"It is just as legitimate as this running of combination houses, and out a license for highway robbery, make out a license for highway robbery, particularly as this is the Fair year. It is a clear point of law. I have consulted numerous judges and lawyers about the city and they toll me that it is against the law for such houses to rettain open and further that it is against the law for in to grout their licenses when we know that they are maintaining combination

No Fear of Grand Jury.

"I don't care anything about the grand jury," said Mr. Zimmerman. There won't be any more grand jury this year and we will be finished in July. I am talking to you just like I talked in the grand jury. "We are getting more money from the salloon people than anyone else in the city, and if we revoke the literace close in the city and if we revoke the literace they will all go out of hustness and the city will lose passe."

"No fear. They wen't go out of busi-ness, not during this year. Supposting that half of them did go out of business, the aghens will apply for new thousans to run estimate saloens and we will have a od revenue from them," argued Mr.

friendly government.

This ground was not satisfactory to an influential circle in Anstria, and it was then alloged that his Catholicism was lax, from which charges he was warmly defended by the Administration at Washington. Secretary Bayard addressed a note to the Austrian Government, in which he commented on the unreasonableness of race and religious distinctions. The Secretary even went so far as to say that the appointment would be allowed to stand even though it resulted in a creasion of diplomatic relations beinsmed to stand even though it resulted in a cemaction of dipiomatic relations between the United States and Austria. To relieve the Administration of President Cheveland of further embarramement Mr. Kelley resigned and later was appointed to the International Court at Chiro. He resigned in April, 1802, owing, it was understood to the death of his wife. His record in Cairo was distinguished by ability.
