DEATH OF MES AGNES E. JOHNSON.—
The funeral of Mrs. Agnes E. Johnson, wife of Charles E. Johnson, of Lents, Or., will take place from the undertaking partors of F. S. Dunning today at 1 o'clock, the interment to be made in Multnomah Cemetery. Mrs. Johnson died at Good Samaritan Hospital Wednesday, of septic poisoning, which resulted from an operation. She was the daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. John McCartney, old residents of Portland, who are well known. She left a husband and three small children.
Gave Browning Rectral.—Miss Louise Forzyth gave a Browning reading Wednesday afternoon, at the residence of Judge Williams, the pariors being well filled with a most appreciative audience. Miss Forsyth is a delightful reader and her programme was presented in such a way as to make the poems clearer in meaning than could be possible with one who had not studied Browning very thoroughly. The recital was given under the auspices of the Women's Guild of Trinity Church.

ORDGON ALUMNI TO MEET AT BANQUET. The Portland Alumni of the University of Oregon will give their annual dinner on Saturdar evening, January 21, at 3 o'clock, at the Portland Commercial Club. in the Chamber of Commerce. All grad-iantos of the university are asked to be present. There will be a business meet-ing immediately preceding the dinner in the Commercial Club puriors.

VAUDEVILLE AT MARQUAM.

Pleasing Entertainment Given by Woodmen of World Attracts Many.

Seen from the Marquam stage last night were 1600 happy, laughing faces. Their owners were there enjoying the vaudoville show presented under the direction of the Woodmen of the World, and the place rang with laughter at jokes in the songs and stories. The event was one of the series of entertainments given by the Woodmen in their campaign which is to culminate next month, they hope, with 1000 new members.

culminate next month, they hope, with 1900 new members.

Governor Chamberlain was to have presided, but was detained by official business at Salem, and sent his regrets. J. J. Jennings, of this city, presided, and a short address was given by C. V. Cooper, head banker. Woodmen of the World. Mr. Cooper referred to the installation of 190 Woodmen at Mount Tabor three years ago and predicted that the installation of new members next month will have like success. He said that the Woodmen camps never have retrograde movements, and that progress marks all the work.

W. C. Hawley, chairman of the board of head managers, made the speech of the evening, and painted a glowing word picture of the days when our ancestors. pleture of the days when our ancestors lived in caves and fought with each other and often with wild beasts for the right to live—a time when every man's hands seemed to be against his fellow. Mr. Mr seemed to be against his fellow. Mr. Hawley then spoke of another scene, the temple of fraternity at the St. Louis Exposition. mentioning a hospital there where, free of any charge, physicians and nurses treated the sick and malmed. "Nothing could be bought or sold in that hospital," went on the speaker. "It all came from the spirit of fraternity, and was the result of man's love and respect for his fellowmen. It also represented the modern spirit of co-operation." Mr. Hawley then made a pies to young men the modern spirit of co-operation.

Hawley then made a pies to young men present to become Woodmen, and gave figures showing the excellent financial condition of the order. He finished by an allusion to the Spanish-American War. The vaudeville programme was a good one, acts being donated by most of the vaudeville thester proprietors in town, and every selection given was encored.

the stressful situations, mechanical de-vices and beroics which Carter invariably provides with a lavish hand.

"Two Little Waits" might be a little longer on comedy and a little shorter on trials and tribulations, but Lord bless us, we don't go to the melo-play to kick up our heels. According to our lights we go in pretty much the same spirit as other folks attend insen or Bernard Shaw. Lincoln Carter has his human meture Lincoln Carter has his human sature down pat. He knows that the majority will run to a fire, crowd around a street-fight and craise necks at the morgue. Having learned this, he dramatizes cor-

There is much conjecture as to whether or not the railroad has succeeded in obtaining what it really wished. If the opinions of competent engineers may be accepted as a criterion, it has not. It is asserted frequently that the railroad company, forfeited a 12-year franchise so as to have the bridge constructed in accordance with its needs. Now that the bridge is completed, it is thought that the traffic accommodations would have proved better had they been planned differently. The plan of centering the cars on the bridge is not considered one that will facilitate transportation.

Members of the engineering fraternity contend that if the cars were on one adde of the bridge and the driveway on the other, with no large preventive timbers, so fhat it would be say for teams to turn in and out, provided the way was blocked, the construction of the bridge and meet another, there would be hidge and meet another, there would be hidge and meet another, there would be would be much more satisfactory.

The supposition is now offered that if a team should start across the bridge and meet another, there would be but one course to pursue-drive over the Sax timbers in any way possible. Then, it is argued that the wheels of the vehicle would become wrenched in the small specture r not the railroad has succeeded in ob-

the Flanagan estate.
