RESTS WITH THE WOMEN.

So Says Dr. Cressey Again as to Equal Suffrage.

PORTLAND, Dec. I.—To the Editor.)—The remen seem to have done me honor in re-nesting their president to defend them against deas which were neither expressed nor implied at the few lines quoted from the report of my defense of Sunday last in The Oregonian, a rectation which was incidental only to the address of Sunnay seet in The Oregonian, a quotation which was incidental only to the general thought. Judging from the letter of your esteemed correspondent, the perturbation of mind arose not from what I said, but from imaginary implications which were read into it. A mere statement of the cituation seems to have been mistaken for a statement concerning the equity and merits.

Minorities and possibly small majorities.

Minorities, and possibly small majorities, have thus far failed in most of the states to attain the desired end. A practically universal demand on the part of women to vote would lead probably, within a comparatively short seried, to change in state constitutions, and that to the extension of suffrage to woman. Heave, as a simple matter of fact, under the vircumstances success demands this more ex-tensive desire on the part of women in general. That such more general desire should exist and manifest itself is certainly a question which rests with the women, not with the men. Whether the conditions or circumstances, however, are what they should be, whether or no the situation be just and equitable, whether or no men ought not to grant the privilege in response to the demand already existing, whether or no men are practically asking of women what they have never demanded of any class of men before granting suffrage, are ques-tions into which I did not enter, either directly or by implication. In short, I did not dis-cuss the justice of the eliuntion—which I should be giad to discuss, however, at any time— since I wished the time for what seemed to me nore important aspects of my general sub-ect, "The Natural Rights of Woman."

Curiously, while it was assumed by these ladies that I sought to screen the alleged enormity of man's attitude, the impression seemed to prevail among them that I am a mild but mietaken advocate of the cause. Both inferences are unwarranted and incorrect. My brief allusion to the subject was entirely from GEORGE CROSWELL CRESSEY.
