FRAMING THE CHARTER.—The Mount Tabor charter committee, of which G. H.
Andrews is chairman, holds frequent meetings to further the work of framing the new charter so it will be ready for introduction at the coming Legislature.
H. W. Hodges, member of the committee, said that the Portland city charter is being freely used, but only such portions as would apply to that local district are appropriated. Mr. Hodges says that the Bancroft bonding provisions for the construction of sireets and sewers will be instruction of streets and sewers will be instruction of streets and sewers will be inserted, as he thinks it will be necessary to make considerable improvements in these lines in a short time after incorporation.

A telephone message to the central station caused Captain Moore to dispatch Sergeant Hogeboom and Patrolmen Burke, Baty and Roberts, of the North End squad. They joined in a search of the vicinity for the hold-up artists, but found no trace of them.

Sergeant Hogeboom and his squad remained in the vicinity about one hour, scouring every nook and corner for a trace of the highwaymen. It was just 19:15 o'clock when Fred Gansneder, proprietor of the Boss saloon.

DINE AT CITY JAIL.

Prisoners Given Spread That They Will Long Remember.

Jim Casey says they never had such a Thanksgiving dinner at the City Jail, and Casey ought to know. The last 14 years of his life have been spent in Portland, and he has been behind the bars of the prison every time the National feastday has rolled around. Hence, he is admittedly one who can talk with authority about spreads.

"It was a pippin of a dinner," was the way old Casey put it. "We all had a crackerjack of a time. My, but we did eat: I never had a more pleasant time anywhere, "nless it was when I was at home. I have been in the jail so many Thanksgiving days now that I don't mind it. But ever had it and the latter mode bold to shove his brother against the door, pushing him in and following him. He then slammed the door face the bensits alone.

Both highwaymen were exceedingly angry, but they did not fire any shots. They kept quiet, seeing their plans were frustrated, and ordered Burnett upstairs into the Boss lodging-house. This trick came near proving fatal to them, for when he reached the partor of the hotel he raised the latter mode bold to shove his brother, but he latter made bold to shove his brother against the door, pushing him in and following him. SAILORS ENJOY FEAST.

Dinner and Programme Given Tars at Seamen's Institute.

High water mark in hospitality and tood cheer was reached yesterday at the learnen's Institute, when 150 sailors were treated to a Thanksgiving dinner. There were present Italian, French, German, Russian, Scandinavian, Greek, British and other sallors, but the Italians, the winners of the afternoon boat race, were the heroes of the occasion.

Rev. C. C. Bruce, the chaplain, received his 150 sailor guests at the door of the Institute and won the hearts of the Italian Institute and won the hearts of the Italian delegation by saying in Italian: "Long live Italy." Tables in two of the large rooms were groaning with Thanksgiving cheer, turkey being mostly in evidence. After dinner the sallors were entertained in the social room, and songs, recitations and speeches in various languages formed the interesting growram.

species in various languages formed the interesting program.

The Volunteers of America received bounteous gifts in the shape of Thanksgiving fare, which they lost no time in presenting to people worthy of their benevolence. Many a poor family who otherwise would have been without any turkey or cranberry sauce were made giad by timely gifts and cheering words from the Volunteers.

The Salvation Army people were by no

The Salvation Army people were by no means idle yesterday. Fourteen officers of the local corps spent the afternoon at the Salvation Army Rescue Home, on the East Side, and treated the girls and women living there to dinner. In the evening, at the Davis-street hall, a Thanksgiving service was held, at which addresses were given by Captain Hen-rietta Bigney and Lieutenant Carpenter, of Pendleton.

Fortune smiled upon St. Vincent's Hospital, for had not the Weinhard estate gifted $500 to the institution, and about 20 fat turkeys been received to make pa-tients glad? All the sick who could safely eat turkey flid so, and a regular safely eat turkey fill so, and a regular New England Thanksgiving dinner was served. The members of the Fruit and Flower Mission gave gifts of fruit and flowers, and engaged Everest's orchestra to play musical selections. Nor was the spiritual side forgotten. Yesterday morning at 6 o'clock religious services were held, and music was rendered by the hospital choir. Monseigneur Blanchette was relebrant

The good fairies were also kind to the Good Samaritan Hospital, for the institution received $500 from the Weinhard estate, and gifts of Thanksgiving cheer from various friends. The turkeys numbered is, and the feast that followed will be remembered all the year through. Fruit, flowers and music were kindly furnished by the Fruit and Flower Mission. During the progress of this "kicking up," a lot of coon songs, dances and slap-stick comedy is introduced.

There are two clever women in the company, Irene Lee and Kittle Stevens. The former is good to look upon and possesses a good singing voice, and the latter's transformation dance in the last act was noteworthy. The biggest hit of were played in the nursery, and as for a general good time-just ask the children. Ninety people enjoyed Thanksgiving fare at the County Hospital, and about 20 turkeys were disposed of, in addition to other things that friends sent. Eighteen Thanksgiving turkeys fairly shook when they saw the eager mouths waiting to welcome them at the County Jail. Eighty persons were served at this feast, and the wish was audibly expressed that Thanksgiving time would come often.

FIFTY-TWO CHILDREN AT TABLE

Wards of Receiving Home Afforded a Handsome Thanksgiving Dinner.

A visit to the Boys' & Girls' Ald Society Thanksgiving was a pleasure long to be remembered. Fifty-two children sat at the table—the happy faces and merry voices (for they were permitted to talk at this Thanksgiving time) were an in-spiring sight as they filled themselves spiring sight as they filled themselves with turkey, cranberry sauce, mince pie and everything that is characteristic of Thankegiving.

Everything that a child can eat, drink or wear now fills the storeroom or shelves. Noble-minded teachers appealed to their pupils and they responded most generously. Merchants and commission men of the city were unusually thoughtful about the wants of children this year. Kind hands and hearts were there giving their services in waiting upon these happy children.

Second Parley Concerning Amendments to Occur Tonight.

CHARTER BOARD TO MEET.

The second parley of the charter board and the Legislators from this county will be held tonight in the Council Chamber. City Hall. The board is functus officio so far as the law is concerned, for it finished the work for which it was created—namely, the framing of the charter—more than two and one-half years ago. Still it thinks it can be of service in applying final touches to the instrument.

Tonight has been appointed for present-ing amendments and for discussing them with the Legislators. As the amendments will be few, it is expected that only one more such meeting will be required after that of tonight.
