

DR. KUYKENDALL COMES AS CARTER GOES.

BOTH SEEK SAME OFFICE.

Presidency of the State Senate Bone of Contention.

MULTNOMAH SENATORS SHY.

They Resist Blandishments of the Ashland Candidate—Lane County Applicant Arrives to Look After His Fences.

The pulsebeat of state Senatorial politics is so quickened by Carter's stimulus that Kuykendall specialists have been called into consultation. Banker Carter started back to his Ashland home last night after a two days' stay in Multnomah County. Just a handful of time after Physician Kuykendall arrived from Eugene. The same bus that unloaded the Lane man at the Imperial Hotel took the Jackson man on board for the return trip.

Rival Senators Meet.

"Hello," he exclaimed just as effectively, as both indicated it was of the most modest handshakes that they learned from Riner Hermann and George Brownell. "Delighted." "Hello," he said, looking at the doctor. "Come down to see Santa Claus," asked the banker, with a color of doubt in his voice. "No," replied the doctor facetiously. "I came down to attend the Carter meeting."

Carter Flirts With Multnomah.

But had the Ashland banker really accomplished much in Multnomah? In this county itself, nay, in the state, yes. For he has known, he found the Multnomah men, he has seen them, he has met them, he has saved one, and that seventh even a mystery too. Still, the one was halfway inclined to flirt with the banker; that was some comfort anyhow, even if the six others were not susceptible to political woo-woo eyes.

Multnomah Men Evasive.

So the Carter pow-wow was a delightful social function in so far as Multnomah was not concerned. Out of it has sprung a determination to fight Kuykendall until somebody gets "licked." The function built up the hope of the anti-Kuykendall people as did not seem possible two weeks ago. And now Senator Kuykendall has come down to Portland to see whether the six Multnomah men will resist the Carter blandishments will take up with him. The Ashland man expects them to do so; indeed he said it right out just before he departed last night. He said he found them undecided, vague and disposed to let things sweat. The President of the Senate could not be elected without Multnomah's six, they said; then why wait and make terms, later when pork shall have risen in value.

Mitchell Will Not Take Part.

Ever since last summer when Dr. Kuykendall, aided by Senator Fulton, forced Brownell out of the fight, it has been generally supposed that the political organization with which six Senators in this county act in concert would boost Kuykendall. That Carter expects the organization thus to ally itself is evident from his own remarks, though he says he is extremely doubtful as to whether terms with this county's Senators and tried here to do so during his visit. Senator Mitchell was understood to desire the election of Kuykendall, as well as Senator Fulton. But since Senator Mitchell's return he has said repeatedly that he would not so much as lift a finger in behalf of anybody's candidacy. Furthermore, the State Senators from Multnomah County have declared over and over again that they have made no choice; neither have they received any suggestions from headquarters. That they are undecided is evident from the call which Herbert Holman, chairman of the Multnomah delegation, issued yesterday for a meeting of the 20 members, for discussion of the course this county should pursue in organization of the two houses.

Are Multnomah's Votes Needed.

That Multnomah's six united Senators can name the President has been the current belief all along. That belief has been shared by Mr. Carter and Dr. Kuykendall alike. The doctor believes it still, but the banker said last night that though he needed Multnomah's six he could still out the pie without them if they did not desire to go into his game. Senator Kuykendall has been confident all through his candidacy, not only of his own election, but of Multnomah's support. He has not, however, cultivated any member of the Multnomah Senatorial delegation. A fact that has encouraged the belief that he was relying on the promise of the organization.

own, that person undoubtedly will be Dan J. Malarky, for the two other Senators boomed for the honor—F. P. May and C. W. Hodson—have refused to run. If Mr. Malarky should be backed up by his entire delegation, it is believed that he would probably enter the race. In the past week strong influences have been endeavoring to pull him into the game. It is well known, however, that if he should not enter the race, it is with his delegation. Carter workers found this out when they tried to induce him to their camp, and they do not hope for his aid. Multnomah's six still sit over to their side.

Four Senators from Eastern Oregon, who are in the anti-Kuykendall camp, wish to vote for a Multnomah man. Their spokesmen in the last two days have been N. Wheeland, of Wasco, and Jay Bowerman, of Gilliam, who announced that their preferred man is Mr. Malarky, and that, if he should not enter the race, they would stand with Carter, and if he could not make the goal they would line up with Brownell sooner than with Kuykendall.

C. W. Nottingham is understood to be kindly disposed to Senator Malarky for President; therefore, if Malarky could be supported by the solid five, Eastern Oregon's four would swing his quota to 11 votes, counting his own.

The two additional votes necessary to make the 13 for the caucus nomination could easily be picked up by Malarky, if he could get the support of Malarky's friends. Malarky needs only the solid support of his own county to win. But men in Carter's anti-Kuykendall camp have said that Malarky could win even without the solid support of Multnomah. They carried their proposition to him in that shape, but he turned it down.

Who is Multnomah's Choice?

If Malarky should not be Multnomah's candidate, for whom will this county vote—Kuykendall or Carter—or will it divide the votes between the two? These questions may be decided tonight. Just as Mr. Carter was making off last night he left the following words behind: "If Multnomah is not to have a candidate of its own, as I believe will be the case, a better policy than the unit rule, it seems to me, would be for each Senator to choose his own candidate. In that way they will certainly represent their county to better advantage. To the argument that Multnomah should vote so as to gain support for the candidate in 1907, I would say that more of my supporters will be in the next Legislature than Dr. Kuykendall will have."

The New Year's Oregonian

The best advertisement for the 1905 Fair that Oregon's people can send to their friends in the East, will be a copy of the New Year's Oregonian that will be published Monday morning next. The illustrations of the beautiful Exposition grounds will be made a special feature of the New Year's number. The paper will be mailed to any address in the United States or Canada, postage prepaid, for 10 cents a copy. Address The Oregonian, Portland, Or.

Position an Important One.

The office of manager of the Southern Pacific, to which Mr. Calvin is said to have been appointed, is a larger one than that which he now holds, as it controls several times the mileage governed by the Oregon office. Mr. Calvin is now on his way home from Salt Lake City and is coming over the California lines of the Southern Pacific, which lends added likelihood to the story of his promotion.

Pitcher Seeks Revenge on Seattle Manager for Release. SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 27.—(Special.)—Jack Hickey has sued the Seattle Baseball Club for $24.85 alleged to be due him on account of salary. The suit grows out of an attempt on the part of the Seattle club to release Hickey when the team started on its last southern trip.

The Portland Chamber of Commerce has agreed with the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce to furnish a monthly statement of the shipments of lumber, grain and flour from the Multnomah Senatorial delegation. CALVIN IS NAMED Persistent Rumor That He Will Manage Southern Pacific.

While Report Lacks Confirmation, There is Reason for Belief That Harriman Lines Manager Will Succeed Markham.

No word has been received at the office of General Manager E. H. Calvin confirming the report that Mr. Calvin is to be appointed manager of the Southern Pacific.

OPPOSING CANDIDATES FOR PRESIDENCY OF THE STATE SENATE

E. V. CARTER, OF JACKSON COUNTY.

DR. W. KUYKENDALL, OF LANE COUNTY.

Pacific to succeed C. H. Markham, whose resignation was tendered some time ago. It is not known in Portland whether or not there is truth in the rumor, but the persistence with which Mr. Calvin's name is linked to the San Francisco office lends color to the story. It was said a very few days after the fact of Mr. Markham's resignation had been published that Mr. Calvin would be his successor, and the story, though never confirmed, has likewise been destined. Therefore the publication of yesterday in all probability may be authentic.

E. E. Calvin, who is now the general manager of the Harriman lines in Oregon, is known throughout the system as "The Silent Man" because he will never talk for publication unless what he has to say comes practically as an announcement from the company. It is to this trait that a great deal of his success in the railroad world is attributed. Mr. Calvin was born in Indiana, October 18, 1858, and entered railroad work in 1878. In 1883 he was assigned to work for the Indianapolis, Cincinnati & La Fayette Railroad. The next year he spent in school, but returned to the operator's desk the following year, serving as operator and station agent for the Union Pacific company from April, 1887, until March, 1888.

Forges Rapidly Ahead.

From station agent to train dispatcher was the next step taken by Mr. Calvin, and he filled the dispatcher's desk from April, 1888, until June 1, 1887. He was also conductor and trainmaster of the Union Pacific for a time.

On June 1, 1887, Mr. Calvin was promoted to the position of superintendent of the Missouri Pacific system, and filled the place until February 22, 1891.

He was placed in charge of the Idaho division of the Union Pacific system, on February 23, 1891, and remained in that position until he became the general superintendent of the International & Great Northern, on June 1, 1895. He held that position until March 18, 1897, when he was appointed general superintendent of the Oregon Short Line at Salt Lake City. He was transferred to Portland April 1, 1904, as the general manager of the O. R. & N. Company, and the position was further enlarged to include the Southern Pacific lines in Oregon. He now has the supervision of the entire Harriman property in the state.

Brief addresses, combining religious and national topics were made by Bishop Moore and Rev. H. W. Schwartz, assisting in the program. Mr. James G. Wilson had trained several Japanese boys in a dialogue, and this was very bright and entertaining. Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Swartz played organ accompaniments for the singing.

Baseball Club Files Answer in Castro's Suit. The Portland Baseball Club has filed an answer in the State Circuit Court to the suit of Louis Castro to recover $590 salary. When he was released, prior to the expiration of the contract, he asserted that he was entitled to full salary until the close of the season, the same as if he continued playing. Failing to get the money, he went into court.

LIBRARY WORKERS UNITE STATE ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED AND OFFICERS ELECTED.

W. L. Brewster is President—Object is to Foster Library Movement and to Promote Conference.

A meeting was held in the Portland Public Library building yesterday for the purpose of organizing the Oregon Library Association. W. L. Brewster was elected president.

The attendance exceeded the most sanguine hopes of the prime movers of the new enterprise, every college and school being represented as well as public libraries of the smaller cities in the interior of the state. Heretofore there were three states in the Union that had no state library association and as Oregon was considered behind in this work, which is believed to be a valuable adjunct for the promotion of educational institutions, the idea of an Oregon library association was conceived.

The meeting was opened by Dr. T. L. Elliot, who, after welcoming the visitors, described the purposes of the proposed association and urged a better acquaintance inasmuch as the furtherance of the scope of library work and enterprise was of common importance.

Approaching American Conference.

He pleaded that much interest be taken in the coming American Library Conference to be held in Portland from July 3 to 8 inclusive, saying:

"We expect at that time representatives of libraries from every part of the Union. It will be a large body of enthusiastic workers, meeting to discuss principles and methods. They have been persuaded to come great distances and to hold this discussion in a comparatively barren field with the honorable motive of forwarding the general library movement of the Northwest with the hope of illustrating for us the immense importance of that movement as the ally of home and church and school in education. It is thought that those who have begun to feel the value of public libraries, however few and scattered we are, or however small or new our undertakings, might encourage each other by this conference and by organizing for future meetings."

Aid Society Celebration.

Christmas was celebrated last evening at the Boys and Girls Aid Society, a glittering feature of the entertainment being set up in the dining-room. The program which preceded Santa Claus' distribution of gifts was opened with an address of welcome by Gabe Harford. The remainder of the program was as follows: Chorus, "Bright Bells of Christmas"; recitation, "Our Hired Girl," Jessie Wells; recitation, "My Little Brother," Lester Dutcher; song, "Sweetly on Christmas Morning," Emma Bell, Lila Ford, Jessie Wells and Mabel Bosarth; recitation, "Cora and Her Kittens," Fern Flowers; recitation, "The Goodbye," Willie G. Ham; chorus, "Holy Night"; recitation, "Dollie's Rival," Henrietta Keyes; recitation, "Just Before Christmas," Byron Jackson; duet, Gertrude Antennetta and Emma Bell; Chinese song, Lin Tin; chorus, "Once in Royal David's City"; recitation, "When Santa Claus Comes," Irene Carter; chorus, "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear."

A Christmas entertainment was also held at Missah Presbyterian Church, the program consisting of songs and recitations by the young people of the church. This program, which was very well carried out, was given under the very capable direction of Mrs. J. M. C. Miller. Holly evergreens and flowers made pretty decorations. Besides the children's carols, there were songs by Raymond

Time Ripe for Organization.

Dr. J. R. Wilson when called upon said that the time was ripe for organization insofar as many young college people who were thoroughly erudite were scattered throughout the remote sections of the state where no libraries of any description existed and who were missing opportunities to improve their minds only through the lack of such literary facilities.

It was brought to the attention of the committee on exhibits that some local houses and manufacturers who have not aided the Exposition in any way are clamoring for the most and the best space in which to exhibit their goods. Small Mint to be Placed at Fair by Government. It was decided yesterday that the offer from the Government to install two coin machines in the Government building at the Fair will be accepted, though the cost of the machines will be a heavy management of the Exposition. The machines will be run by electricity and an expert will be sent from Washington to take charge.

Vancouver Sheriff Enforces the State Gambling Law. VANCOUVER, Wash., Dec. 27.—(Special.)—That Sheriff Becker intends to enforce the state law prohibiting gambling is clearly evident to several local saloonkeepers, whose places of business have been raided and the owners required to pay a fine of $100 each. Games were found to be running in their places.

New City Engineer Says Tanner-Creek Sewer is Not So Bad as He Had Expected.

Charles Wanzer, the newly appointed City Engineer, in company with W. C. Elliott, the retiring official, made a cursory examination of the Tanner-Creek sewer yesterday morning. The trip through the sewer was taken in order that Mr. Elliott might be able, before leaving the office January 1, to give his successor the advantage of any knowledge he might have on the subject of the defects to be found in the sewer construction.

When asked the result of his investigations, Mr. Wanzer stated that he had not as yet made a thorough enough examination to have any recommendations to make in any particular, but that he had found the sewer to be in better condition and the work to be of a better grade than he had been led to believe would be the case, judging from the reports made concerning it.

ROBBED DURING FIRE.

Till Tapped in Burnside Restaurant While Firemen Work. It was a stubborn blaze that resulted from a fire that broke out at 24 Burnside street, at 11:15 last night. For nearly an hour the firemen, directed by Assistant Chief Young, battled with the situation. It required several large streams of water and chemical to conquer it. No one was hurt, and the damage will not exceed $200. This was partly covered by insurance.

EDUCATIONAL EXHIBIT PLACED

Will Be Installed in Gallery of Oriental Building. Superintendent R. F. Robinson, of the educational exhibit at the Lewis and Clark Fair, continues with the work of securing a satisfactory display of educational work in the Oriental building. The committee on exhibits decided that the large and well-lighted gallery in the Oriental building be used for this purpose. The exhibit will consist of an exhibit of the work card on a table in the gallery. Mr. Robinson made one trip last week to see what could be done in the interior of the state towards the securing of a satisfactory display of educational work in the Oriental building. He intends taking up all branches of school work and will devote a great deal of attention to the securing and arrangement of the material.

Not Like Football Game.

The O. A. C. basketball team defeated the second team of the Multnomah Club by a score of 33 to 12 last night. While the score would indicate a one-sided game, it was an interesting contest in which a good deal of work was done. The "Farmers" had the best of it throughout, however, and were never in much danger.
