VISITOR FROM OVER THE SEA

Earl of Euston, Supreme Grand Master of the Great Prory of England, is Given a Reception Replete With Ceremonial.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—The local committee of the Knights Templar tonight checked off its entire list of visiting commanderies, the last to arrive being St. Aldamer, of Missouri, and Oriental, of Ohio. A few California commanderies have yet to report, and they are scheduled to be here in the morning in ample time for the great parade tomorrow.

Today, was one of great activity for the reception committees and the Sir Knights and their ladies, and the uniformed visitors were escorted to their various quarters to the accompaniment of patriotic SHELLS BURST ON ALL SIDES music. Among the arrivals today was Mellita No. 8, Oregon.

A notable event was the coming of the Right Honorable the Earl of Euston, the most eminent and supreme grand master in transmission.)-The Russians evacu British Crown. When the Earl's special ing the Taitz River and burning the train arrived a committee representing bridges behind them. In the meantime the grand master and California Com-

This being Labor day, the Knights Templar before noon witnessed the annual parade of workingmen. Thousands of men were in line, nearly all attired in attractive uniforms, and many women workers either marched in the ranks or rode on picturesque floats.

Early in the day special trains bearing Eastern Knights Templar began to arrive, including the grand commanderles of Illinois. Nebraska, Missouri and Min-nesota, and large delegations from Kansas and Utah.

A ladies' reception, under the anspices of California Commandery, was given at the Mechanics' Pavilion, and at all head-

WANTS TO PROVE HER SANITY Princess Louise Declares All She Desires Is Liberty.

VIENNA, Sept. 5.—A lawyer in the confidence of Lieutenant Count Mattisch-Keglevitch, and who has just returned from visiting Princess Louise, of Coburg. declines to reveal the whereabouts of the Princess. He gives a statement which he says she made to him, according to which, through her immurement she expected to be rescued by the Count. The Princess said: "Now, happily, I am free, and shall use my liberty so that I can remain free. My next important task will be to free. My next important task will be to take legal steps to have my guardianship set aside. I shall ask the Austrian Court Set aside, I shall ask the Austrian Court Chamberlain's department to grant me a new medical examination, and I can bring 50 witnesses to prove my sanity. Having established that, I shall retire to live quietly. I am not thinking of divorce or remarriage, and the reports of such in-tentions are canards spread for the pur-pose of injuring me."

Peace Negotiations Fall. BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 5.—The negotiations initiated by the Foreign Ministers at Asunction, capital of Paraguay, between the Paraguayan revolutionists and the government have failed, and the revolutionists now revert to their former position of hostility. Developments in the revolution are hourly expected.

RUSSIANS TAKEN BY SURPRISE Kuropatkin Did Not Believe Enemy Had Crossed the Taitz.

PETERSBURG, Sept. 5.-The feeling of national grief and dis-appointment caused by General Kuro-patkin's unsuccessful attempt to make a stand at Liao Yang, deep and bitter as it is, is somewhat tempered by the develop-ment of the fact that the Russian commander-in-chief had removed the bulk of his stores northward before the battle, leaving a mere shell at Liao Yang, and that he succeeded in extricating his army, especially General Stakelberg's corps, from the clutches of the Japanese.

While admitting that

While admitting that Kuropatkin sustained a severe reverse, the War Office considers that the failure of Field Marshal Oyama to hold and cut off Kuropatkin is a strategic defeat for Oyama. The Russian military authorities figure that Oyama had a numerical superiority of 68,000 men in the operations against Kuropatkin.

According to the military authorities, all Kuropatkin's hopes and plans for victory were dashed by the wonderful celerity with which Oyama's right pushed northward after crossing the Taits River. Here Kuropatkin's information evidently was faulty in believing that he had before him the whole of the Japanese forces which had crossed over to the right bank. He had already completed a preliminary bom-bardment of Kuroki's force Friday, and was about to strike him when he discovwas about to strike him when he discovered that another Japanese column had crossed the river farther upstream, and had worked, around still farther northward. The latter column was marching with great rapidity westward to cut the railroad and close the door on Russian retreat to Mukden. Just at this point there is a hiatus in the reports. Whether Kuropatkin actually attempted to deliver a blow against Kuroki is not clear. At all events, if he did he was compelled to desist upon the discovery of the northerly Japanese column. The latter took him hy

Japanese column. The latter took him by urprise. General Orloff's division which suffered so severely had just arrived from Euro-pean Russia. Although this division was thrown into confusion and lest a fright-ful number of men, the temporary check it was able to give the Japanese probably awed the railroad for Kuropatkin. In the meantime, Kuroki, freed from Kuropatkin, marched hastily westward to intercept General Stakelberg, who was crossing the river from the left bank. It was then that Kuropatkin thought Stakelberg's corps was lost and so reported to the War office. But Kuroki was too late. Stakel. Office. But Kuroki was too late. Stakel-berg not only succeeded in getting his corps across, but marched at high speed 30 miles to Yental, actually arriving in time to come to the support of hard-pressed Orloff. The Emperor has undergone a great strain during the past week. Like his subjects, the Emperor has taken Kuropatkin's defeat greatly to heart, but the preservation of the army organization has been a great relief, and his answer to the battle of Lizo Yang will be the mobiliza-tion of two more army corps. So far as can be learned, the Emperor shows no disposition to blame Kuropatkin.

The wives and families of many of the lower classes of the people spend most of their time in the churches, praying that their loved ones may be spared.

The accounts of the battle published is The accounts of the battle published in the newspapers here are very incomplete. Some of the papers evidently have not yet awakened to the full force of the disas-ter, but without exception they try to put a brave face on the situation. There is not the slightest suggestion of yielding. detailed for escort duty. Train after The cry of the papers is that the war train brought tired but cheerful Templars must go on until Russia is victorious, if not this year, then next year.

On August 31 the shelling commenced at daylight from all sides, but the Russian infantry pressed forward Late that afternoon the news came that Kuroki was threatening the railroad at Yental and the Russians commenced to retire, enabling the Japanese to bring up two batteries and enfliade the Russian force along the railroad.

During the night the transports moved into Line Yang. On September 1 the Russians retreat-ed from their main position, which formed a circle around the city, while transports crossed the river. At 2 o'clock the Japanese succeeded in placing two guns in position and shelled the railroad station, resulting in many casualties. At the same time, the Japanese infantry attacked the inner Rusthe evening, the Japanese brought up heavy guns and used Shimose powder to shell the Russian town. The Russians held the position until the night of September 3, when they retired across the river.

On September 2 a strong Russian force was moved east from Yental to hold Kuroki back. Kuroki attacked it, and was repulsed, being driven from his positions on the left. The Japanese poured a terrific shrapuel fire, at one spoannihilating two Russian companies. In the evening the Russian artillery, which had been reinforced, shelled the Mananese position, and Kuroki pushed his right forward and got within 12 miles or the railroad at Yentai. Later he was driven back to his original posi-

NOW RUSHING TO POSITIONS

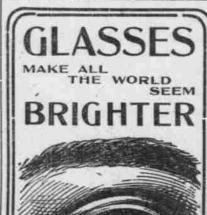

Orders Are Given Promptly at Midnight_Blues Under Grant Will Attack Browns, Commanded by Bell.

GAINESVILLE, Va., Sept. 5 .- Orders for rush to positions were given in both maneuver camps exactly at midnight tonight. The Blue Army under General Grant was put under way to attack the Brown Army under General Bell. The or-ders of General Bell sent his forces toward his adversary at double quick. It is his desire to reach a position near the center of the maneuver field and stop the attacking forces, whose duty it is to force a passage through Thoroughfare Gap.
Careful estimates of these marches in-dicate that at daybreak a collision between the opposing forces will take place somewhere near Groveton, a memorable spot in the Bull Run battles. From this first collision the Brown Army can fall back, if necessary, to successive positions toward Thoroughfare,
