

SEES HER VICTIM

Mrs. Chadwick Greets Banker Beckwith.

MEETING MOST DRAMATIC

Banker Woman Has Ruined Urges Her to Tell All.

WIFE HAS TO SUPPORT HIM

Prisoner Retains Attorney Who Will Defend Her—She Changes Her Stories So Often, Lawyer's Task Is Made Hard.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 15.—Mrs. Chadwick's first day in the County Jail was a busy one for her. She received several visits from her attorneys, held long conferences with them, conversed with newspaper men, and for 15 minutes stood face to face with President Beckwith, of the Oberlin Bank, who has come to so much trouble through his financial transactions with her. The meeting was dramatic. The aged banker, who had for hours been before the county grand jury, went to the office of Sheriff Barry this afternoon, and asked if he might see Mrs. Chadwick. The Sheriff readily consented, and Mrs. Chadwick was eager to meet him. Accompanied by Mrs. Beckwith, who, owing to her husband's ill health, is always by his side, the aged banker made his way slowly and feebly in the long flight of stairs leading to Mrs. Chadwick's cell. She met him at the entrance of the corridor, and shook hands with him cordially. After some general conversation, Mr. Beckwith referred to their business relations by saying: "Mrs. Chadwick, you have ruined me, but I'm not so sure yet you are a fraud. I have stood by you to my last dollar, and I do think now that the time has come for you to make known everything in relation to this thing."

A CORRECTION

In our display advertisement of FINE ART PIANOS and artists who use them that appeared in the Journal of the 14th and Oregonian of the 13th, our advertiser unintentionally made a mistake by saying Maxam Galski, who is to appear here December 19 would use the Baldwin piano, when it should have been De Pachmann, who will appear here about the 1st of February. We have no desire of taking credit for anything that does not properly belong to us, hence our first opportunity to correct the mistake, and we trust Maxam Galski will take no offense inasmuch as we had her name connected with a piano of the highest excellence, and the one, as we stated in our advertisement, that took the Grand Prix at the Paris Exposition in 1900 and the Grand Prize at the St. Louis Exposition just closed. The following telegram perhaps is partly responsible for the mistake: Boston, Mass., 28th Oct. D. H. Baldwin & Co.; My concert with the Boston Symphony Orchestra today was a most gratifying success. Allow me to compliment you on the exquisite tone and perfect execution of touch of the Majestic Grand you have furnished for this concert. LAURENCE DE PACHMANN. It will be gratifying news to the music-lovers of Portland to know that De Pachmann is to appear here a little later in the season under the direction of Miss Lola Stevens, through whose enterprise and energy Portland has had the privilege of hearing many of our finest artists. and the look on her face were not conciliatory. Seeing that she would not answer, Mr. Beckwith went on: "I have always told you that I did not like it because you changed your lawyers so often. Why don't you get a good one and stick to him?" "Well," said Mrs. Chadwick, in reply, "I have reasons for that."

Thanks Them for Calling. To what matter the questions referred was not known. Mr. and Mrs. Beckwith then both said they hoped the matters connected with the Chadwick affair would be eventually straightened out. The interview then closed. Mrs. Chadwick thanked them for calling, shook hands with Mr. and Mrs. Beckwith, and said she would be pleased to have them call again. There is a possibility that a hearing in the Chadwick case may be resumed tomorrow morning in the bankruptcy court, and that she will be summoned as a witness, although the possibilities are that the hearing will go over until Saturday, and possibly until Monday. Receiver Loewer said late this afternoon that he made no arrangement to have her summoned tomorrow, although he might ask in the morning that it be done. "I know nothing of her physical condition," said Mr. Loewer, "and do not wish to have her called until she is able to undergo an examination that may be of some length. The chances are that there will be no hearing before Saturday." The application for an additional receiver for the Chadwick estate was made in the Common Pleas Court this afternoon by the Savings Bank & Trust Company of Elyria, O., which has brought suit against Mrs. Chadwick on two notes of $25,000 and $10,000 respectively. Mrs. Chadwick this afternoon retained the attorney who is to conduct her defense when she is called for trial in the Federal Court. He is J. P. Dawley, one of the leading criminal lawyers of Cleveland. Sheldon Q. Kerruish will assist Mr. Dawley. Mr. Kerruish said this afternoon: "It is very difficult to know what is best to do for Mrs. Chadwick. She says one thing and a little later will give a totally different version of the same matter. Until we have succeeded in getting her affairs straightened out it will be difficult to say what we will do. I do not know of any case where it has been so difficult for an attorney to get his bearings." Mr. Dawley, after conferring with Mrs. Chadwick for 30 minutes, announced that he had been retained, but said his talk with her had covered no other ground than that of engaging him to act in her behalf. A line of defense was something he had not had time to consider and which he could not determine until he had consulted her fully. The present programme of the Federal authorities is to have Mrs. Chadwick arraigned in the United States District Court before Judge Wing on Monday next. She will be asked to plead to the indictment and will be given a chance to furnish bail if able to do so. Beckwith and Spear may be arraigned at the same time, but this has not yet been definitely decided upon. Chadwick Appears Indignant. NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Dr. L. S.

In the Book Store Just Received. "CABBAGES AND KINGS" by O. Henry.....$1.08 If you stop to think of it, there is nothing more ludicrous than the way our sister republics in Central America continually go off at half-cock into revolutionary convulsions. O. Henry makes you stop and think—hard—and then you indulge in convulsions of your own of the involuntary diaphragmatic variety. Mr. Henry is a humorist with a vein of Simon-pure humor all his own. The way he rushes the native maiden, the American banker's daughter, the peon and the speculative president around the stage, from broad farce to threatened tragedy, is enough to bring tears—salt tears of glee—into your eyes.
