

PIERCE IS IN PERIL

Apathy Is Resented by Combination Headed by Northwest.

MUST GIVE BIG VOTE TO MEAD

Otherwise County May Be Districted With King, and Foster and Cushman Both Be Defeated for Re-Election.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 1.—(Special).—A combination of the Northwest, Southwest and Eastern Washington members of the Legislature and the passage of a bill placing Pierce and King counties in one Congressional district is the threat now being held over the Republicans of Pierce County to compel them to exert themselves in behalf of Mead and the balance of the Republican state ticket.

Warnings have heretofore been given Pierce County that to secure any chance for the re-election of Senator Foster it must give a substantial majority for Mead.

The danger of losing Congressman Cushman is being pointed out as a warning of Pierce County of the political map of the State of Washington is now being seriously discussed as the penalty for failure to respond in accordance with the favors heretofore granted the county by the Republican party.

Cushman is being severely criticized by Republicans for leaving his county at such a critical time to go East and speak for the National Committee.

The description of the dangers of the situation in Pierce County, as contained in the staff correspondence of The Oregonian of Monday, gave the Republicans in Southwest Washington their first thorough understanding of the situation in Tacoma, and although the members of the Legislature to be elected by Thurston County are known to be for Foster and although the county will give a big vote for Cushman, the members of these two favorites is openly admitted to be dark and gloomy.

The talk of a combination to place Pierce and King in one Congressional district is being taken up by the Republicans today, with the complete understanding that such a measure would mean the elimination of Cushman two years hence, as a result of the immensely larger vote of King County, which wants a Congressman itself.

The Morning Olympian, of this city, well known as a strong friend of Senator Foster, in an editorial today frankly declares that the danger to both Foster and Cushman in the present apathy of the Republicans in Pierce County, and it openly declares that a Congressional districting bill of the kind mentioned above would be the best thing that could be done for Mead in Pierce County. The Oregonian staff correspondent is complimented for the fairness of the articles written by him from this state.

EASTERNERS WELL SATISFIED

State Treasurer Moore Believes Roosevelt Will Win Easily.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 1.—(Special).—That the election of Roosevelt is a foregone conclusion seems to be the opinion of the people of the East, and they are paying little attention to politics, said State Treasurer Moore, who is on his way to a visit to St. Louis and other large cities on the other side of the Rockies.

"I didn't head any political talk, except that made important acts have been practically approved by the Democrats in view of the satisfactory record of their own party's administration for the last eight years, the members of the Republican party are not looking for a party that has been wrong in its policies for 40 years. The people are not demanding a change, hence, the lack of interest in the election.

"So far as I could learn, it is certain that Indiana and Illinois will go Republican. That was the impression I got from inquiries I made in Colorado, and I was told that there is some doubt about Peabody winning, but the state is considered safe for Roosevelt. I am confident that I believe to be in a position to judge of the probable outcome."

State Treasurer Moore is enthusiastic over what he saw at St. Louis, and only regrets that he could not take more time to visit the Fair. One week was his limit, but he could have spent a month there without seeing all that would have been interesting.

"Oregon's exhibits were small, but not lacking in quality, as the premiums awarded prove. The Oregon building attracted a great deal of attention, and many people visited it every day. The only cause for regret is that the building could not have been made two stories high and filled with exhibits of Oregon products. The loghouses attracted the attention of the people, but after they went into it they found very little that would give them any idea of Oregon's industries and resources."

"I am not criticizing the management for the commission doubtless did the best it could with the small amount of money available; but the Oregon building would have been of very much greater value as an advertisement if it had been filled with exhibits of Oregon products."

No one should think that the loghouses gave any one a wrong impression of Oregon. We simply did not use it to as good advantage as we might have done for advertising purposes."

INSTITUTIONS NEED MONEY.

Washington Legislature Will Be Called Upon to Add to Capacity.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 1.—(Special).—In its biennial report now in progress of completion, the State Board of Control will make a strong appeal to the Legislature for appropriations for adding to the capacity of all the State institutions, with the possible exception of the Reformatory at Chehalis. This decision is the outcome of the inspection trip just completed by the members of the board, which included visits to all the institutions.

The penitentiary and the Western Washington Hospital for the Insane seem to be in the greatest need. At the latter place the carpenter shop has been made into a dormitory for the wrong patients and the unused basement has been fitted up as a makeshift ward.

At the Soldiers' Home the hospital is greatly crowded, and there are prospects that it will have still greater calls upon its facilities as time progresses. The Eastern Washington Hospital is overcrowded, and the passage of an act by the last Legislature admitting idiots to the capacity of that institution. The Reformatory School is crowded, but it is believed it can take over another fiscal period without additional buildings.

BREWERS MUST BUY

Nearly at the End of Their Waiting Game.

HOPGROWERS HOLDING FIRM

Conrad Krebs, of Salem, Looks for a Forty-cent Market—Believes a Pool to Be a Good Plan.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 1.—(Special).—Wait till things begin to move and you'll see something doing in the hop-business," said Conrad Krebs today, during a discussion of the situation in Oregon's most interesting produce market.

"The American hop growers have bought and begin to buy hops—then the price will begin to jump. I would not be surprised to see them get excited and then the advances would be five cents at a time. Instead of one cent or half a cent. After hop growers have bought a few hops thus far, but they've got to buy, and there is no way out of it."

"The market situation is stronger today than it was for several weeks. Hops went to a dollar a pound. I'm not predicting that the price will go to a dollar a pound on 1904 hops, but I would not be surprised if an excited market should carry the figure that high before next year's crop is ready for use."

"No, I'm not predicting any particular price, though I feel confident 40 cents will be paid. We have 1500 bales that we are holding for a higher price. We have 115 bales of the F. Van Wassenhove crop at Champoo today at 30 cents, for speculation, so you see we have confidence in the market."

"What do I think of a pool? I believe it is a good plan. At the same time, I am glad to see the weak holders letting their hops go, and the stronger ones are all sold out the better. It will be for the rest of us. The market will not advance as long as growers are letting hops go at present prices. As soon as the weak holders have sold and the market is stiff, they will begin to bid up and they will keep bidding until they get the hops. A hop pool could be formed and it would stiffen the market very materially, for it would show the brewers that the growers are determined to hold."

"The fact of the matter is that the brewers do not realize the real situation. Year after year they have been told that there was a shortage but they found out afterward that this shortage did not exist. Now they are waiting. But they will find out in due time whether there is a shortage or not. Not in 20 years has there been such a heavy export trade up to this time as this year. The crop of 1904 hops in England is still 400,000 hundred weight short and the American crop has been sold below the quantity needed for home consumption. Old hops are being cleaned up and the 1904 crop must be used before the new crop comes on."

"Forty cents doesn't look big to me." The hop market at Salem may be very quiet for some time and a number of dealers said today that they have no orders at any price. "This does not mean that the brewers don't want the hops or don't need them, but that they are waiting for a waiting game," said a prominent Salem dealer. "They have waited this long and have a few hops to fill their present needs and think they will wait until a little later. They can't see any use in making offers, for the growers won't sell at the prices named. If they offer an additional cent a pound, the growers will put up his price another cent, and the offer does no good. It is a waiting game and the side that waits the longest will win."

"I would like to see the growers sell, because I would like to do some business, but if I were in the growers' place I would do as they are doing. The situation from the growers' standpoint looks exceedingly good, and I think they will advance right away. This is a waiting market."

A few small sales have been made here in the last few days, but the purchasers were made by dealers for speculation and the transactions have not become public. The price is from 30 to 31 cents, 30¢ having been paid today for a small lot of primes.

Long was returned to Salem tonight by Sheriff J. W. Culver, of Marion County, who came to Oregon City on the afternoon Overland. The injured man was a laborer, aged about 35.

Long, who is but 19 years of age, says he struck Cameron in self-defense, alleging that Cameron was the aggressor in the quarrel that preceded the assault. Long said he had been invited to a saloon and agreed to fight in the outskirts of town. As Cameron started to strike, Long says he picked up a piece of fence rail with which he struck Cameron a blow on the head.

CAMERON IN SERIOUS CONDITION.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 1.—(Special).—Sheriff Culver returned from Oregon City this evening with Carl Long, who struck Henry Cameron with a fence rail at Butteville yesterday. Culver says that reliable witnesses of the affair told him that Cameron and Long went outside the town limits to fight, and that while Cameron had his coat half off, with his arms pinned behind him in the coat sleeves, Long seized a piece of fence rail and clubbed Cameron. When Cameron fell, Long jumped on him, striking Cameron's face with his heels.

Cameron was brought to Salem late tonight on the steamer Oregon. He is unconscious and raving so violently that it takes four men to hold him. He is not expected to recover. The charge upon which Long was arrested is assault with intent to kill, but if Cameron should die, the charge will be changed to murder.

ASTORIA, Or., Nov. 1.—(Special).—The Columbia River fishery, contrary to the tribulations of the Columbia River this year is not bright, and the indications are that the number of fry turned out will be much smaller than was anticipated, and well below that of last year. While accurate figures are not yet obtainable, reports received from each of the several plants on both sides of the river say the salmon taken for propagation purposes are few.

A recent cloudburst on the Upper Snake River necessitated the removal of a portion of the racks at the Snake hatchery in order to save them, and many of the salmon were thus able to escape.

Morris said the seven machines burned today were worth $3000.

Eleven machines were seized some days ago and an effort made to retrieve them from the justice of the peace, who issued a warrant for the seizure. That effort led to a row in the courtroom of the justice between the sheriff and the constable and Deputy County Attorney. That trouble was adjusted by an agreement to await the return of Judge Stewart to pass upon the right to retrieve such machines, and the 11 machines are still held by a committee representing both interests.

TRY TO PUT BLAME ON JEWS

Russians Testify They Organized the First Riot at Gomel.

GOMEL, Russia, Nov. 1.—The trial of the persons charged with being responsible for the anti-Jewish riots here in September, 1903, is proceeding slowly and with open doors and is attracting immense interest. There are on a Christian and 25 other persons who are under the same charge are being held under bail. Nine hundred and seventy-five of the 1100 witnesses are present. The government witnesses are attempting to show that the disorders of September 11, 1903, were in the nature of anti-Christian riots and not of anti-Jewish character.

It is alleged that the first riot was organized by Jews to take vengeance for the Kishinev affair, while the rioting two days after was a retaliation upon the Jews. The government produced evidence to prove that the Jews were thoroughly organized and armed and had prearranged signals, regular leaders, adopted a provocative attitude toward a Christian and acted overbearing, insulting peasants in the streets and jostling them off the sidewalks.

The affair of September, it is added, grew out of a tramping quarrel between a Christian forester and a Jewess over the purchase of a herring. The Jewess spat in the forester's face, a fight followed and Jews ran up and cheered the forester. Some Christians from the bazaar hurried to the rescue of the forester. The free fight then became general, the Jewish signals were given and the whole Jewish population assembled, attacking the Christians regardless of sex or age, a girl being dragged along the road by her hair.

The peasants abandoned their goods in the bazaar and fled. One of them was stabbed in the neck and killed. The police and a lieutenant and four soldiers tried to restore order, but stones were showered upon them and they were fired at from windows of neighboring houses, the Jews shouting: "We are going to be avenged; this is not Kishinev!"

The police and soldiers finally escaped, owing to the interposition of a rabbi. Two days later some railroad workmen who had announced they intended to take vengeance on the Jews came into the town at noon. The police had been warned and a company of soldiers was brought in and halted the workmen at the bridge. The Jews assembled behind the soldiers, the two sides attacking each other, finally hurling stones. Appeals of the police chief to the rioters to disperse were vain. At last a policeman was struck by a stone and the workmen, shouting "The Jews have killed a policeman," surged across the bridge. There then were revolver shots from the Jews whereupon the Captain commanding the soldiers placed his company between the opposing forces, and the workmen finally were dispersed in the direction of the suburbs.

But the Jews would not even listen to a rabbi who was present, and the soldiers finally charged them with bayonets, and across to the wealthy Jewish quarter was cleared.

In the meantime the workmen were re-assembling on the outskirts of the town and began pillaging, and a detachment of soldiers was continually engaged in dispersing them, while the Jews claimed they were attacking every Christian they could find. The first volley fired by the soldiers was in the quarter known as "Mary," where two workmen were killed. All the troops fired three volleys, killing two more workmen and one Jew. The total result of the rioting was three non-commissioned officers, two soldiers, two Jews and two Christians killed and four Christians and four Jews wounded. A number of policemen were also killed or wounded. About 20 houses and shops of Jews were pillaged.

The rioting continued all the afternoon and only ceased at nightfall.

Revolution Is Not Feared.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 1.—Felipe Gallego, local General, of the revolution, today received dispatches from his government to the effect that the recent reports that his country is threatened with a revolution are without foundation.

He Cured Himself of Serious Stomach Trouble by Getting Down to First Principles.

A man of large affairs in one of our prominent Eastern cities by too close attention to business, too little exercise and too many club dinners, finally began to pay Nature's tax, levied in the form of chronic stomach trouble, the failure of his digestion, the loss of his appetite, irritability, making it impossible to apply himself to his daily business and finally deranging the kidneys and heart.

In his own words he says: "I consulted several of the best medical authorities, but seemed to understand my case, but all the same they failed to bring about the return of my former digestion, appetite and vigor. For two years I went from doctor to doctor, but without any other, I gave up smoking, I quit coffee and even renounced my daily glass or two of beer, but without any marked improvement."

"Friends had often advised me to try a well-known proprietary medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I had often perused the newspaper advertisements of the remedy, but never took any stock in the medicine, until one day I bought a 50-cent patent medicine would touch my case."

"To make a long story short, I finally bought a couple of packages at the nearest druggists and took two or three tablets after each meal and occasionally a tablet between meals, when I felt any feeling of nausea or discomfort."

"I was surprised at the end of the first week to note a marked improvement in my appetite and general health, and before the two packages were gone I was certain that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets was going to cure completely, and they did not disappoint me. I ate and slept and enjoyed my coffee and cigar and no one would suppose I had ever known the horrors of dyspepsia."

"Out of friendly curiosity I wrote to the proprietors of the remedy asking for information as to what the tablets contained and they replied that the principal ingredients were aseptic pepsin (Government test), malt diastase and other natural digestives, which digest food regardless of its nature, and every drop of blood, every nerve and tissue is manufactured from our daily food, and if you can insure its prompt action and complete digestion by the regular use of so good a remedy as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, you will have no need of nerve tonics and sanitariums."

Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been in the market only a few years, they are widely known and used in the United States, Canada and Great Britain, and sell them and consider them the most popular and successful of any preparation for stomach troubles.
