Better Conditions in Russia and Snow

This Country Cause Weakness. CHICAGO, Jan. 12.-Following lower price rather weak at the opening. May being off a shade to iggic at $1.161.91.174. The weak-ness of foreign markets was said to be due to a report from Odesas to the effect that the wheat crop of Southern Russia is in excellent occulition. The heavy fall of snow in the United States throughout the West and Southwest was reported as affording ample protection for the Winter wheat crop of this country. There has previously been considerable anxiety as to the possible damage by cold weather. The bulls, however, found encouragement in the continued small movement in the Northwest. Later the market became strong on a fairly active demand from several prominent commission bousse. An assurance from Minneapolis that the flour mills there would not close was a possible reason for the revived demand. On the bulge, May sold up to $1.175. During the last bour of trading a reaction occurred, the advance in prices bringing out increased offerings. Toward the close the market became quite weak, May dectining to $1.165. Choice hay is firm and ordinary grades weak. An authority says:

"No Oriental shipments of hay have been made this week. The Government has placed an order for 1000 tons, immediate delivery, up north. Bids have just been opened for the regular half-yearty supply for the Army in the Philippines, but it will probably not have any visible effect on the market, for the amount is not large and there are six months in which to make delivery."

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal. Jan. 12—(Special)—Blanche Bettes gave a special mather the performance at the Grand Operatione performance at the Grand Operatione of "The Taming of the Shrew," which he wrote for the late Edwin Booth. The Shakespearcan councily scored a splendid success, and at the end of the performance at special make a special in which she stated that she hoped to play a Shakespearcan plece next was given out that at the end of the present season.

trolled by the theatrical trust.

Months ago it was announced that Blanche Bates would appear here in her present success, "The Darling of the Gods." and local theater-goers were anticipating much pleasure from the engagement. Her managers have been negotiating for some time for dates at the Columbia and the Empire, but it finally develops that they cannot secure time at either house. Owing to the fact that Miss Bates is an independent star, she, of course cannot play at the Marquam, which is controlled by the syndicate, and Portland has been dropped from the Bates tilnerary.

This will be generally regretted here, for in a sense Miss Bates is a Portland girl and this city has always felt a strong interest in her. The announcement that she is to attempt Shakespearcean roles is a great surprise to her friends here, and her career in the classic can roles is a great surprise to her friends here, and her career in the classic drama will be followed closely.

Skates Dug Up at Kalama. KALAMA. Wash., Jan. 12.—(Special.)— For the first time in several years the people of Kalama are enjoying first-class skating. The big pond north of town is covered with a good coat of smooth ice. Everybody who can possibly do so has dug up his long-unused skates and is enjoying the rare treat.

About noon today it began snowing.
