HOP CASE IN BENTON COURT

Whitakers Sued for Breach of Contract by Company.

CORVALLIS, Or., Nov. 30 .- (Special.)

Extreme interest has centerel here for the past two days in the trial of a hop contract case in the Circuit Court. In 1901 John Whitaker contracted to furnish Faber & Nels 20,000 pcunds of hops annually, and for three years delivered the product. This year Frank Whitaker, to whom the yard had been transferred, refused to deliver, and Neis brought suit for above $5000 damages.

For a defense, the Whitakers allege that in February, 1900, after all their hoppoles had been washed away by high water, they communicated with Neis and proposed to abandon the yard. Neis pre-vailed on them to agree to take off one more crop, that of 1903, and they agreed.

oral agreement was abandonment of the 1991 contract and cite statute and au-thorities in support of their contention. As further defense, the Whitakers as-sert that in March this year there were negotiations with Neis for a contract for this season's crop, and on the witness-stand Nels admitted that he made them a proposal which they did not accept. The Whitakers offer in evidence a contract signed by them for this year's crop, but which is not signed by Neis. These negotiations are also offered as evidence

MASSMEETING HELD

Water-Users' Association Will Be Formed at Once and Steps Taken to Reclaim Vast Tract in Southern Oregon.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Nov. 30.-(Special.)—Cheers from a thousand throats replied when Supervising Engineer J. D. Lippincott, of the Government Survey, asked for vindication of his report that the people of Klamath County were in favor of irrigation. The visit of F. H. Newell, chief engineer of the reclamation service, and party will result in the organization of a water users' association and the project set in motion for the reclamation of over 500,000 acres of land in this section.

It was a big day for Klamath Falls and Klamath County. A mass meeting of landowners from near and remote parts of the Great Lake region of Oregon was held this afternoon at Houston's Opera-House. They had come to listen to addresses by officials of the reclamation service on the subject of Government irrigation and to express themselves unqualifiedly in favor of Government aid, and this they did.

Newell Impressed With Country. The first speaker was F. H. Newell, chief engineer of the Reclamation service, having spent nearly three days looking over a portion of the area where the reclamation work is proposed. He said he was greatly impressed with the soil, climate, water supply and inducements to be found here. He considered the proposed reclamation work here one of the most feasible ever investigated by the Government. This is a splendid arid region for large development work, he said. and Government irrigation promises much for its future

Murris Bean, legal adviser of the Government reclamation work, told briefly of the complications and difficulties that would be met with in bringing the undertaking to a successful issue, but stated that the landowners would have the supjort of the Government officials in overcoming them.

T. H. Means, Government expert on poses. Nevada, he said, where Govern- was the lowest for electric wiring. had no advantages in any respect over Klamath.

Cheers for Mr. Lippincott.

J. D. Lippincott, supervising engineer of the Government survey, stirred his listeners to a high pitch of enthusiasm by his remarks. He had visited this section some time ago and had sent word back to Washington that the people of Klamath favored Government irrigation. He was forwarded from headquarters documentary evidence that such was not the case-that the people here preferred irrigation by private corporation. He said he wanted to be vindicated in the presence of Mr. Newell, and asked those favoring Government irrigation to stand

As one man, the assemblage arose cheering loudly. Prompt action was taken for the organization of a water-users' association. This will be done probably tomorrow. Klamath, now on the eve of much greater development, will in the near future have the aid of the Government in transforming the great Klamath sage plains and marshlands into productive and remunerative farms.

Today's mass meeting was the largest, most important and unanimous ever held In this part of the state. Circuit Judge Benson presided.

OREGON SHOULD BE THERE.

Governor Urges Good Representation at Livestock Association.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 38 .- (Special)-"It is very important that Oregon be well represented at the annual convention of the National Livestock Association," said Governor Chamberiain today, 'and I trust that a strong delegation will go to Denver when the convention meets January 10. The livestock interests of Oregon are very extensive and we are also interested in various subjects that will come up for consideration, such as the use of public lands for grazing, and legislation regarding an interstate commerce law. The convention will very probably take some action recommending legislation on those subjects, and Oregon should be represented. I am asked to appoint three delegates from this state and desire to appoint representative livestock men who will OLYMPIA, Wash., Nov. 30 .- (Special.) The annual report of the State Fish Commissioner, which was filed today, gives the total pack of salmon on Puget Sound at 220,000 cases, and on the Wash-ington side of the Columbia at 95,400, and a total of $25,600 cases on the river. The Commissioner estimates that the output of salmon fry by the state hatcheries this year will aggregate 19,000,000.

An important section of the report deals with the fishing industry on the Columbia River and explains the action of Fish Commissioner Kershaw in permitting the aking of salmon this year after the date fixed by law for the close of the sea-son. The Commissioner declares that but for his action in the matter a large number of fishermen on the Columbia would have become bankrupt, the cold-storage houses would have been without a prod-uct to market and even the merchants who depend on the trade of fishermen and cannerymen would have been seriously

The Commissioner says he made a trip to all the fishing points on the Columbia September 10, the last day of the open season, and found the conditions as above described, and in addition found the fish then being taken to be in good flesh, with a large school reported at the mouth of the river and only one-tenth of the pack up. He therefore decided to allow the taking of milmon for several days longer, without enforcing the law, and as a result the canneries got up a full pack.

Change of Season Favored. The Commissioner in his report favors the changing of opening of the fishing sea-son to about ten days later than at pres-ent, making it about August 25, and changing the closing date to ten days later or September 10. The runs have been coming later every year until now the law in force is obsolete and threatens to throttle the industry. The Commissioner, however, recommends a joint confer-ence between committees and the Legisla-tures of Oregon and Washington and the adoption of suggestions of these commit-tees in reference to the changes in the

In Regard to Oysters and Game.

In oysterlands the state has added 7003 acres to the reserves from which the lands cannot be sold, making a total of 15,000 acres in the reservations. The Commissioner recommends a sale of a carefully selected nonproductive portion of the re-serves on Puget Sound. He favors, however, retention of all the reserves in Willapa Harbor. The sale of seed oysters from the reserves for the last year aggregated over $6000, which will enable the replac-ing of the $5000 granted from the general fund two years ago for the survey of the

If Landlords Are Not Moderate, Session Can Be Adjourned to Meet In Some Other City of the State.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 30 .- (Special.)-Members of the Legislature claim they hold a club over Olympia and can force the people of the capital city to be moder-ate in rent demands. Whether a careful reading of the constitution and statutes would bear out the claims made by law-makers is not clear, but if it does Olympia will be compelled to listen to the demand for moderation in rents.

As a result of the destruction of the Olympia Hotel there has been a disposition on the part of many landlords to raise rents to an unusual degree. In-stances have been recited where rents are more than doubled and those who had taken apartments in the Olympia Hotel before that structure was destroyed by fire declare that a similar policy was de-cided upon at the hotel. Double charges were exacted from some members who had taken apartments prior to the fire. It was explained by a prominent member of the State Senate today that if Olympia was not moderate in its rent demands the Legislature had a way of meeting the difficulty that would either force the people of Olympia to terms or would allow the Legislature to escape high

"We have the authority," explained this lawmaker, "to meet in Olympia and then adjourn to some other city. For instance, we could hold a session of two or three days, say, until after the Governor had been inaugurated and delivered his inaugural address in the capital city.

"If the people of Olympia are not mod-erate in their demands for rent I for one am in favor of taking just such action. It would not be necessary to actually go away from Olympia to get concessions; the mere threat of going as soon as the people saw we were in earnest would bring about the reform. As soon as the people of Olympia realize that this al-ternative is open to us I think they would terprise is to be constructed. San Fran-cisco Coke & Gas has an issue of 29,000 equalize their rents.'

The disposition to charge high rents is not as strong in Olympia now as it was mmediately after the destruction of the Olympia Hotel. At that time the people were uncertain about the town's ability to handle all the Legislative crowds and the shortage of rooms gave an opportunity for high rents.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful It is in Preserving Health and Beauty. Nearly everybody knows that charcoal s the safest and most efficient disinfectant polson of catarrh.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best char-coal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges: they composed of the finest powdered Willow Charcoal and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or rather in the form of large, pleasant-tasting lozenges, the char coal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all pati-ents suffering from gas in stemach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but 25 cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense a patest preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."
