IMPROVEMENT OF HAST STARK STREET,-Property owners again considered the im-provement of East Stark street, from Ninth to Twentieth, at a meeting last evening, with Oglesby Young presiding. The Executive Board may be asked to contribute toward the cost of the fill. There is wide difference of opin-ion as to the fill, and it is the opinion of at least some owners on that part of the street that the improvement cannot be made under the resolution passed last night, owing to the heavy burden that will fall on some of the owners. It must have been about the 20th visit that Lewis Morrison paid us at the Marquam last night in the old, familian 'Faust." It is an historic play, with which Mr. Morrison is as closely identified as Joseph Jefferson with "Rip Van Winkle." In the later years many spurious and false Mephistos have toured the country under the Morrison banners, but the real simon-pure one was here last night, and many admirers, old and new, applauded him greatly.

It is fully up to the standard we are led to expect, and those who care for the classic, and they are many, will be completely astisfied with the 1906 version. It is essential to the theatrical education of the present generation that "Faust" according to Lewis Morrison be a part of

AT THE COLUMBIA THEATER Of course you heard Melba, and you .. probably see Blanch Bates. Now round out the week by seeing "Moths of Society" at the Columbia. In 20 years' experience writing of the interest and merits of plays-mostly in New York-I have never seen a more genuinely interesting play than "Moths." It is also gorgeously staged and dressed, and splendidly acted by the Columbia Stock Company, all this week. It is worth every theater-goer's attention.

Chief Hunt Places Special Squad Under Acting Sergeant Slover.

Chief of Police Hunt is determined there shall not be a repetition of the bunko trick turned on A. Tull, of Green Top, Mo., last Saturday. The special squad went on duty Monday night, and are to continue for an indef-inite length of time. They will cover the city in a systematic manner, ever on the

Mr. Morrison, himself, is about as usual. He knows his part backwards and for-wards, and can be depended upon to make the role just what one expects. The Marguerite this year is Miss Rosabel Morrison, daughter of her father. She is sweet and appealing in the role. The rest of the company is tolerable, and the scenery and effects are all that they have been in the past. Nothing better than the quartet singing in the first act has been heard here since the "Come Back to Manistee" effort in the "Sultan of Sulu. The four young men who sang "In the Green Fields of Iowa," or something like that, were encored about seven times, and their rendition of popular songs in me-dieval costumes and settings was, to say the least, unusual. #### Chickens vs. Terriers Neighbors' Pets Carry Trouble to Justice Reid's Court.

Whether or not a chicken is a domestisented to Justice Reid yesterday and de cided in the negative,

The question arose in the case of C. E. Inman vs. Julius Epping. Mr. Inman's hobby is fancy chickens while Mr. Epping's leaning is towards fox terriers. They are neighbors and both indulge in their respective pleasures, and in this lies the cause of the suit.

One day, tiring of playing in their own backyard and being sportively inclined, Mr. Epping's fox terriers sought the com-pany of Mr. Inman's chickens and essay-ed to have some fun with them. They did, but their playfulness resulted in the killing of 13 chickens, so it is alleged by Mr. Inman. In the opinion of Mr. Inman. the chickens were of a valuable species and were worth to him at least $5 each. He therefore brought suit under the statute providing protection for domesticated animals and fowls, and asked an award of $65 damages.

After hearing the evidence, part of which showed that chickens similar to those killed had been sold as low as 50 cents each Justice Reid suntained a mo made by the defendant for a nons and dismissed the case. The motion was granted owing to insufficiency of evidence submitted by the plaintiff in order to re-cover damages under the statute.

There is so much acting by Blanche Bates that her work seems not acting at all. She lives and breathes throughout the play as the maides of Japan. From the first laugh and prattle of innocence in her father's house to the last note of expiring agony, her portrayal is real, terribly real, even to the point of causing the beholder to feel intense pain at her awful fate as a sacrifice of love. Yo-San and the ten Samural who defied the Mikado, form but a link in the chain of historical events that marked the period of transition in the evolution of Japan from barbarism to civilization. Next in importance to Yo-San so splendidly done by Miss Bates is the character of Zakkuri, the Minister of War portrayed by Albert Bruning. His part is so very strong that it required the skilled hand of Belasco, the dramatist, to prevent him from dominating the play instead of Yo-
