The mustering officer was Commander Ewing, of Vanville Camp, the mustering being in the presence of representatives of Camp Scout Young and Camp Vanville have been appointed to provide headquarters at the Lewis and Clark Exposition and to receive visitors for both military organizations. Action will shortly be taken to organize a uniformed company that will act as a guard of honor to state delegations, Government officials, military organizations, etc., visiting the Exposition. Among the visitors to the camp last night was Brigadier-General Thomas M. Anderson, United States Army, and more recently a Sergeant in the Second Lieutenant in the Russian Army, and more recently a Sergeant in the Thirty-fifth Regiment, United States Army. Mr. Markham, who has been here for his efforts, before and after the Russo-Japanese war, but his services could not be accepted, as Japan only permits her own subjects to serve in her army.

WOOLEN MILL FOR BELLWOOD—Articles have been prepared in the office of D. M. Donough for the new woolen mill company, which will establish a three-see plant at Sellwood, for which $70,000 of the $100,000 of capital stock has been taken. J. M. Nickum and A. C. Mowrey, of Sellwood, have each subscribed for $500 of the stock. T. W. Clark, the promoter, and his backers, have taken $20,000 of the stock. Some Eastern capitalists, who are interested in the prospective woolen mill plant, are expected to arrive in a short time, when definite action will be taken. The prospects of the plant being established are considered excellent. If built, it will be located on the ground formerly occupied by the Portland Woolen Mill.

DOUBLE TRACK TO MONTAVILLA—The Portland Consolidated Railway Company is making extensive improvements on the Montavilla branch of its system, which will result in a double track most of the way from East Twenty-eighth street to the end of the line at the Base Line road. At the gravel pit in North Mount Taber a stream shovels is rapidly tearing away the gravel and making room for a second track between the upper end of the hill and Center Addition, now covered by a single track. The present track will be lowered to feet, being away with the sharp grade at this point. When double tracks are completed past the gravel pit there will still be a short stretch of single track through the Ladfield.

CENTER ADDITION SCHOOL READY—The Center Addition schoolhouse, which is part of Mount Taber district No. 5, is completed and occupied. Miss Elton and Miss White have charge of the two rooms of this building. In Miss Elton's room there are 25 pupils and in Miss White's 20, mostly pupils of the first grade, who have been attending at the main building on West avenue since Lane road. While relieving the West-avenue schoolhouse, the Center Addition building provides facilities close at hand, doing away with the necessity of sending the small children more than a mile.

$50,000 INTEREST OF $5000—Through an unavoidable error in the advertisement of B. M. Lombard, published on page 9 in yesterday's issue of the Oregonian, the amount was left out of a very valuable piece of property was offered for $5000 instead of $50,000, as intended by the advertiser. The property is considered cheap at the latter figure and the mistake caused a continual stream of visitors to Mr. Lombard's office in the Chamber of Commerce building.

BURIAL OF ARTHUR WILSON—The final services over the remains of the late Arthur Wilson were held at Scottish Rite Cathedral yesterday afternoon according to the ritualistic ceremonies of the Masonic fraternity. A large number of the friends of the deceased, together with the members of the Swedish Linnea Society and local representatives of foreign governments, attended the services. Interment was at Riverside cemetery.

CAR JUMPS THE TRACK—Outbound car No. 57 of the Oregon City line, was derailed while negotiating the curve on the east end of the Madison-street bridge at 6 o'clock last night. The accident was caused by the jumping of a switch after the front trucks had passed the frog. No one was injured, and aside from demolishing the guard rails of the car little damage was done.

FUNERAL OF HENRY KARR—The funeral of Henry Karr, a pioneer, living on a farm near Hartney, Clatsop County, took place yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance from the people of the neighborhood, where he had lived for the past 22 years.

WILL TALK OF THE WILL—The subject for today's meeting of the Home Training Association is "Will Training Rather Than Will Breaking." Two questions will be taken up for general discussion. All are welcome. Children will be cared for in the nursery.

GASOLINE CARS EN ROUTE—The new gasoline motors ordered by the Southern Pacific for interurban use on the Hillsboro West Side line are reported to be on their way West and due to arrive in Portland in a couple of weeks at the most. As soon as the first car reaches the city it will be put on the run and thoroughly tested, and if found satisfactory, others will be ordered and a complete interurban service put into commission.

There must be very much of the good and the true and the beautiful in a play which draws people to it for 23 consecutive years, and that is what "The Kerry Gow" has done. An actor must possess very many of the enduring qualities of greatness to be able successfully to bid for public patronage in the same role for that number of years, and that is what Joseph Murphy has done. So enduring in the drama and the excellent art of the actor that Joseph Murphy is always certain of a generous hearing wherever he goes. Looking the same bold, reckless, lovable Irish lad that he did ten or even twenty years ago, this splendid old actor returned to Portland last night, and as the simple, devoted Kerry blacksmith he won our hearts anew.

Joe Murphy, in his two great plays of Irish life, "Kerry Gow" and "Shawn Rue," has established so secure a place in theatrical history that criticism at this day is the veriest impertinence. He is recognized as the foremost portrayer of the real Irish lad on the stage, and the fact that he is the second richest actor in the world, with the added fact that he has made his fortune with the two plays named, should be sufficient evidence of his greatness to them most, case point. I have in mind a man and will soon remember him for the refreshing, sweet goodness of his art and the plays with which his name is synonymous.

At the Marquam last night was a large audience. In it were many regular first nighters, but there were many more who seldom go to the theater. There must have been a dozen Catholic clergymen and scores of Protestants who only go to the playhouse when something well vouched for is offered. Particularly were Irish-Americans in evidence, for, of all actors, it is the Irishman who is the only one who does not caricature a splendid race as do most of the cheap comedians. His speech is not an offense, and his manners are as those of the men who have won Britain's battles and immortalized Britain's annals and song and story for 200 years and more. This audience saw the braveny Irish smith shoe the racehorse, they saw the carrier pigeons fly in with the news of victory, as they have done all these years in just the same inspiring way. The speeches which greeted the play, and the genuine pleasure which it gave were as spontaneous as could be wished for, and after it was over the spectators talked about "Kerry Gow" all the way home. What more could you'll say, old Joe Murphy ask?

This company this year is high class in every respect. Mary Fernier, who plays Nora's house, and we went after it. When he saw us coming he grabbed the wagon and got a kid on a wheel to run off with it and hide it, but we know where it is now. It's at Earl Elliott's house—that kid there, and he pointed to the trembling prisoner.

Earl Elliott was "in for it," as he had been arrested on a previous occasion, he admitted, and that time spent a night in the City Jail. He said he was accused of stealing pigeons, but was released by the Judge.

The complainants against Elliott are the youngest ever placing a charge against any prisoner in the history of the local police department. Albert Green is 8 years old and lives with his parents at 32 East Sixth street; Albee McKinnon is aged 9 and lives at East Yamhill and Union avenue, while Earl Elliott is 16 and lives at 32 East Yamhill. The case will be heard in the Municipal Court today.

FAMOUS BIBLICAL PLAYS

REV. A. A. MORRISON, OF TRINITY CHURCH, DISCUSSES THEM.

"Holy City," "Quo Vadis?" Etc., at Columbia Theater, Great Educators and Vastly Interesting.

Rev. A. A. Morrison, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, spoke as follows this morning in an interview concerning the series of religious spectacular plays that are being put on at the Columbia Theater. The series, began a few weeks ago with "The Holy City," it is to be followed up by "Quo Vadis?" and "The Holy City," and will be continued throughout the season, at intervals, with "Parisiol," etc.—continuing the most interesting and magnificent stage productions that have ever been given by a home theatrical organization in Portland.

"No wonder," said Dr. Morrison, "that the Columbia Theater is packed at every performance of this kind. I witnessed 'The Holy City,' and I certainly shall go and see 'Quo Vadis?'" "It probably is true that managers give the public what they judge they want. But the public has been nauseated and overfed with problem plays, indecency, flippant musical elaborations—perhaps given somewhat more than it wants of the usual run of what may be considered meritorious plays of more or less literary and dramatic value.

"With a play like 'The Holy City' or 'Quo Vadis?' you touch an ordinarily untouchable element of the community, beside the element of the regular theater-goers and the people who are readily attracted by the theater. It is the masses who seldom go to church that you reach in greatest numbers. They do not have the lessons of the New Testament read to them each week in church. They are attracted to your theater by the magnificence of the spectacle and the surety that the play is interesting. The result is that they are deeply touched by the beautiful and all-important truths and historical facts that are so impressively portrayed. Beside being deeply touched, they are entertained beyond their expectations, and, indeed, highly delighted because a splendid sermon that rises true has been preached to them by the pageant on the stage.

"The effect of these productions cannot be other than good in every possible way. There is no reason in the world why they should be to the theater as undignified or reprehensible. The plays of which we are speaking make the purpose of the theater higher and better.

"I most heartily endorse the management of the Columbia Theater, or any other theater, that plans and puts before the public such a beautiful and noble thing. They not only please and instruct all who attend, but give to the otherwise unreached majority a far greater measure of comfort and delight than they are likely to receive from any other source. In this way the theater can do a large amount of good that would be impossible to accomplish in any other way. And right here in Portland, at the Columbia Theater, is a conspicuous example of this work.

"I say it does not lessen a particle the dignity of the man, whether he be a minister or a layman, to extend the hand of cordial approbation to a courageous theatrical manager who offers these beautiful truths of the Bible, Christianity, and history from a theater stage to his appreciative audience. It is a fine step in the right direction."

Children Uphold the Law. Diminutive Youngsters Arrest Child for the Theft of a Toy Wagon. "Say, Mister, this here kid stole my wagon and run off with it," said Albert Green, 8 years old and small for his age, to Captain Moore at Police Headquarters last night. With Danie McKinnon, his chum, he had "collared" the alleged young thief and succeeded in having him taken to the station in a patrol wagon.
