Change Mining Tax.

"There are some other things to which I have given attention," said Mr. Burns, have been requested by some mining men to aid in amending the Eddy corpo ation tax law so as to exempt mining companies from the provision of the law, or leasen the tax as to them. I am op posed to a change in the law in that re op Mining companies are organized with a large capital stock, and bay a correspondingly large license think that is entirely proper. If they don't want to pay so large a tax let them reduce the amount of their capital stock. I believe a schedule of fees varying according to the amount of the cap-ful stock is the proper plan, and it should to all corporations alike,

"I believe, however, that the money derived from the corporation license tax, and from the inheritance tax, should go into the school fund, and not into the general fund "

ALL ARE BUYING CATTLE.

Good Prices and Brisk Market Prevail in Grant County.

JOHN DAY, Or., Dec. 20 .- (Special.) Cattle buying among Grant County stockmen has been quite active since the heavy sales last Fall. So many engaged in this rather unusual form of stock transaction that the home supply came practically exhausted some time ago, and they are reaching out into the surrounding territory. The bulk of the business was carried on very quietly, and resulted in a good many surprises. Growers who make a many surprises drowers who make a practice of selling off young stock company will be known as the Fraser were approached by local buyers, and River Lumber Mills Company and will whether they knew of any such for sale in their neighborhood. The reply was generally that they had ought up all to be found.

Conditions favor this demand. Prices fleet of lur have been down to bedrock, close sales has been of fat stock had been general through-out the county, and feed and pasture unusually plentiful. Ince cattlemen have made the largest purchases of young stock and steers, and several arge hands have been taken into that section for wintering. Henry Trowbridge and Johnny Laycock have just driven 436 head of steers over to their pastures in that valley. They were purchased chiefly in the Burni River country, at prices ranging from $12 to $25 per head

Rocks Stop Streams on Fire.

CENTRALIA, Wash., Dec. 30.-Special.) At the last meeting of the Centralia Council, the City Clerk was instructed to notify the Centralia Water Supply Com-pany that it draw no more water warrants until the water system was put in a condition approved by the Council. Some time ago the Council ordered the water company to make repairs, and at the next meeting the superintendent reported that they had been made. At the fire on Sunday evening, the water supply ran short, and had the supply stopped a few minutes sooner, the whole north end would have burned. Several times the firemen were compelled to take the noz-ile off the hose and shake out the rocks that had accomulated in the hydrants.
