Knows Nothing Starting.—The director of purchases for the Harriman lines, W. V. S. Thorne, of New York, who is in the city for a few days, spent Sunday in sightseeing and at the Hotel Portland, where he is stopping. "I am just visiting the lines of the system on my regular official trip," the visitor stated, when asked the purpose of his coming to the coast at this time. The reporter suggested that, in view of the many changes taking place in the railroad world, the coming of so many prominent officiels to the city at the same time was a cause of comment and was taken to presage some development or change here. "I do not know of any new mergers," stated the visitor, as he smiled at the information imparted. The interviewer intimated that the people of the Northwest were looking for some extension work to be done in the near future and connected the visit of the head future and connected the visit of the head of the purchasing department with that work. "Well," replied Mr. Thorne, "the Southern Pacific has been laying new rails during the past year. This year it is the intention to put in more heavy steel where it is needed along the line. You can find out about all of the improvements that are to be made from Mr. Calvin, the general manager," he advised. "I really do not know much about what, will be done. I do not decide upon the improvements, I just buy the material wanted when it is ordered by the operating departments." Mr. Thorne will make his official visits to the properties of the Harriman lines today and will then leave Harriman lines today and will then leave for the South over the Southern Pacific. He traded out the bill and immediately left the city. LONGER HOURS FOR BARBERS Ninety-Five Per Cent of the Shops

Will Keep Open Till 10 P. M.

It was a genuine season of rest yester day with boss barbers, who are wondering how late on week day evenings they can gather in the shekels for haircuts and shaves. The general understanding of the action taken at last Friday night's meet ing is that all barber shops shall be closed from Mondays to Fridays at 10 with the provise that all work done for patrons after 8 P. M. shall be paid for extra, that boss barbers who wish to close at 8 P. M. can do so, and that all shops shall be closed Saturday venings at 19:30 o'clock. The only ex ceptions to this rule are that two bar-ber shops operated in conjunction with two hotels in this city will be kept open until 10 P. M. every night from Mondays to Fridays, and at 19:30 o'clock P. M. Sat

The question was left an open one at the meeting," stated J. F. Niedermsyer last night. "Personally I will close my shop at S P. M. every week night, except Saturday. For instance, tomorrow, Monday, night I will close at S P. M." Frank T. Rogers stated that he will close his shop every week night, Mondays to Fri-days, at 10 P. M., with extra charges for work after 8 P. M., and Saturdays at 10:30 P. M. Interviews secured from other, boss barbers showed that apparently 26 per cent of all barber shops in Portland will be operated during the same hours as those observed at Mr. Rogers' shop. In other words, boss harbers wish to make all the money that's coming to them, and while many would like to close at 8 P. M. Mondays to Fridays, they will do ousiness at the same old stand two hours longer evenings, so that 10 P. M. rivals won't get all the evening trade.

It is a far cry from the ordinary stock play to Shakaspeare. The latter has been a potent influence in civilizing and educating the world for full three controls. world for full three centuries, outlasting every rival, surmounting every criticism, surviving all its detractors. The best genlus which the stage has called to itself in all these generations, the best of schol ars and philosophers, the best intelligence of all the time, from the bard's day to ours, have studied, debated and inter-preted the Shakespearean drams. And in the end it stands so high above all the rest that we can only stand, awestruck in its presence, and mark our own futility. For this reason, Shakespeare is always the final test of an actor's ability and the understanding of an audience. For this reason it is perficus for players to attempt the immortal Shakespeare; for in so doing they must follow the greatest of their own calling and stand out in the glaring light beside them for judgment. It was perilous for the Columbia any to attempt "Romeo and Juliet,"

When that time comes, it will mean a revolution in the conditions of months. When that time comes, it will mean a revolution in the conditions of that part of the state. There is but one thing now in the way, and that is the opposition of one small company which is now constructing a ditch capable of reclaiming about 50,000 acres. It is fair to suppose, however, that this company will fall in line with the rest of the private corporations which have decided to turn their interests over to the Government."

Senator Fulton is very emphatic in the Senator Fulton is very emphatic in the expression of his opinion that Portland should do something to see that a railroad is built into the Klamath country. Nettle DeCoursey and her company opened a week's engagement in "An Or-phan's Prayer" at Cordray's yesterday on to capacity business

The play is a pastoral melodrama, with many tearful passages, plenty of comedy of a rather broad sort and excitement galore. There is nothing in the plot to mark it as unusual, but it furnishes an opportunity for bunching a lot of sensational incidents, among them a couple of murders, a safe-cracking scene and an effective storm into which, of course, the unhappy orphan is driven to perish.

Perhaps the best feature of the show, askle from Miss DoCoursey herself, is the setting of the first act, a farmyard. In addition to a real old wooden pump, the kind made in Richmond, Ind., and a real haystack of generous proportions, enough livestock is introduced to set a home-steader up in business. When the curtain rises a flock of chickens have the center of the stage. Later a goat marches sol-emnly and proceeds to have fun with the footlights. Then, as the play proceeds, a dignified and sedate sheep joins the cast dignified and sedate sheep joins the cast of characters and completes the bucolic scene. The youngsters enjoyed the animals hugely and at times the dumb actors "hogged the show" from the ones who got their names on the programme.

Miss De Coursey, who is featured with the production, is an excellent souhsette. She is a modern edition of Maggie Mitchell or Lotta, and it took her but three minutes vesterday afternoon to become a minutes yesterday afternoon to become tremendous favorite with her audience. She has a fine singing voice, which she uses to good advantage in a number of specialties which she introduces. Frank Iteson gave a satisfactory performance as the old Yankee farmer. Josie Haine as the old Yankee farmer. Jose mands her old maid a very funny hit, and Mr. Hicks made lots of fun with his humorous characterization of the "hired hand." The other members of the cast were fair.

Highest-Priced Acts Ever Brought to Portland at the Star Theater.

This afternoon at 3 c'clock the big thing

The new programme for the coming week opens at the Star Theater with the Alpine family, the three Renos and Howe and Edwards as some of the big features. Of the Alpine family, a troupe of English wire-pedestrians, a book might be writ-ten. Just now it will suffice to say that they jump over a table balanced on the single metal strand, on which all their marvelous acts are done.

A vaudeville sketch that is good enough to be commented on by the New York Sun should be worth seeing. Howe and Edwards have it.

The three Rench have not reached the farcy salary point for nothing. Vaude-ville managers do not throw money away, but the Star is always glad to pay fan-salaries for fancy acts. And so the Ren are on the bill. Quality, not quantity, is the kenote of the Star's policy. No act is too high-priced for this enterprising house. But it does not believe in loading up a programme with a multitude of mediocre performers. It prefers to engage a limited performers. It prefers to engage a immed number of acts that are startlingly goed. That it has done this, the bill which opens this afternoon will prove beyond a doubt. Owing to the great strain of the Alpine family act it will be presented only three times a day—at the 3:30, 8:30 and 3:30 shows.

The eye is the most delicate and complicated organ in the human system. And yet general dealers, jewelers, druggists, even 10-cent stores, hand out a tray of spectacles and claim to meet the requirements of vision. Isn't it safer to have your eyes accurately fitted by a skilled optician than to trust to guesswork spectacle vendors?

TUBERCULOSIS BINGHAM SPRINGS, OREGON.

BINGHAM SPRINGS, OREGON.

Tuberculosis is curable. It requires proper diet, a pure aimosphers and reat of mindand body. Climate alone has little influence, it takes months of ordinary treatment, however, to start the patient on the road to recovery. Fallents at the Blue Mountain Sanatorium have the additional advantage of the use of our INHIBITORY REBUM. This serum is harmless and non-invitating. It promptly arrests the disease, stope lever, cough and expectoration, and the patient recovers in one-half the time required in other institutions. For information address DR. J. E. BINGHAM,
