President Speaks at Catholic Church Anniversary.

CHEERED BY A GREAT THRONG

Emphasis Placed on Growth of Char ity That Recognizes the Worth of Work Done by Those of Whatever Creed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. - President osevelt made an address today at the lifth anniversary celebration at the Barracks Church and the dedication of Carroll Hall, the new parochial buildings and parish school , The Rev. J. Stafford, rector of St. Patrick's, acted as the master onies. Cardinal Gibbons, several archbishops and other dignitaries of the Catholic Church attended the exercises, the former making an address immediatepreceding that of the President. H. B. McFariand, president of the board of directors of the District of Columbia, was the concluding speaker.

The addresses were made from a balcony on the second floor of the rectory and the audience gathered in the streets. The intersection of Tenth and G streets, Northwest Washington, was packed with people and the crowd extended fully a square north, south, east and west from the rectory. Dr. Stafford in his opening remarks referred to the fact that in the century and more the St. Patrick's Church had worked in Washington no nor had come to it so great as the wisit of President Roosevelt.

Greeted With Many Cheers.

The Knights of Columbus formed guard of honor for the President, but a sound of policemen was necessary to open the way through the crowded streets. Cheer after cheer went up as the President and his excert appeared. As be passed into the reciper, a child's choir of me voices stationed in the front of the church sang hymns.

Before the ceremony was begun the President was shown through the handsome new rectory. When he stepped out on the balcony he was cheered loudly, demonstration doubling when Cardinal Gibbons took a place by the President's side and invited him to be seated. #### as follows: Address by the President.

"Cardinal Gibbons, Father Stafford and you, my fellow-Americans-It is a great pleasure to me to be present with you assist at the dedication of the school, hall and rectory of this parish-a parish whose 110th anniversary we also now celebrate, for this parish was founded six years before this capital was placed in the present District of Columbia. (Cheers.) I am glad, indeed, to have been introduced by Cardinal Gibbons to you, the spiritual representative, in a peculiar sense, to that Bishop Carroll who played so illustrious a part in the affairs of the church and whose kinfolk played so iljustrious a part in the affairs of the Nation at the dawning of this Government. In greeting all of you, I wish to say that I am especially giad to see the children

"You know, I believe in children. want to see enough of them and of the right kind. I wish today, in the very brief remarks that I have made, to dwell upon this thought-the thought that ought field, he secured large holdings in the to be in the mind of every man and woman here, the thought that while in this country we need wise laws, honestly and fearlessly executed, and while we cannot afford to tolerate anything but the highest standard in the public service of the Government, yet that in the last analysis the future of the country must depend quality of the individual home, of the individual man or woman in that

Future Depends on the Children.

The future of this country depends upthe way in which the average man and the average woman in it does his or her duty, and that very largely depends upon the way in which the average boy or girl is brought up. Therefore, a great responsibility rests upon those whose life work it is to see to the spiritual welfare of our people, and upon those who make it their life work to try to train the citisens of the future so that they shall be worthy of that future. 'In wishing you well today I wish you well in doing the most important work which is allotted to any of our people-to The rules of good citizenship are simple. The trouble is not in finding them out, but in living up to them after they have been found out.

"I think we all know fairly well what make up the type of character we like to see in man or woman, son or daughter; but I am afraid we do not always see them as well developed as we would like and this morning. qualities they are which in their sum citizen the development of the two licate as sweetness and strength-the salities on the one hand which make the man able to hold his own, and those which, on the other hand, make him jealous for the rights of others just as as for his own rights.

Sweetness and Strength.

We must have both sets of qualities In the first place, the man must have the power to hold his own. You probably know that I do not care very much for the coward or the moral weaking. I want ach of you boys, and the girls just as such, and each of you young men and young women, to have the qualities without which people may be amiable and pleasant while things go well, but withof trial.

"I wish to see in the man, manliness; in the woman, womanliness. I wish to see courage, perseverance, the willingness to face work, to face, you men, if it is necmeary, danger; the determination not to shrink back when temporarily beaten in life, as each which now and then, but to ome again and wrest triumph from de-

Successes in American Life.

Finally, I want to congratulate all of s here on certain successes that we have schleved in the century and a quarter that has gone by of our American life. We have difficulties enough and we are a long way short of perfection. I do not see any immediate danger of our growing too good; there is ample room for effort yet left. But we have achieved certain results and we have succeeded in a measure in realizing certain ideals.

"We have grown to accept it an axion atic truth of our American life that the man is to be treated on his worth as a man, without regard to the accidents of his position; that this is not a Government designed to favor the rich man as such or the poor as such, but that it is designed to favor every American, rich of poor, if he is a decent man, who acts fairly by his fellows.

Room for All Creeds.

"We have grown to realize that part of the foundations upon which our liberty rests as the right of each man to worship his Creator according to the dictates of his conscience, and the duty of each man to respect his fellows who so worship him. (Cheers and applause.) And, oh, my countrymen, one of the highest auguries for the future of this country, for the future of this mighty and majestic Nation of ours, lies in the fact that we brother have grown to regard one another with broad and kindly charity and to realize that the field for human endeavor is wide; that the field for charitable philanthropy is large, work is wide, and that while a corner remains undo a dreadful wrong if we fail to welcome the work done in that field by every man, no matter what his creed, provided only he works with a lofty sense of his duty to God and his duty to his neighbor."

After a speech by Commissioner Mc-Farland, the choir sang "America" and

FIGHT IN YAMHILL AND COOS

Liquor Forces Will Seek to Enjoin Proclamation of Prohibition, or Seek to Have . Returns Set Aside.

Prohibition will be fought in Yamhill and Coos Counties. Already the result of the election in Gilliam County, which "went dry," has been set aside by the County Court. In Coos the liquor forces will sue to enjon the County Clerk from proclaiming prohibition. In Yambili an effort will be made to have the County Court set aside the election as being of no effect.

The County Court of Coos has an ounced that it cannot give notice of prohibition until December 1. Anti-Prohibithat notice put off as long as possible. The law ordains that "said court shall on the 11th day after the election, or as soon thereafter as practicable, hold a special session; and if a majority of the votes hereon in the county as a whole or in any precinct in the county are 'for prohibition,' said court shall immediately make an order declaring the result of said ote and absolutely prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors within the pre-scribed limits except for the purposes and under the regulations specified herein un-til such time as the qualified voters therein at a legal election held for that purpos by a majority vote decide otherwise.

Keep its Six Saloons.

The town of North Bend, Coos County, has refused to obey the "dry" mandate of the county. Prohibition carried in the county by a majority of 110 votes. After the election the Town Council of North Bend instructed the Marshal to permit saloons to remain open so long as they conducted themselves decently.

Mayor Simpson announced to the Council that he believed every town should have the right to say whether it wished to be "wet" or "dry," and that such was the intent of local option. In the town, he said, there were six liquordealers, each of whom paid an annual license of 1400, without which money the town treasury would be bankrupt. Liquordealers, he said, had paid out large sums of money to establish their businesses, and the people of the town were willing to have them remain.

Piles Up Very Gently. The Sicilian Prince is 14 days out from Italian ports, and has about 900 Italian emigrants in the steerage. An unusually fact trip had been made and when she truck this morning she was making about 15 more. Takes Fathard Van Wyckien, in charge of the Long Beach

Te-saving station, says:
"It was hasy at the time and the cuptain of the Sicilian Prince was steering a northeasterly course." His only explanation of the being so close in shore is what he learned from some of the crew of the ship, who said that Captain William Hank, of the Prince liner, saw the Sandy Hook light and mistock it for the Barnegat light on the Jersey Coast, The steamer grounded so easily #### few of the passengers knew of the ship's predicament until daylight. Captain Sends for Tugs.

Captain Hank came as o'clock this morning when he found his vessel was fast aground and immediately got into communication with the agents of the line in this city who dispatched the wrecking tugs. Th arrived early in the afternoon and will stand by the ship until she is floated. No one was allowed to come ashore from the vessel. The beach on which the Sicilian Prince grounded is marked by several wrecks of vessels that have gone ashore there in the past five or six years. Late tonight it was reported the Sicilian Prince was still resting easily. There was somewhat more surf than during the day and the vessel was rolling some, but there was every assurance she would be floated in the morning. The passengers were not in any alarm and at no time was there any panie or fright manifested. The Sicilian Prince is a steel vessel of 1708 tons net. She was built in There are many rumors of Japanese activity on both flanks, but there is nothing going to show that a general engagement is more imminent than heretofore.

Greenood in 1889 and has seven water-tight compartments. Her length is 181 feet. James Knott, of the Prince line, of Newcastle, England, is her managing owner.

ROME, Nov. 28.—The Queen Dowager Margherita's 53d birthday anniversary was celebrated today throughout Italy by a display of flags and bunting and in various other ways. The ships in Italian harbors, including the United States cruiser Cleveland, at Genoa, hosted their pennants and their bands played national airs. The celebration afforded opportunities for fresh anti-Austrian demonstrations, but the crowds were easily dispersed by soldiers.
