THREE ROUTES PROPOSED

ELECTRIC ROAD TO TROUTDALE WOULD HAVE SOME CHOICE.

Any of Projected Lines Would Terminate at Columbia River--Farmers Seem in Earnest.

There are now three routes proposed for an electric rallway from Portland to Fairview and Troutdale—from Cedarville, one the Oregon Water Power & Rallway Company's Gresham line, two miles west of Gresham; an extension of the Montavilla branch of the City & Suburban Rallway Company by way of the Barr road, and an extension of the Portland Rail-way Company from Woodlawn northeast to the Columbia Slough county road. The people of Fairview and Troutdale say they are not much concerned which route is at the Columbia River at Troutdale at the mouth of Sandy River, where a steam ferry may be operated on the Columbia River, connecting at La Camas and the rich district on the Washington side. It is chained that an electric rallway be-tween Portland and the terminus on the Columbia River would be a big paying proposition, provided a steam ferry be placed on the river. The ferry would carry all the teaming to Portland that now goes by way of Vancouver.

The Fairview Push Club has appointed committee to confer with the Oregon tter Power & Railway Company. F. A. arris, of this company, went over the are route from Cedarville to Troutdale, which is more than any other railmy manager had done before, and he aid he would put a steam ferry on the olumbia River if his company built the ne. Lukewarm About Railroad.

Over a year ago, at a railway meeting held in Fairview, many representatives from Columbia Slough were present, but most of them were lukewarm about a rallway that would want a right of way railway that would want a right of way through their front gates, or some portion of their farms. There is small hopes of the County Court giving any electric railway a franchise to build a line-on a prominent county road like the Columbia Slough road. It was then proposed that the county road be widened to 80 or 80 feet, taking strips from both sides for this purpose, and then the electric railway could be built on one side without interforing with the public. While the matter was talked over pothing was done, and the project of building from Woodlawn has been sleeping, until recently the Columbia Slough people have awakened Columbia Slough people have awakened to the fact that unless they do something they will lose electric railway connec-tion with Portland, and a meeting has been called at Fairview for next Friday.

The route along Columbia Slough road would undoubtedly pass through one of the richest countries anywhere near Portland. What the farmers are pre-pared to offer by way of inducements will probably be developed at the coming meeting. The route by way of Montavilla s the shortest direct route to Portland, and there would be only about 10 or 12 illes of track to lay to reach the Co-mbia River by way of Fairview and A vigorous effort is now beng made to get an electric railway

The New Road to Oregon City.

F. Clark, one of the promoters of new electric railway between Oregon City and Portland, on the East Side, said resterday there was a constant flow of etters from the money centers of the East asking about the enterprise. One was written offering to finance the railway on certain conditions. Another ofcomes from Portland to build the d outright provided that a certain sidy per mile is raised. All sorts of diries have been received, and to all imbailty per mile is raised.

A few pears ago some Easfern show definite results have yet been secured out of the work that has been done. Mr. Clark feels highly encouraged over the prospects. Owing to the unsettled affairs of the City & Subarban Railway Company, and the Portland Railway Company of the bused by snake charmers, who probably to be exhibited in his show or to be used by snake charmers, who probably passed them off for cobras or some other poisonous snake and won answer as to whether the consolidated company will consider a proposition to build the road or not, has been received.

Committee Reports Against Bridging Sullivan Gulch.

The Sullivan Guich bridge committee held a meeting yesterday afternoon in the office of Joseph Buchtel, and after thorough cousideration decided that it would be impracticable to build elevated roadways or bridges across Sullivan Gulch under the present plan of district sassessments, and that the only feasible way to build bridges would be by issuing bonds.

nittee that the present elevated roadway on Union avenue, now closed to teams and clean house a little, if perchance and used by the cars of the Portland Railway Company, could be made safe for the use of the public for the expenditure of a sum not to exceed $1000. H. H. Nedhall, chalman of the mass meether and of the committee, presided. Joing and of the committee, presided, Join Portland whom the town reached as a boy for the use of the public for the expenditure of a sum not to exceed $1000. H. H. Nedhall, chalirman of the mass meeting and of the committee, presided. Joseph Buchel reported that he had talked with C. K. Harbaugh, of the Oregon Real Estate Company, and he expressed the conviction that the only right way to build such bridges as are needed across Sullivan Gulch was to issue bonds so that the whole city, which benefits from them, should pay for them. Mr. Harbaugh, who represents perflaps 2000 lots in the district, said that he could not say whether the Oregon Real Estate Company would sign a petition for elevated tondways or not.

Mr. Buchtel also spoke of the uncertainty surrounding the plan of district assessments even if the petitions should be sighed, and of the great cost of advectising hesides which Attorney New.

Mr. Boyd is in Portiana for several reasons, and all of them are educational. He is a man who was raised as a boy in Portland when the town reached no farther back from the river than Fourth street and now as a man at the head of a large and growing city, he comes back to the home of his youth in search of information for the brightening and adorament of his own adopted home. Spokane is about to have a new city park and a noo, and hearing that Portland the best park and the largest zoo on the Coast, with the possible exception of San Francisco, Mayor Boyd decided to journey to this city to look it over. He will go out to the park today and look over the appointment of the mare reducational.

air. Buchtel also spoke of the uncer-iainty surrounding the plan of district assessments even if the petitions should be signed, and of the great cost of ad-vertising, besides which Attorney New-ion McCoy, who prepared the petitions, had expressed a doubt whether they would be legal if carried out. It ap-peared to him that it would be wanted of time and effort to circulate the petitions for elevated roadways. This opinion was concurred in by all the members of the

On motion the secretary was authorized to lay the situation before the Executive Board, setting forth the great inconven-ience the public is suffering through the closing of the «Union-avenue bridge, which hampers the Fire Department and divides the East Side into two parts, and asking the Executive Board to repair this bridge so it can be used until a new structure is erected. resolution also the committee declared that in its judgment all such bridges should be built by issuing bonds, and that the charter should be so amended at the coming Legislature so that this can be done. The committee has wrestled with the bridge question for several weeks. When the committee undertook to raise some money to meet the cost of dreulating the petitions those interested

Union Avenue May Revive.

The new clevated roadway on Union avenue, between Belmont and East Madison streets, is completed and thrown open to the public, and the remainder of the avenue south to Hawthorne avenue will soon be finished. Here the surface is simply regraveled. There is a revival of business on Union avenue that threatens the prestige that Grand avenue has held for many years. Teams have been driven from Grand to Union avenue by the had condition of the roadway between East Stark and Pine streets, which is really dangerous, with no prospects of its being repaired. Union avenue lost its business years ago because the roadway became unsafe and trade was driven to Grand avenue. The situation now seems to have been reversed.

SNAKE STORIES ARE TRUE.

Millions of Reptiles Infest Klamath Region, Played With by Children.

Something over a year ago an article was published in the Oregonian, a sort of "fish story" about Klamath Lakes and the myriads of snakes redesired railway connection with Portland | ported to swarm about their shores, attributed to one "Bishop Barkley," a loon box, the other the box in the variety politician and preacher, well known in parts of this state.

The truth of the statements were not vouched for, but it was promised that they would be investigated and results reported, and the trend of the article was inclined to prevent readers from accepting the statements as gospel truth till the facts had been verified. Yesterday H. G. Grimes, an old-time settler Klamath region, who is in the city. called at The Oregonian office and hunted up the writer of the snake story to ask if the statements given had ever been attested.

He was told that no one had ever offered to verify them, and said that he had called for that purpose. He said that the number of snakes had not been exaggerated in the least, for at the proper season in the spring there were millions of them and many were as thick as his wrist. They were harmless, being a kind of water snake, and boys and even girls did not hesi-tate to selze one four or five feet long and swing it around over their heads for fun, but the snakes did not seen to derive any amusement from the pro-ceeding. There are myriads of frogs in the lakes, and in the Spring, when the tadpoles hatch out, they appear to emigrate from one lake to another and the unnkes follow them. There are also vast schools of "suckers," a fresh water fish, called "mulle by some, which inhabit the Kiamatil Lakes, and in the Spring swarm up small streams, running into them in such vast numbers as to fairly chok them. The snakes also prey on these fish, which are too large to be swall lowed whole, but a snake will faster to one and hold on like grim death til he tires it out and then devour it a leisure, the same as a cat would. If the schools of these suckers many will be seen with wounds or scars on them where they have been seized by snake made into hams, bacon, etc., Mr. Grimes would not speak definitely. He was inclined to think that Bishop was inclined to think that Bishop Berkley's statements on this point had been exaggerated by himself or some one else. And while admitting that The indications are for razorback hogs might eat snakes when hungry, he had never seen or heard of hogs being fattened on snakes. He says that as the country around the lakes is settled up, the snakes, frogs and suckers appear to become less numerous, and thinks that in a few years the stories about them will have

MAYOR COMES TO LEARN

Mr. Boyd also wants to find out about bridge flooring, and will take a course from the City Engineer or who ever would be legal if carried out. It appeared to him that it would be waste of time and effort to circulate the petitions for elevated roadways. This opinion was concurred in by all the members of the The rumor reached that city that Portland had a way of paving its bridges across the river that made them last for many years, and the Mayor from the North will try to carry the secret home with him when he returns in a couple of days.

A little course in municipal reform is also blocked out in the mind of the Mayor, and today he will take the first lesson of his post-graduate course from Mayor George H. Williams, the head professor of the department in the Northwest.

"I think that Spokane is a pretty cles ittle town and is as quiet and orderly as the average, if not more so." said Mayor Boyd last night at the Portland Hotel, "but I want to see if I can learn anything of interest to me in carrying on my administration, and so I have come to Portland.

"I do not think that it is a good policy to try to do things all at once. If you go too far with a reform you press public entiment and there is a reversion to th liberal ideas and all that has been gained is lost.
