Right of Way Obtained for Mississippi Avenue Branch of City & Suburban, and Line Will Probably Connect With St. Johns.

M. E. Thompson reports that he has suc ceeded in securing the right of way for the Mississippi-avenue branch of the City & Suburban Railway Company, This will enable the track to be laid on Prescott street through some private property, which was purchased for the purpose. The between the Mississippl-avenue branch and the St. Johns line at this point. Negotiations have been in progress for this right of way for some time, and there seems no doubt that the Mississippi-avenue branch will be extended to a connection with the St. Johns line whether or not the merger of the two rallway companies be accomplished. With this connection made, it is expected that the St. Johns junction near Williams avenue will be done away with, and passengers carpeople of that district have been contending and praying for for many years.

There are no developments as to what will become of the $25,000 subsidy and the franchise of the Portland & St. Johns Railway Company, a company organized years ago.

On Tuesday, the opening day, C. A.

Nutley will deliver a short talk of welto Macrum avenue, near St. Johns. The condition of the subsidy was that the railway should build along a certain route of this branch uncertain. The new branch crosses the St. Johns railway at North Albina, follows Gown the Peninsula, recrosses the railway at University Park and follows Willamette Boulevard closely to Macrum avenue. The branch passes most prominent events of the week. White tant points in Albina, but is not a suffificiently direct line to the heart of the city to attract passengers. Connected with the proposed Peninsula branch, it would become an important branch. It is thought that if the new Peninsula branch be built at all its route will have to be modified somewhat so it will not parallel the present line. The route can only be changed by the unanimous consent of the subscribers to the subsidy, which might be hard to obtain. safe to say that the consolidated com-pany will make an effort to save the subsidy and the franchise of the new

There is Mysteries of the Deep." s considerable number of influential citi-Slough who have been working steadily for railway connection with Portland, and as often as set back in one direction they have again gone at the proposition. Among the railway promoters are A. L. Stone, H. L. Stone, Byron Reynolds, Napoleon Davis and others, who say they will stay with the effort until they get what they are after. They believe that a merger of the two companies under one management improves their chances of getting an electric railway, either from Montavilla, on the Barr road to Fair-view, or from Woodlawn along the Columbia Stough road, or from both points. The consolidated company will be stronger and better able to swing these new lines than a single company. Then there is removed the possibility of rivalry. This field is attractive as a suburban railway field for the reason the time is not distant when a wagon road will be extended from Fairview to the Columbia River and a ferry established with the Washington side, opening up La Capas and a very rich country to a direct foute to Portland without making the circuitous route around by Vancouver. In their past negotiations with the management of the City & Suburban and the Portland Railway companies thhe citizens of Fairview have been informed that the field appears inviting, but the companies had so much on their hands that they could not take up the new proposition at present. And here it stands, with the certainty that

Company is pushing work on the Sellwood and Willsburg branch of its Springwater line with vigor. Tracks have been laid mill along the new route and over the big embankment between Sellwood and Willsburg, and on through the Johnson Creek Valley toward Lents. The shining troller was descensed to track through the Johnson Creek. The big fill stood the storms of last Winter well. It is one of the most extensive eight railway embankments ever built. There is an almost level roadbed through to Lents. A piledriver is now completing foundation for a treatie in the bottom land north of City View Park track. A short treatle is being built to connect with the embankment extended from a point opposite Ross Island. Eventually the embankment across the entire Miffting bottom will be zompleted, but the trailed is being built to expedit the finishing of this link in the campany's system to Lents. By the end of August, if not sooper, freight cars may be brought into Pertiand around this link, leaving the Mount Scott and Hawthorne-avennet tracks for passanger cars. It is announced that on completion of this link the comfrom a point opposite the Sellwood saw-mill along the new route and over the big embankment between Sellwood and Wills-pany will be in a position to build along Elast Water street and fill up that street to East Pine, where it has a franchise.

STILL WANTS WOODEN BRIDGES E. H. Virgil Says Build Them and Avoid a Rake-Off.

E. H. Virgil, who has been a persistent advocate of wooden bridges for Sullivan's Gulch at Union and Grand avenues, came home from Yamhill this week, and crossed the Yamhili River on a wooden bridge that has stood 20 years. He says as far as he could see, the bridge, which is covas he could see, the bridge, which is covered, appeared perfectly sound. The span is 175 feet long.

"We can have wooden bridges built across Sullivan's Guich," remarked Mr. Virgil, "that will sast at least 20 years even if they are not covered. But if covered they will last as long as a building. They could have windows and be well lighted at night by electric lights, and would not be objectionable in appearance. There could be two readways on each side in which the car tracks would be placed. "Wooden bridges can be built across Sullivan's Guich at Union avenue for $12,000, and at Grand avenue for $10,000. Mr. Ladd has the guaranty of a bridge contractor that this can be done. He told me recently that he would not have ventured to make his offer to build bridges across Sullivan's Guich for these figures unless he had the written assurances of Peningula Needs New Line.

It was for the purpose of opening up to settlement this new district that the large subsidy was raised and the franchise was secured. Manager L. F. Puller, of the Portland Railway Company, who has gone to San Prancisco, is silent on the prospects of the branch being built. Some of the promoters of the new branch still think it will be built, as an extensive franchise and a $28,000 subsidy is not picked up every day, besides there is such a growth on the Peninsula that another line will have to be built there in the near future. Unless the branch is built from North Albina, connecting with the present as an income-producing branch.

It is common report that the Albina branch of the Portland Railway Company does not pay more than running expenses. It comes into compelition with the Willims-avenue branches of the City & Suburban Railway Company at two important points in Albina, but is not a suffi-

"IN THE MIDST OF THE SEA."

Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher Preaches Sermon on Trip to Europe.

Rev. J. Whiteomb Brougher, paster of the White Temple, began a double series of short sermons for the Summer season at his church yesierday. The services were largely attended both morning and night. In the morning he preached on "The Unknown God" and at night he delivered his first sermon in the series on his trip to Europe. The music by the quartet was exceptionally fine. J. W. Belcher sang a tenor solo at the morning service.

Taking for his text Matt. 14:14, "The ship was now in the midst of the sen," Dr. Brougher said: "I have a greater affection for the ocean since my recent pleasant trip than I ever had before. It is impossible to entertain you with stories of seasickness, for I was not sick at any time, and only a very few had the pleasures of such an experience. One old lady, who looked as if she had 'cast up her last accounts,' was asked one day how she felt. She replied: 'Dear me, I have not been able to keep a thing on my stomach for three days, except my hand.' The weather was so delightful most of The weather was so delightful most of the time, both going and returning, that life upon the sea was really a great pleasure. The modern steamship is built and arranged with every idea of comfort. The staterooms are pleasant and airy, the promenade decks are wide and roomy, the library is complete and the latest books are on its shelves. Salt-water baths are at your disposal every tay, and all the comforts of home, nearly, can be found on board the ship. With fine weather, life is far from monotonous. You meet the best of people, and if one shows himself friendly he will find friends.

"It is the most delightful way to find the control of the c
