CLEVER DOOR GO HUNTING.—The sagacity displayed by well-bred pointers and setters in everything connected with hird hunting and their engerness to be off when their master appears with his gun and game bag astoulshes all who are not accustomed to foese animals. An incident which occurred on Thankegiving day indicates that these dogs are possessed of even more intelligence than they have been credited with. Dr. Harry McKay is the owner of a couple of fine hunting dogs of which he is very fond, and which he usually takes out shooting on Sunday as much for the pleasure of his pets as for his own amusement. The appearance of things Thankegiving morning caused these dogs to imagine it was Sunday, and they were all agog to go hunting and were on the lookout for their master. He, however, being provided with a calendar, MARQUAM GRAND THEATER (Merrison street, between 6th and 7th)-Tonight at 8:15 o'clock, "Rip Van Winkle." THINES HIS SON MAY NOT BE ELECTED CAPTAIN.—Dr. L. E. Rockwell, of Portland Methodist Episcopal district, whose son, Poster H. Rockwell, is quarterback of the Yale football team, mentioned as in line for election. in line for election as captain of the team, says he doubts whether his son will be elected for several reasons. "It is a very great honor to be mentioned for the caponor to be mentioned for the cap-said Dr. Rockwell, "as it carried with it great prestige and privileges. One reason why I do not expect Foster to be elected is that it throws too much responity on the quarterback, the only place Foster can play. Foster only weighs 140 pounds. The man who I think may be elected captain will be L. R. Shivlin, the famous end man, who is also mentioned in connection with the place." Dr. Rockwell is a keen observer of the doings of the Yale feetball team and takes an interest in pure athletics. In speaking of the Yale team Dr. Rockwell says: "The team is composed of intellectual and moral team is composed of intellectual and moral team is composed of intellectual and moral." the raise team Dr. Rockwell says. "The team is composed of intellectual and moral men. The captain this year is a giant mentally and morally, as well as physically. And so all the way through the team, and that is the class of men who made good citizens, and largely for that reason Yale is generally victorious in its games with other college teams which are not on the same plane mentally and morally. DISSATISFIED WITH IMPROVEMENT—Property-owners along East Seventh street, in Central Albina, are not satisfied with the improvement of that street, which was completed some time ago. "We wanted a street that could all be used," said D. McCartney, who owns considerable property, "but only the center can be used. No loaded wagon can be dragged near the sidewsik. We asked for river be used. No loaded wagon can be dragged near the sidewalk. We asked for river gravel and got that, but we also wanted a top course of fine gravel and sand so that teams could get to the sidewalks with a load. This we did not get, but on the whole it will be cheaper to pay for the improvement then resist in the courts, which some were inclined at first to do."

G. W. He thinks that the building of the line has essed about the time Horace Greeley was thundering against the institution of alavery. That was contemporary with the foundation of Rome, so far as present-day affairs are concerned with it. The first performance of "Rip Van Winkle" is a part of the mythology of the stage, and the telling of it is a grandfather's tale for an inglencok on a Winter's night. These are some of the reasons why I have not the temerity to attempt a review of the ancient drams. It is pretty much the same now as always, I opine, and when dear, oid Joe Jefferson tossed his mantle in the direction of his son, Tom, he must have warned him to take no liberties nor attempt innovations. The verisimilitude of the latest "Rip Van Winkle." which we saw at the Marquam last night to the one which "that rising young comedian." Joseph Jefferson, gave our forbears an age or two ago, seems to be well established.

Thomas Jefferson follows his venerated father as closely as may be, and, although from one to the other is a far cry, the "Rip Van Winkle" we saw last night furnished tolerably good entertainment. cry, the "Rip Van Winkle" we saw last night furnished tolerably good entertainment. Even those who have seen the elder Jefferson must agree that the son seems to be conscientiously trying to perpetuate the family name. No man, woman or okild who attends the theater should confess that he has not seen "Rip Van Winkle." There is an opportunity tonight as there was last, to see the best "Rip" now on the stage, for, be it remembered, dear old Joe has retired.

Of the supporting company Frederick Malcolm made a satisfactory "Derrick," and Frances Meek, save in one or two situations, was satisfying. The Marquam management may rightfully be a trifle chesty over the new programme, which made its first appearance last night. It is the handsomest thing of the kind ever used in a Portland theater.

District Attorney Jerome served notice on Miss Patterson's counsel that a new jury would be selected and a retrial begun at the term of court which opens one week from today.

The iliness of Edward Dressler, a juror, who was stricken with apoplexy last week, was the cause of today's action. The report of his physicians, which was made at the opening of court today, that the juror was in no condition to return to his duties, left Justice Davis no alternative but to discharge the jury.

Miss Patterson appeared very much dejected as she was led back to the Tombs to await the beginning of the new trial. It was said that in case the jury was discharged her attorneys would make a strong plea to have her ball reduced from $20,000 to $6000. The large amount has stood for several months, but the prisoner's father has been unable to secure it. It is believed the smaller sum worted her account the account of the results her security as the court would be a secured.

A Few Words on the Modern Baby Grand.

Why the Bables Are So Popular-Three Important Requirements and How They Are Met.

It has been said, and truthfully, that if all the workmen in one of the great plano factories of the world were to leave in a body and their places be taken by other skilled workmen, who would have the use of the same materials and facilities, the product would be radically different, and even were the same scales and patterns used it would take years to secure the same individuality of the original instrument, if, indeed, it could be done at all. in the Weber factory are craftsmen who learned their trade under the personal tutorship of its founder, and they have in turn trained their sons in the delicate processes. It is, in fact, no unusual sight to see three generations working at the bench, side by side.

It is this harmony between the various craftsmen in the shop of the Weber manufacturers which has made it possible for this company to produce the kind of pianos for which it is noted.

As to Baby Grands.

Many musicians of thoroughly artistic taste have in the past had three adverse horns of the dilemma to face when purchasing a piano:

First, how to find space for a grand plano; second, how to meet the price demands, or, third, how to bring themselves to sacrifice their inclinations and be satisfied with a plano of less power and beauty of tone.

Modern homes, particularly in the city, have space limitations that bar the usual grand plano. For years this condition has been growing, and it is the reason that urged Messrs. Chickering & Sons to bend their energies and skill to the production of the wonderful instrument that today presents a grand plano of shperb tone qualifies and wonderful resonance and power, in space little more than is required for an upright plano; a space that can be allotted to it in almost any home or apartment.

The Chickering Quarter Grand is an instrument that has satisfied the musical ear of all the artists who have criticised it. It is a plano of great beauty in form and construction, as well as possessing the Chickering quality.

In addition to the low price, the Ellers selling method makes it so easy to buy a Chickering Quarter Grand that purchasers scarcely realize its cost, until they discover some fine day that the plano is all paid for, and still they have hardly missed the money.

The new small grands that are now displayed by us seem more perfect and beautiful than ever before. Progress with the Chickering makers is constant. The most splendid instruments that have come from this famous factory are those of the present season. Prices 855 to 859.

A superb new collection of Chickering quarter and also of larger grands is here for you to select from and during our present display you are invited to a special demonstration of their wonderful powers as to both tone and action.

As to Acollans.

A group in which much interest centers is the Acolian instruments, the entire line including the Acolian pipe organ. The newest and probably the most important of these instruments is the Pianola Plano. It has been called the complete piano, combining as it does facilities for playing perfectly either with the hands or through the mediumship of the Pianola, which is built into the case and which includes the Metrostyle.

The public is cordially invited to our store during the present display. None of the special instruments in this display will be delivered on sale before Saturday, December 19. Eillers Plano House, Ei Washington street, corner Park.
