FOOD AND MUNITIONS ABOUND

LONDON, Jan. 35 -- The Times' correspondent at Pekin, who has returned from a visit to Port Arthur, describes the impressions he gained there and says:

Without seeing them, sobody could form any idea of the stupendous strength of the forts or the incredible beroism displayed in their capture. No foreign officer is able to explain the reason for the surrender of Arthur. Those who have seen the condition of the fortress believe that no more discreditable surrender is recorded in history.

There were 25,000 able-bodied men capable of making a sortle, and hundreds of officers, all well nourished, and plenty of ammunition, the largest magazine being untouched and full to the roof with all kinds of ammunition for naval guns. There was, further, ample food for three menths, even if no fresh supplies could be received, and beside the waters are teeming with fish. There was an abundance of wine and medical comforts and large quantities of fuel of all kinds. The stories that the Red Cross buildings were wrocked by the Japanese fire are admirted by reputable residents to have been pure fabrication- to excite sympathy. All accounts agree in condemning the majority of the officers, who feared the failure of comforts more than ammuni and agree that no man ever held a resible command who less deserved the title of hero than General Stoessel.
