such character parts badly beaten, and his Startle promses to remain a permanent figure on the

They are well provided with good lines and business, and seem to get very near to the facts in their impersonation of country people. It is a safe venture that they have all lived in or frequently visited Hardscrabble or some other place just like it. Phila May is perhaps the best of the women in the

This afternoon two matinees will be given at the Arcade Theater, which are especially designed to please the large number of women and children who are patrons of this fashlonable playhouse. This piece as a play can hardly be compared with the ordinary comedy drama, while there is a good heart story and an abundance of comedy and specialty features. It envelopes a sporting atmosphere, made possible by the great horseracing scene, which thoroughly captivates its auditors.

The ten principals are admirably cast to bring out their best talents and the chorus and famous auburn-haired "ponies" are fit to grace a Broadway show. The park itself has been practically reconstructed, the stage enlarged and a thousand new chairs provided for the comfort of the audience. There will be an orchestra of eight pieces and a wealth of new scenery. There will be no discomfort of sliting indoors, two hours and a haif of highgrade amusement in the open air and the grade amusement in the open air and the general admission price will be but a dime. Theater-goers will have occasion to long remember the opening night, June 20.

"Hoity Toity."

The last week of the Casino Company at the Baker will open tomorrow afternoon with that delightful, rapid-fire run of satire on many modern questions, called for want of a better name "Holty Tolty." "Hoity Tolty" does not boast of much of a plot, but contains quite a few interesting scenes and situations along with many ciever speeches and spiendid musical numbers. Rice and Cady, who have become so familiar as the long and short Dutchmen; Bobby North, with Miss Lou Harlow, Sidney De Grey, Joseph Dailey and the petite dancers, Flossy Hope and Lillian Levy, will all be in atrong evidence and contribute what will be a week of extreme gaity and fun.

"Barbara Fidgety."

The last two performances of the great Weber and Field burlesque on "Barbara Fritchie," the celebrated war play, will take place at the Baker Theater this afternoon and tonight. The travesty, while following out the principal scenes and situations, as well as dress of "Bar-bara Fritchle," is simply a ridiculous ex-aggeration of the whole thing, and serves as a background for a great bit of satire, wit and comedy. The musical numbers are exceedingly pretty, with dashing, well-constumed chorus, and the whole play forms a very delightful evening's amusement of a light, warm weather order.
