The new stock company did itself proud on its opening, and the performance of "Lovers' Lane" is acknowledged by everybody to be as meritorious as the original New York production. Read "Quo Vadis?" again. Observe how the virus of greed, graft, oppresion, dis-honor, instilled into every granny of social life. Note the contamination in every department of life-pleasure, business, public office, literature. Strike out the date, and write 1995. Strike out Rome, and write the word that has graced the poet's song and historian's story-Oregon. There is too much likeness; too little contrast.

Great Violinist Coming.

Arrangements have been completed with the Norwegian Singing Society of Port-land, whereby the celebrated Norwegian violinist, Herr Rudolph Askeland, and the well-known tenor, Harry Du Ross, late of the Boston Lyric Opera Company, will give a high-class concert in this city in the near future assisted by the Norwegian Singing Society and the leading talent of Portland. Herr Askeland is cred-ited by the press and public with being the greatest violinist visiting this country some years. Mr. Du Ross is one of leading tenor solists of this country and a concert of a high order will be asured the music-loving public.

The Lyric.

"Rio Grande," a stirring melodrama of the New Mexican frontier, is being offered by the Lyric Stock Company this week. The play contains enough thrills to satisfy anybody looking for excitement and the comedy with which it is liberally sprinkled is funny enough to set an audi-ence into roars of laughter. The members of the company handle their various parts splendidly and the piece goes with a swing and dash which is in keeping with its military character. Each of the sensational situations is well developed and the audiences are wrought up to a high pitch of excitement. Thomas W. Ray's song is pleasingly rendered, and the vitascope pictures, as sual, prove interesting.
