

STUDENT STRIKE

Against Professor in North Pacific Dental College.

CLASS STAMPED IN UNISON

Dean Will Be Asked to Remove Dr. Lane, Who Rushed From His Classroom During a Furore.

There is a storm brewing at the North Pacific Dental College which looks black to the peace of that institution. Dr. E. L. Lane, lecturer on metallurgy, is the storm center and around him the senior class is weaving a chain of vengeance.

The class alleges that the professor has insulted it; that he is high tempered and cannot see through or sympathize with the members of '05 class in their little bursts of merriment, and as a result of all this is not fit to be in the position he now occupies. In order to see that justice is done, the class has appointed a committee which will wait upon Dr. Herbert C. Miller, the dean of the college, this morning and make a formal request that Dr. Lane be removed from his position in the college.

The trouble arose over a little bunch of humor that the class sprung in the classroom Tuesday of last week. The students in order to show their enmity, as each belated classmate would come down the aisle, kept time with their tread, much to the disturbance of the lecturer and the peace of the auditorium.

Dr. Lane asked that quiet be observed, but at the next chance the boys again made the hall resound with their rhythmic footsteps. This time the doctor told his class that if any of them could not be respectful they would be asked to leave by the back door without stopping to say good-bye.

On last Tuesday, when Dr. Lane was to have delivered another lecture, he found but one solitary student waiting to hear him. The rest of the class had gone on strike and failed to show up at the time appointed.

Their wrath gathering intensely with the passage of time, they met yesterday and decided that Professor Lane was not the man to teach them and that they were this morning asking for his removal.

Dr. Miller, when asked last night as to the truth of the rumor that there was trouble at the college, stated that he did not believe that it would amount to anything, and that since it was a slight misunderstanding between Dr. Lane and the class, it would be an easy matter to settle. He will try to do so this morning when the committee meets him.

WELL WORTH LOOKING AT.

The Display of Fancy Blankets and Robes Show Up Well.

One of the most attractive displays of blankets, fancy robes and woollen under-ware that has ever been shown in this city is now to be seen in the windows of the Brownville Woollen Mill store on Third and Stark street.

There is no doubt but what Oregon produces the finest blankets made in the United States and the Brownville mills make a specialty of the best quality. Some special features of the window display are fancy couch covers that are prize winners, and the good old-fashioned wool socks (like mother used to make) will keep a man on good terms with his feet.

Our 783d Friday Surprise Sale

The best buyers in Portland will take advantage of tomorrow's great surprise sale offering of 110 beautiful silk-lined lace waists, a remarkable purchase by our cloak chief now in New York City. It is indeed very seldom that an opportunity presents itself to buy such a high-grade lot of ready-made waists, manufacturers of this class of goods usually making up only what has been sold in advance from sample -- Late delivery and backward season caused a large Chicago specialty store to countermand their order -- Being on the spot when the goods were returned, our cloak buyer immediately picked them up and at his own price -- Only 110 remember, magnificent silk-lined lace waists for evening or dress wear -- Nets and laces in white, cream and ecru, a few in black, trimmed with silk, lace medallions, French knots, shirring, wide tucks, lace edgings, round, square, pointed, drop yokes, all silk lined -- Cold type can't commence to do them justice --
