This Commission holds the pain for use-leas bodies authorized by act of Congress or created by direction of the President. It has been one of the little luxuries that went with the great St. Louis Fair. It cost the Government just $45,000 a year, or in the neighborhood of $170,000, during the entire period of its existence. Another bill, now pending, author-ising forest officers to make arrests for violation of the laws and regulations relating to forest reserves, is also rec-ommended for massage. McBride Senator from Oregon. Two other members had been members of the House of Representatives, and the others were picked up promiscuously, according to the amount of pull they could command. About all the members of the Commis-sion have done since the day of their ap-pointment has been to draw their salarises with studied regularity, and to present thomselves, well dreased and in good hu-mor, on state occasions. They have spent more or less time at St. Louis, but the actual work they did to promote the Ex-position could have been performed by a single man on moderate salary, and he The Commissioner also recommends that Congress enact adequate legisla-tion which will tend to harmonize state legislation upon the subject of protec-tion of game and fish within forest reserves, without creating a divided jur-isdiction over such reserves, and which would not encroach upon the rights of the states to control the game and fish

Wallace is charged with stealing stock certificates to the value of $30,000 from James Breitung, a banker of Marquette by whom he was employed as a private secretary. Wallace fled from Marquette on Octo-ber 30, leaving word with his employer that he was going to an institution for the cure of inebriety in Illinois. When it would suspected he would not return, Breitung began an investigation with the result that $50 shares of Michigan Copper Mining stock and 200 shares of United States Steel preferred stock were found to be missing. He at once reported the case to the American Bankreported tassociation, with the result that a search was begun for Wallace. It was found that he had taken passage from Boston on the Cunard liner Saxonla for Liverpool on November 12, with a woman said to be his wife, under the name of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson. It was sub-sequently learned that Wallace had obtained a letter of credit in Boston for £4400. When the steamer reached Eng-land a detective was at the pler, and the man and woman who had gone over under the name of Wilson were found. and the man was possively identified as Wallace. Wallace was then taken into custody. The 54400 letter and the money which Wallace had in his possession was recovered.

sented by Interior Minister.

The situation is extremely delicate. Two incidents have occurred, both of which militate against the Liberals and increase the difficulty of Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky's position. Prince Mestichersky, editor of the Grach Dain, who is head of the reactionary press, this morning unrasked his batteries, attacking the interior minister in such fashion for his liberal tendencies that Prince Svlatopolk-Mirsky, for the first time since he assumed the ministry, ordered the confiscation of the issue. On the strength of the influence behind such an attack lies the real significance of Prince Mestichersky's net. At the same time, from the op-posite direction, the Nasha Ziesn. (Our Life), a new Radical paper, author-ized by Minister Sviatopolk-Mirsky, in-dulged in a direct attack on the Em-peror, with the result that the minister peror, with the result that the minister ordered the suspension of the publi-cation. The action of this paper is considered to be very unfortunate, as it places a powerful weapon in the hands of Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky's enemies. Many of the minister's friends are inclined now to believe that the Zemstvos went too far and have jeopardized the position of their best friend. Prince Ukhtomsky, editor of the Viedomosti, said to the Associated Press: "The duty of all friends of a Liberal regime is to uphold and sustain Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky in every possible way. His retirement would be a great misfortune.

There was some talk this afternoon of an offer on the part of the government to compromise with the Zematvos by giving them a voice in the Council of the Empire, which is the lawmaking body. The proposition is to elect two members of each Zemstvo to sit in the Council and participate in its deliberations, but not to vote. Such a plan, it is pointed out, while not giving the Zemstvos a share in the lawmaking, would insure the presenta-tions of the views of the provinces on all laws enacted.

Both classes of timber are undesirable in the reserves, and the Government is glad to sell it, even at low prices. is glad to sell it, even at low prices. People are rapidly coming to under-stand the free-use permit system in procuring timber needed for individual use of settlers, miners, prospectors and residents, for firewood, fencing, build-ing, mining, prospecting and other do-mesite purposes, and the number who take advantage of the privilege is rapidly increasing. There has been some dissatisfaction expressed because of delays in securing these permits, but in most cases the delay has been attributable to the settler. Commissioner Richards states that in Commissioner Richards states that in the Black Hills forest reserve, in South Dakota, where a great deal of mature timber is sold, the revenue has for timber is sold, the revenue has for three years past been in excess of the total outlay for the administration of that reserve. He advocates an exten-sion of the sale and lease proposition, so that the Government may make all of its forest reserves self-sustaining. He believes a reasonable charge should be made for the privilege of grazing stock in reserves. The reserves the stock in reserves. The revenue that should be derived from such a charge would, he says, be in proportion to the magnitude of the great wool industry in those localities; and there certainly appears to be no good and sufficient reason for allowing that industry use of the herbage within the reserves free of charge while requiring that the Iumber trade shall pay for its supplies drawn from the same source. There are also numerous sawmills, hotels, road-ranches, Summer resorts, stores and other establishments within the reserves, all of which should pay a small charge each for the privileges granted of so occupying and using forest reserve lands. "Under such management it would not be long before the reserves would become more than self-supporting." says Commissioner Richards. "Yearly appropriations for their care would cease to be necess It accordingly appears necessary that
