Spokane Millionaire Secures Best Olympia Hotel.

WILL USE FOR HEADQUARTERS

Senatorial Apartment Will Entertain Lavishly in Horr Mansion, Secured at High Rental, for the Use of His Family.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 17.—(Special.)—Today without a word of notice among the friends of United States Senatorial candidates, and a flood of letters and telegraphic inquiries from Legislators concerning the matter during the session of the Legislature, the rental on a place suitable for Senatorial headquarters has gone skyward as the result of the burning of the Olympia Hotel.

The Olympia Hotel, a new two-story, 20-room hotel, a half block north of the burned Olympia hotel, today sold all its available space for the session to Charles Swenson, the Spokane Senatorial candidate. Negotiations had been pending for some time for the rooms, but demands and appeals on the management for quarters ceased. Swenson's managers to act quickly. Today George Stevenson and Ben Everett, of Tacoma, and Charles Hopkins, of Spokane, came to Olympia and closed the deal.

John H. McGraw, of Seattle, who has been negotiating for the rental of Mrs. J. C. Horr's 12-room residence near the business section of the city for the legislative session, today the rental of the residence was jumped to $500 for the two months. McGraw is supposed to be acting for S. H. King, County's aspirant for the Senatorship.

Senator A. T. Vandewanter and others who have been negotiating for the rental of the Horr residence, but it is understood tonight that Mr. Swenson has secured this also and will install his family there during the session here. They will entertain lavishly.

The majority of Olympia people feel that the payment of exorbitant rents for the average legislator or attendant upon the session is not justified by the benefits to be derived from the city or the legislative session. Today the rental of the residence was jumped to $500 for the two months. McGraw is supposed to be acting for S. H. King, County's aspirant for the Senatorship.

Posters' friends were also after the Horr residence, but today secured headquarters in the Red block, across the street north from the Capitol. Posters will have about a dozen rooms on the second floor.

PAINTER DROWNS IN SNAKE
SCAFFOLD ON BRIDGE SPILLS TWO MEN INTO THE RIVER.

Strong Swimmer Cries to Rescuers to Save His Partner, and is Drowned Himself.

WEISER, Idaho, Nov. 17.—(Special.)—An accident occurred at the big bridge being constructed across the Snake River at this place, by which Clarence Walton, one of the bridgemen, was drowned, and Clyde Baptist, another bridge employe, was pulled into the stream as he was sinking for the last time.

The men were painting the steelwork on the underside of the bridge when the platform on which they were standing was precipitated by the men below, causing it to fall into the stream. The men were rapidly carried down the stream. Boats were manned and started from the shore to rescue them.

Walton, who was an expert swimmer, yelled to the men in the boats to save his partner, but he was unable to do so. He was pulled into the boat just as Walton gave a yell for help and sank out of sight. It is supposed he was attacked by cramps, as the water is very cold. Baptist was pulled into the boat just as Walton gave a yell for help and sank out of sight.

His wife, who is an invalid, is prostrated, and it is feared the shock of her husband's death will be fatal. Walton was a member of the Knights of Pythias, belonging to a Salt Lake City lodge. He was about 35 years of age. More than 100 men were engaged in building the stream, and after several hours' work found the body about 60 yards below the bridge. The body will be shipped to Missouri.

NO TAX ON INSTITUTE.
Oregon Attorney-General's Opinion on Mrs. Reed's Bequests.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 17.—(Special.)—Attorney-General Crawford today rendered an opinion in which he holds that the bequests of Amanda W. Reed to the Reed Institute, the Portland Art Association and the First Unitarian Church, are not subject to the inheritance tax, for the reason that they are bequests to charitable institutions. It is also held that the bequests to the Reed Institute, Frederick G. Hodgson, of Astoria, Cal., and the First Unitarian Church, at Quincy, Ill., are subject to the tax, for the reason that those institutions are not incorporated under the laws of Oregon, and hence do not come within the exemptions provided by law.

The only circumstance which caused Attorney-General Crawford to hesitate to declare the proposed Reed Institute a charitable institution was the fact that the will of Mrs. Reed provides that moderate fees for admission and tuition may be charged, which is not within the opinion in this case will guide the Treasury Department in all similar cases. The Attorney-General gave the subject exhaustive consideration before rendering his opinion. OREGON DAIRIES GROW
PRODUCT SHOWS INCREASE OF $1,760,000 FOR THE YEAR.

State Commissioner Bailey Embodies a Number of Suggestions in His Biennial Report.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 17.—(Special.)—That the dairy products of Oregon for 1904 have a value of $1,760,000, or an increase of $1,760,000 over the year 1903, is one of the important facts shown by the biennial report of State Food and Dairy Commissioner J. W. Bailey.

"Quality and quantity," says Mr. Bailey, "must be the motto of the dairyman," and that this is the motto followed by a large proportion is indicated by that part of the report which shows that Oregon dairymen are improving the standard of dairy cows and are exercising more care in handling their cream and butter.

"I doubt if the dairymen of any other state in the United States," says Mr. Bailey, "are so successful as the dairymen of Oregon," says Mr. Bailey, and then he gives comparative figures showing the prices paid during each month of the year 1904, up to November, at Elgin, Ill., and Portland, Albany and Tillamook, Or. These figures show that Oregon dairymen never receive as low a price as is paid for butter in Elgin, Ill., but at some seasons receive 10 cents per pound, or practically 50 per cent more.

Last January, for example, the price of butter in Elgin, Ill., was 14 1/2 cents, while at the same time it was only 11 1/2 in Elgin. In May, when the lowest price was paid in Oregon, 24 1/2 cents was the price in Elgin, but at some seasons receive 10 cents per pound, or practically 50 per cent more.

PUTTING IT STRONG.
But Doesn't It Look Reasonable?

This may read as though we were putting it a little strong, because it is generally thought by the majority of people that dyspepsia in its chronic form is incurable or practically so. But we have long since shown that dyspepsia is curable, nor is it such a difficult matter as it first appears.

The trouble with dyspepsia is that they are continually dieting, starving themselves, or going to opposite extremes, or else deluging the already overburdened stomach with "bitters," "after-dinner pills" etc., which invariably increase the difficulty, even if in some cases they do give a slight, temporary relief. Such treatment of the stomach simply makes matters worse. What the stomach wants is rest. Now, how can the stomach become rested, recuperated, and at the same time the body nourished and sustained?

This is a great secret, and this is also the secret of the uniform success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. This is a comparatively new remedy, but its success and popularity leaves no doubt as to its merit.

The Tablets will digest the food anyway, regardless of condition of stomach. The sufferer from Dyspepsia, according to directions, is to eat an abundance of good, wholesome food, and use the Tablets before and after each meal, and the result will be that the food will be digested, no matter how bad your Dyspepsia may be.

PUTTING IT STRONG.
But Doesn't It Look Reasonable?

This may read as though we were putting it a little strong, because it is generally thought by the majority of people that dyspepsia in its chronic form is incurable or practically so. But we have long since shown that dyspepsia is curable, nor is it such a difficult matter as it first appears.

The trouble with dyspepsia is that they are continually dieting, starving themselves, or going to opposite extremes, or else deluging the already overburdened stomach with "bitters," "after-dinner pills" etc., which invariably increase the difficulty, even if in some cases they do give a slight, temporary relief. Such treatment of the stomach simply makes matters worse. What the stomach wants is rest. Now, how can the stomach become rested, recuperated, and at the same time the body nourished and sustained?

This is a great secret, and this is also the secret of the uniform success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. This is a comparatively new remedy, but its success and popularity leaves no doubt as to its merit.

The Tablets will digest the food anyway, regardless of condition of stomach. The sufferer from Dyspepsia, according to directions, is to eat an abundance of good, wholesome food, and use the Tablets before and after each meal, and the result will be that the food will be digested, no matter how bad your Dyspepsia may be.
