FINE FOWLS ON VIEW

Annual Oregon Poultry Show Is Open.

BARNYARD SOUNDS

Cats and Guinea Pigs, Turkeys and Swans, Rabbits and Parrots, Cilckens and Pheasants Vie for Public Attention.

"Br-r-ree," said the white Wyandotte

"I'm a winner," announced the Cochin

"Show me," said the Chinese pheasant. And the annual poultry show of the Oregon Poultry Association was on. The show is given this year at the corner of Third and Taylor streets. Poultry, pets and other creatures are there in abun dance. The sounds rising from the buildtrated and condensed farmyard. Gay, old receives strut in their best plumage, hens crow with delight, pheasants show their pretty feathers, cats curl up in their stalis, turkeys gobble with joy. guinea pigs hide behind one another, rab hits look at the spectators with dreamy uses, the black swan arches its neck adngly and parrots scream a welcome while the judges walk up and down the

The show this year may well be com-plimented. It is at once well arranged and complete. There is a black-tail bantam of the species Japanese, with a comb which makes it look as though he had attempted to swallow a beefsteak and the steak had stuck in his craw. There the Polish cock who looks as though never combed his hair, bantams with the fire of battle in their eyes, Cochins an all their splendor, Leghorns that would grace the coops of the most fustidious fancier. Andalusians. Wyandottes, Winorcas. Houdans. Hamburgs, Redcaps, Dorkings. Plymouth Rocks and the rest are all there. In one window are four Chinese heasants, fresh captured from the wilds of Oregon. They are a trifle timid, but all the more beautiful in their timidity. Pigeons of all sorts from the common, every-day ple pigeon to the homing va-riety and the wise carriers, are to be en. Rabbits are there in large numbers, mong them an exquisite specimen of the dasks white. Admirers of feline eauty will have nothing to disappoint them when they see the few specimens exhibited. For an oddity there is an animal purporting to be a cross between a Chinese pheasant and a brown Leg-

The judges, Elmer Dixon, of Oregon City: W. M. Browning, of Ogden, and Thomas Wilkinson, of Nanaimo, B. C., were busy yesterday examining the fowls, and awards in all classes will be made this afternoon.

display of Plymouth Rocks is particularly commendable. Buff and White Rocks are shown to good advantage. Down the center aisle, where the light is not so good, is a Cochin cock who persists in announcing: "Here it's morning all the time." Surrounding him is as pretty a collection of hens of his breed as was ever seen. Leghorns are shown to advantage also. Polish cocks and hens attracted much attention yesterday. There are several specimens of Red Caps above the ordinary, and Winorcas are all that could be expected.

Numbers of poultry fanciers from out of the city are in attendance at the show. among them Enma J. Mellette, editor of the Western Poultry World, of Denver. There was a good attendance at the show yesterday and it will no doubt continue,

DEVOTION OF A WIFE. Mrs. W. H. Whorton Tolls Over Wash-

tub to Pay Husband's Debt. Over the washboard, in her humble home

Whorton. Day after day, unceasingt save for a few short hours of sleep, she works on. Her object is to save her hus band from disgrace-and she will accompitch it. It is a story fraught with bit terness, of a woman's undying devotion

In September W. H. Whorton disap peared. With him, supposedly, went $120 belonging to the United Artisans, of which rder he was the treasurer at the time ot until a few days ago did the wife as certain anything of the whereabouts of her husband. She learned he had been ill in the Wayside Mission Hospital, at Se-Now, Mrs. Whorton says, the shortage of her husband has been made good. She borrowed $120 from personal friends, paid it to the Artisans and holds a receipt

So, over the washboard, in her humble home, she works unceasingly to uphold the name of the man of her choice, for she declares he never stole the money, but was robbed, and that he will be home life anew.

FATE OF A GUNNER. Goes Hunting on Sunday and Loses His Wife.

"If you go out hunting you'll come back bome and find me gone," was the warning given James Buchanan by his wife, Pearl Buchanan, when he shouldered his gun and marched away from his domicile in Centralia, Sunday. And sulting action to word she packed up and came to Portiand. When the husband returned his hearth was cold and his wife gone. Yesterday she was picked up in Portnd, whither she had come to see so friends with whom she became acquainted while taking medical treatment six months ago. She expressed a willingness to ac-company her father, James Evans, home. said she could never again live with her husband.
