KEEP OUT OF POLITICS.

Order Issued by Salem Mayor to Emplayes of City.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 14 .- (Special.) -- Mayo Waters created a stir in local political directs today by issuing an order forbid-ding city employes to take an active part in the Republican primary election, either in favor of or against any candidate for a nomination. This does not preclude vot-ing, but extends only to a prohibition of espousing the cause of any candidate.

The city campaign has been vigorously conducted in the last two or three days, and it was charged that city employes were becoming too prominent in the fight. Mayor Waters was not personally inter-ested, for he is the only candidate for the nomination for Mayor, but the order chiefly affects the contest for City Marhal. The direct primary election, which rill be held tomorrow afternoon, will be attrely under the control of Republican party managers, and the expenses will be met by the Republican City Central Com-mittee. In this respect the manner of conducting the primary election differs from the method provided for in the state direct primary law adopted last June which placed the expense upon the public

Seattle Merchants Continue War

Against Telegraph Company. SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 14.-The lat est move in the rate war between the Dominion Telegraph Company and the Government cable system is the or-ganization of local business men to "boost" business on the Government line. A large number of the business and commercial houses of Scattle doing business with Alaska are about to bring the matter before the Chamber of Commerce, and it is probable that decided action will be taken by that body toward increasing commercial business over the American cable.

It was stated today on good authority that the Dominion people have given the public to underwand through their local representatives that the cable was out of order all along the ie, and that as a consequence, it handle no dispatches. The truth of the matter is that messages are being taken by the Signal Corps as far as Sitks, the cable being out of repair north of there.

prevailed. Stockmen have lost almost their entire herds of range horses, and more recently their flocks of sheep and cattle are being driven off or slaughtered in large numbers. While these things have been known all along, and while the guilty persons were suspected, in some instances practically known, owners of the stock quietly waited for evidence against them to develop.

This evidence is said now to be in the possession of thoroughly reliable witnesses who saw a prominent young stockman burying the heads and hides of two beeves. This evidence was later uncovered, and the earmarks and brands were those of a neighboring stockgrower. Papers for the arrest of the stockman and his supposed confederates were issued, and the present large force of special of-ficers is striving to apprehend the crim-

The difficulties are increased by the custom of stockmen and cowboys, posed to be sanctioned by law, of driving all stock they find with their own off the range to a corral. Many owners have thus been forced to stand idly by and see their stock bunched up and driven off before their very eyes without power to interfere. The horses intended to be eventually stolen are soon transferred into other hands, while the one who drove them from their range returns and states that he turned them out again. The stock rapidly passes through so many hands and is driven so far away that either their return or the conviction, if any, of the rustiers, is next to impossible. In one instance a 22-year-old horse belonging to one of the largest owners in the county, was taken off his range, the brand changed, his tall docked and other mufilations made. He was then ridden al-most to death and turned out to die. Later he returned to his old range. One of the supposed gang is now in Jail awaiting the term of the Circuit Court. This is 16-year-old George Elliott, whose direct testimony at the preliminary hearing implicates other young men. Another of the alleged stock thieves is another 16-year-old boy, James Mael, more

Fight for City Marshal in Coming Election Is Center of Contest.

SALEM. Or., Nov. 14.-(Special.)-Late tonight S. A. Hughes announced his with-drawal from the race for the Republican nomination for City Marshal, leaving only two candidates in the field, Alonzo Ges ner, representing the faction of which Ed Croisan is the recognized leader, and Tom Cornelius, who is the candidate of the faction headed by Dr. J. N. Smith. The fight is now as nearly on old factional lines as it is possible to place it, and the result tomorrow night will be a fair representation of the relative strength of the two factions. That the fight is expected to be a bitter one is indicated by the announcement of J. L. Skipton tonight that he will be an independent candidate at the election next endent candidate at the election next conth, whichever Republican candidate ins in the primaries. Skipton calculates that although Salem is Republican by about four to one, the friends of the defeated candidate for the nomination will scratch the winner at the polls and thus a Democrat be elected on an independent ticket. There are many who anticipate such an outcome if the contest conficuous as were as it has been itest continues as warm as it has been in the last two days.
