BUTTE, Mont., Sept. 27 .- With a speech at Anaconda, made late today, and two in this city tonight, Senator Fairbanks concluded his second day in Montana. The itinerary for the day covered the line of the Northern Pacovered the line of the Northern Pa-cific Railroad from Billings to this point, and the party passed from the Upper Yellowstone country into the Gallatin Valley, crossing then the continental divide and arriving at Butte very little after schedule time,

In addition to Anaconda and Butte, stops for speeches were made at Big Timber, Livingston, Boseman and Whitehall. At all of those places, except Boseman, practically the entire population turned out to welcome the Vice-Presidential candidate and his associates, and the exception at Boxeman was caused by a misunderstanding of the time of arrival At Livingston and Big Timber, the school children were marshaled for especial display and formed a noticeable feature of the meeting.

Addresses were made at all the stopping points by Senators Fairbanks and Dolliver and ex-Senator Carter and in each instance their remarks were frequently punctuated by applause. In the main, the speeches were along general lines and consisted largely of appeals to sustain existing conditions by voting the Republican ticket. At Whitehall, the train backed slightly while Senator Fairbanks was speaking, and he made an instantaneous hit by remark-ing, "This must be a Democratic train as it shows a disposition to move back-tion as to whether we shall overthrow the Republican party, under which the wool industry has been put upon a profitable basis, or whether we shall return to the Democratic policy which so greatly in-jured it. He listened to the speeches from his windows, and one of the things he heard was denunciation by Senator Dolliver of the Democratio party for deserting the silver men at the last convention and an invitation to those remaining out to return to the Republican fold. There was some delay only approach to an accident that has ocat Bozeman, and in order to make up the time lost, a very rapid run was made across the Gallatin Valley, the speed at one time reaching 68 miles an

The streets be-tween the railroad station and the tween the railroad station and the theater were lined with people and much enthusiasm was displayed. "The opposition condamns the methods by which the President secured the necessary rights and franchises to construct and maintain the Panama Canal, but they chearfully accept the fruit newspaper for some time, and intimated that Senator Dubois' invitation to debate the question was news to him. Senator Fairbanks, when pinned down to a positive answer on the question, replied that he would not take the time to talk about the matter. but they cheerfully accept the fruit of his effort and promise to carry on the great work. The President ac-knowledged the independence of the people of Panama, in the proper exer-cise of his constitutional powers. Dwells on Tariff Question.

At Butte the party was also cordially greeted and the entire population ap-peared to be on the streets or at the theaters in which the two meetings of the night were held. At the Grand The-ater in Butte, where Senator Fairbanks first spoke he dwelt upon the tariff question, referring especially to the tariff on lead ore. On the latter point he said in part:

'One of the wise provisions of our protective law is that which imposes great Rocky Mountain regions, and elsewhere said: If you will place an adequate protective duty on lead ore, you will stimulate the mining industry in the United States; you will open old mines closed by the Democratic policy and start new ones, and thereby give remunerative employment to a vast army of wage-earners."

"We believed the claim to be well founded. We acted upon the assumption that an adequate duty on lead ore would stimulate the mining industry and we therefore imposed a sufficient duty to protect the industry against foreign competitors who were able to hirs their labor at less wages than we would either ask or desire our miners

"The Republican party believes not only in well-employed labor, but in wall-paid labor also. BIG TIMBER, Mont., Sept. 27.—Senator Fairbanks discussed the wool tariff in his first speech of the day, made at this point at 8:30 o'cleck this morning. A light rain was falling, and the air was decidedly chilly, but despite this fact the attendance was large, and those present gave close heed to all that was said. The meeting appropriately was held in a large wool warehouse by the side of the railroad track, in which President Rooseveit had also spoken, and the speaking took place from an elegantly decorated stage in the center of the building. The only seats in the building were given over to the school children, who were present in force with their teachers. On the wool question Senator Fairbanks said: Chief of Insular Affairs, However, is Convinced Islands Should Be Represented, and Hopes Government Will Help.
