TO FILL UP EAST SIDE STREETS.—There are good prospects that East Morrison and Belmont streets will be filled between East Water street and Union avenue, as well as East Washington. On the latter some preliminary work has been done. A temporary roadway has been laid from Union avenue to East Third, on which the track for the dump cars will be laid, but nothing further has been done. Manager Simon, of the Pacific Construction Company, which has the contract for most of the fill, stated the company would fill up the first two blocks between Union avenue and East Second street, and then fill up East Morrison street before completing East Washington. The weather has been so recently that all work on East Washington street has been suspended. The movement to fill up Belmont is a recent one. It is now about one-fourth filled. The estimated cost of filling the street with rock, gravel or dirt, and laying a plank roadway on the embankment will be $15,000.

FORTY HOUR ADORATION CLOSURE.—The devotion of the forty hours' adoration of the blessed sacrament began Tuesday at the Holy Rosary Catholic Church, East Third and Waaco streets, closed yesterday. Saturday the Mass, Fro Face took place in the morning, and the solemn mass of reposition with procession and benediction yesterday morning, at 10:30. Sunday the singing at the 8:30 A. M. mass was by the children and young women's choir, under the charge of Miss Elizabeth McMahon. The music at the 10:30 mass was by the Holy Rosary male choir, with J. H. Chas as leader and Miss Nora Sheahan organist, and was excellent. Besides the usual Pange Lingua and Dominican responses, the Ave Verum, appropriate to the occasion, was sung.

THE NOMINATE OFFICERS.—A citizens' meeting has been called for this evening in the Town Hall at Milwaukie, for the purpose of nominating a ticket for city officers for the ensuing year. The meeting will take place Monday, December 5. With November will close the first fiscal year of the City of Milwaukie. No debts have been contracted, and some money is left in the treasury to be turned over to the incoming officers. At this meeting there will be nominated a Mayor, four Councilmen, Auditor, Marshal and Treasurer. It is thought likely that William Schindler will be re-nominated. Mention is also made of Auditor Jesse Keck, Charles Mullen and T. R. A. Sellwood.

GAS FOR MOTOR TANKS.—The Portland Gas Company will make Motor Tanks for Tabor in the Spring. If enough of the residents sign the paper in circulation there promising to take gas. Several blue prints of the motor tanks which have been prepared and are in circulation. Already many of the residents are signing, and there is small doubt but enough signatures will be obtained to make the laying of the main. Also gas is wanted in Montavilla, and many signatures are being obtained in that suburb.

LAYING WATER MAIN IN ST. JOHN'S.—C. Scott, superintendent of the St. John's Water Company, has just completed 200 feet of two-inch mains along the east side of the boulevard to the Hub Land Company's tract. A carload of pipe is expected, and will be laid as soon as it arrives. In the Spring the company will build another water tower and reservoir to meet the increased demand.

SPYKAS ON ALBANY.—"The Thanksgiving Spirit" was the topic of Rev. Jerome McGrade, at Missah Presbyterian Church, Powell street, last evening. A Thanksgiving service was held during the evening, with special music by the choir, and the sermon was in harmony with the occasion.

NORTH ALBINA PUSH CLUB TO MEET.—The North Albina Push Club will hold a meeting this evening in the basement of the Patton M. E. Church, when a constitution and by-laws will be adopted, and the organization effected. Some plans of work for Winter are also being discussed. F. P. Baumgartner, Agent, Telephone Main 381.

CHURCH ELECTS DELEGATES. United Brethren Denomination of the Nation Holds Election. The United Brethren churches of this city, state and Nation yesterday elected delegates to the General Assembly, which will meet in Topeka, Kan., in May, to decide the question of organic union with the Methodist Episcopal and Wesleyan churches with the Congregational church. It will be several days before it will be known who have been elected. In this state two ministers and two laymen were voted for out of 13 candidates, and when the names are counted it will then be known who are delegates from Oregon. The Methodist Protestant denomination has already decided in favor of organic union with the United Brethren Church, and Rev. H. C. Shaffer, of the Portland First Church, East Morrison street, says that it is almost a foregone conclusion that the United Brethren will take the same action, which will give a united membership of 550,000. Federation with the Congregational church, he says, means final organic union. There are no doctrinal differences in any of the three churches, and the union is approaching along the same lines that the union of the Presbyterians and Cumberland Presbyterians is following. At the Portland First Church the election was made a special occasion. Elder Neff preached and new members were received.

Snow Falls in Blue Mountains. LA GRANDE, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special.)—A heavy snow has been falling in the mountains for a few days past.

DIPLOMAT IS HERE

Mr. Altechul was reticent in speaking of the recent trouble in Panama, when an insurrection was threatened. "The trouble there," he said, "is in reality not at all serious. Just before the election in the United States newspapers here talked freely of Panama affairs, principally for political reasons, and have made an elephant of a mouse. This talk is responsible to a degree for the trouble."

EXHIBIT IS READY.

Tenth Annual Exhibition of Camera Club to Open.

The tenth annual print exhibit of the Oregon Camera Club will be thrown open to the public this evening in the clubrooms, Macleay building, and some of the finest specimens of photographic art ever seen in Portland will be given to public view. The exhibition of last year was a most creditable one and much fine work was shown, but in the present exhibit the technical manipulation of prints is superior and the selection of subjects is more confined to the lines of art than heretofore. The framing is in quiet but perfect taste and the general tone of the collection is good from every standpoint.

A photograph which resembles a painting is a rarity—brush artists would say an impossibility—but Miss Elizabeth Huteby has succeeded in making her delightful flower study, "Narcissus," look so much like a dainty water color that it bears no resemblance to the ordinary photograph. It is by long odds the best flower piece which has ever been shown here, and, notwithstanding that it is a very noticeable work has been done in that line by several of the members, and if there was a cup offered for this class it would undoubtedly go here. Another print which rarely resembles brush-work is a carbon by G. F. Holman entitled, "After the Storm," which is the winner of the Holmes marine trophy. Another marine which will be greatly admired by artists is Alfred Anderson's "Her Voyage Done." This carbon has been handled perfectly and was in close competition with Mr. Holman's marine for the Holmes cup.

George B. Shepherd presents a very fine marine done in bromide, which also received favorable mention in that class. "Antarctic Puff" was obtained under great difficulty in the South Atlantic Ocean, the artist leaving the vessel on which he was voyaging and going out in a rowboat in order to get height to the waves.

The best landscape in this year's exhibit is presented by Henry Berger, Jr., in "An Idle Little Stream," taking the Gavin cup. Mr. Berger has treated his subject most artistically and his mechanical work is well done. There are many other good landscape humors in the exhibit, among which are those in the general collection of Harry G. Smith, who takes the Judd cup this year. The gem of this collection is "Ray Day," a print so cleverly executed that the water looks warm and slippery and the Oregon mist hangs in the background. A flower study is also good.

"Portrait Study" by H. J. Thorne wins the Smith trophy. There is much good work done in portraiture this season, but Mr. Thorne's was considered by the judges as excelling all others. I. N. Lippman shows some splendid work in this line, and Miss Huteby, Mr. Holman, J. Gray, Paul Weisinger, Mrs. P. A. Davis and others have creditable specimens. J. A. Haran shows some good Indian studies, and J. D. MacKenzie, the youngest member in the club, has a good thing in a portrait of a small Indian boy, entitled "Sunny Jim."

The Alfred Anderson trophy for the best work done in a watercolor is by W. V. Jones, whose "No Fun for Baby" tells a perfect story of childish mischievousness. L. C. Henriksen's exhibit is good. "At Nature's Tavern" deserving especial mention as a study in the watercolor. "The Creek," by H. Clausen, Jr., shows one of the best pictures of Mount Hood seen for some time, and O. M. Ash, whose prints are not entered for competition, has some fine artistic work.

In outdoor portraiture George E. Benson's "A Positive and a Negative" is very fine, and Miss Huteby's "Couquette" well done. G. F. Holman has an unusual study in "An Egyptian," and also in "The Wounded Monarch," which is a wounded mountain lion, taken in the open. Homer K. Arnold, I. Lesser, C. W. D. Macer, W. H. Downing, F. H. Fleming, J. P. Plummer, J. Gray, Winch and Chester C. Walton all have good work on exhibit, and Miss Breyman, whose work is not in competition. Hugo B. Goldstein, of San Francisco, has brought eight prints which are non-competitive. They are up to the usual fine standard of the Goldsmiths and are mostly Chinese subjects. They add greatly to the general exhibit and are much appreciated by the committee.

The officers of the club this year are: C. H. Hoeg, president; G. F. Holman, vice-president; J. J. Tyrrell, secretary; and W. H. Downing, treasurer. The exhibition committee consists of A. A. Gavins, G. Smith, G. F. Holman, Miss S. M. Wickham and Mrs. L. M. Randall. An unusual artistic catalogue has been gotten up, and the exhibition is well covered. Handsome half-tone inserts appear on several of the prints on exhibition, and the general tone is high class. The club will be open to the public every afternoon following the opening tonight, and every evening from 7 to 10 o'clock. The exhibition is cordially invited to visit the exhibit and offer criticism on the work.

TO PAY OFF DEBTS.

Albina Congregationalists Adopt Novel Plan to Raise Money.

The officials of the Mississippi-Avenue Congregational Church have adopted a novel method of raising $500 with which to pay rent, sewer and sidewalk assessments and fire insurance, to purchase wood for winter, repair the belfry, make the balance on the pastor's salary and pay the balance for piping the yard. It is in the nature of a contest in which the entire membership is equally divided into two divisions, each to raise the sum of $250. The most money by November 30. At this time the money each division has raised will be counted, and the division which has raised the largest sum will eat cream and cake, and the losing division will have to partake of dry breakfast food. The banquet will be held December 2, following the close of the contest. Mrs. C. M. Smythe and Mrs. Zeigler are captains of the "Red Division," and Mrs. E. Thompson and Besse Dupee are captains of the "Blue." The contest is now on, and is being hot all along the line. The divisions have both adopted badges, and the official board of the church has issued the following stimulating manifesto to the contestants: "Remember that victory is to the strenuous; that the cream is very good; that for your side to eat breakfast food will be humiliating; that the cause is worthy of your best efforts; that a dime now means a dollar; that we need $500; that our treasurer and all concerned at the banquet will greatly rejoice if the entire indebtedness is wiped out; that success depends upon what you do; get busy now."

Cabinet Minister of Honduras Visits Portland.

Secretary Francisco Altechul Tells of Business Chances for Pacific Coast Men in Republic of Panama in Many Lines.

PRaises the Coming Fair

Secretary Francisco Altechul Tells of Business Chances for Pacific Coast Men in Republic of Panama in Many Lines.

Today Portland has as a visitor an interesting person, and one who has figured in the history of the Central American states for some years. On the register at the Portland Hotel is to be seen a string of marks indicative of a name, the most legible part of which is Honduras, C. A.

By the side of the desk last night stood the writer of the hieroglyphics, a man not to be distinguished in the crowd from other men of one of prominence. Not large of stature and with a German accent, he would have passed for a business man from most any part of the state, but his card bore the legend, "Francisco Altechul, ex-Secretary of Commerce, Agriculture and Public Works of Honduras, C. A."

Mr. Altechul has had a varied career in the Central American country. Under President Policario Bonilla he was Postmaster General, under President Terencio Sierra, Secretary of Commerce, Agriculture and Public Works, and the holder of the same position under the three-months' administration of President Juan Abel Arias, and under the administration of President of the Clerical party in 1901. He was the representative of Honduras at the Pan-American Exposition in 1901, and has been prominent in Panamanian affairs since the overthrow of the Liberal party in Honduras in 1901.

Different Political Parties.

The Liberal party in Honduras is that one which believes in the promotion of the future of the country by outside help, in the calling in of foreign capital, and in the introduction of foreign methods and means of transacting business. The Clerical party is opposed, and believes in the theory of self-development irrespective of outside help or influence.

Since the overthrow of the former party by the latter, Mr. Altechul has lived in Panama and is now engaged in promoting enterprises for the development of that country. He is the only foreign-born resident who has ever held a cabinet position in Central America, being a member of the cabinet of the future of the Central American countries, and of the opportunities for American investment in that part of the world.

"I am in Portland," said Mr. Altechul, "in the interest of a cold-storage and meat slaughtering plant for which I have secured most liberal concessions from the government of Panama and in which Portland capital is heavily interested. The storage plant will have a capacity for 100,000 pounds of meat, the slaughter-house will be able to handle 200 cattle a day. The concessions granted are very valuable, for under the terms no other similar plant can be built in the country, and to this the machinery necessary can be brought from outside countries free of duty, and the while the cattle can be imported without inconvenience."

Chances for Investment.

"Nothing but beef will be slaughtered by the Panama company and the cattle will be brought from the Central American countries, but the consular advantages in regard to the states for all hog products, fruit and provisions, perishable merchandise of any kind can be shipped to it and secured most liberal concessions. It will open to these shippers a market heretofore impracticable."

It is in the timber trade with Panama, however, that the visitor sees many advantages to the Pacific Coast lumbermen.

"The government of Panama," he said, in talking of the situation, "has ordered a large amount of timber from Oregon forests, but the Panama timber-merchants get all their supply from Pensacola and Tampa, Fla. There is a great chance for Oregon merchants to build up a trade in lumber in Panama, for all the timber coming from Florida has to come first to Colon, on the Atlantic Coast, and be shipped across the isthmus by rail to Panama, which is the principal business and commercial center. Freight by this route is so high that it would be an easy matter for the Pacific Coast to secure all of the business. If the shippers would send their timber by sailing vessel, The Pacific Mail, having no competition, charges excessive rates which would be prohibitive."

Favors Lewis and Clark Fair.

Portland and the managers of the Lewis and Clark Fair should make an effort to see that the Central American States send exhibits to the Fair, the speaker, changing the subject. "It would increase the friendly feeling between the state and those governments, and be the means of opening up a very valuable business acquaintance between the different sections. A commissioner should be sent to the States to see that they do so."

Dion Boucault. Utterance of the name of this favorite Irish playwright makes us shut our eyes for a moment and call to mind's vision a stage creation in which there is a red-faced Saxon squires, who loves dogs and rakes to hounds; the descendant of an Irish family who has been dispossessed of his lands; an Irish priest with a touch of the blarney; a widow; an ingenue, and all served to taste, with a dash of wit.

But Boucault's translation of Feuille's French play, "Lod Astray," is somewhat different. It is a Paris play in an Irish dress, but the delicious wit and humor are Boucault's, and is the attraction this week at the Columbia Theater, the box office of which has been moved to the Dolly Varden candy store at Marquam building. "Lod Astray" received its premiere yesterday, and two big crowds liberally applauded it. The story of a post falling in love with a married woman, who is the idle, foolish and romantic, because she has a husband who doesn't understand her, suggests a problem play, but Boucault is too clever for that. He steers from stormy waters, and in "Lod Astray" excels in deep emotional work, while two dowagers, Baronesse de Rivoniere and Dowager Comtesse de Chandoux, make the comedy element, assisted by the juvenile, Hector Placide. Catherine Countess is the romantic wife, and Edgar Baume, the hasty, inconsiderate husband, who hasn't patience with a woman's ways or the ways of a maid. Both parts are well taken. Miss Countess's fine emotional work at the end of the fourth act suggests a bit of "Diplomacy," where Rose Coghlan made a bit.

George Bloomquist nearly plays the leading part so far as continuous action is concerned. He is a sort of family peevish, and shines in fetching and carrying things. Good work, Mr. Bloomquist. Loretta Allen won favor for comely effects. Louise Brandt makes a pleasing-looking Mathilde, and is to be credited with charming naturalness in one love scene. Marion Barhyte plays the part of a rollicking Irish girl, and is making marked advances in her art. The play is well staged and there are no long waits.

SALVATION ARMY CHANGES.

Many Officers Sent to New Fields for Coming Year's Work.

There were large meetings held at all the Salvation Army halls in the Northwest last night in farewell to the many officers who are being transferred from their old posts and put into new fields. It is the policy of the army to make changes every year in order that all workers may become acquainted with different conditions of life and the many phases of the work. In Portland the largest meeting was held at Hall No. 1 Third and Union streets. Captain Bertha Holeton was the principal speaker.

The changes which will be made are announced by Major Dublin to be as follows: Captain Bertha Holeton, Portland to San Francisco; Captain Nellie McGregor, Portland to San Francisco; Ensign and Mrs. Arthur Davis, Hoquiam to Los Angeles; Captain J. Davis, from Centralia, to go on furlough; Captain John Brown, Portland to Centralia; Ensign and Mrs. Helsing, Portland to Pendleton; Lieutenant Mary Davie, Portland to Pendleton; Captain Henrietta Bigney, Portland to Hoquiam; Acting Lieutenant Carpenter, Portland to Pendleton; Captain and Mrs. Nelson, Vancouver to Oregon City; Captain and Mrs. Carrington, Weiser to Vancouver; Ensign Robert Crabtree, Oregon City to special work for Major Dublin; Captain and Mrs. Connor, North Yakima to Pocatello; Captain and Mrs. Richmond, to North Yakima; Ensign and Mrs. Kuhn, Tacoma to Portland; Ensign and Mrs. LeRoy Storm, San Francisco to Portland.

These transfers went into effect yesterday and all the officers will be at the new posts within the next few days.

MUSIC AT ST. FRANCIS.

Church Has Surplused Choir of Sixty Boys and Girls.

St. Francis Church, Rev. Father J. H. Black, rector, East Oak and East Eleventh streets, is among the first churches in the United States to surplus the commands of Pope Pius X. regarding sacred music in the church services. A surplus choir of boys has been formed, under the instructions of the Sisters of the Holy Name and the approval of Rev. Father Waltz, are now singing Gregorian chants during the services of St. Francis Church. The surplus choir of the parish consists of nearly 60 voices, and the choir sang nearly 50 voices, and the week ago, and yesterday evening the congregation saw some 30 of the parish boys march solemnly into the sanctuary to sing the vesper services. Vesper and benediction were sung beautifully and effectively in plain chant, the boys in the sanctuary and the girls in the gallery singing alternately the verses of the psalms. The choir consisted of nearly 60 voices, and the music on the services is very marked, and the auditorium was crowded and the congregation pleased with the music of the children of the parish.

Founded Fruit Industry.

ROSEBURG, Or., Nov. 20.—(To the Editor.)—In the death of Alfred Luelling, at Oregon City last Friday, Oregon has parted at the same time with a man whose memory is a substantial perpetuation. He and his father were the founders of the fruit industry of our great state, and that industry is one of the most valuable we have. Our fruit has challenged the admiration of the world and enriched our people engaging in it. No more suspicious year than that commemorating the achievements of Lewis and Clark can be selected in which to begin a movement for the erection of a monument to the memory of the Luelling. Let the beneficiaries of Oregon take up the matter at once and prosecute it to a successful completion. Every lover of fruit will assist, and now is the accepted time to begin. R. W. MITCHELL.
