

FIGHT IS NOT ENDED
Strife between Prohibition and Liquor Forces to Continue.

MORE ELECTIONS TO BE HELD
Inner Circle of Prohibition Alliance
Will Meet Tuesday to Plan
Campaign to Reap Fruits of Victory.

The Legislature has adjourned, the Jayne bill has been put to sleep by the Senate for an indefinite period and local option still stands as it did before the fray. The liquor interests are correspondingly depressed while the local option and prohibition people are beaming with the joyful smile of victory, but the end is not yet.

Back in the tents of the users of water the faithful are pelting up the armor, gashed and hacked by many a conflict, and are preparing to take the field for the further advancement of their cause before the laurels of success can begin to fade or the ardor of the doubtful begin to wane.

On the other side of the field, where broods the fog of failure, is an ominous calm. "There is plenty of time," the leaders say, and they await the attack, confident of victory in the end, though the struggle may be long and close.

Elections Will Be Held.

The local option forces are even now planning their future course and are outlining the plans which they hope will lead the banner of temperance to victory. On Tuesday night, at the Y. M. C. A., will be a meeting of what has been called the "inner circle," composed of those who have stood foremost in the fight and are not yet satisfied with the progress of the cause.

The prohibition forces, however, are not as quiet as their lack of noise would indicate. They are not content with their plans, but there is a well-founded idea abroad that the local option people will not have the victory without the cost.

Local-Option Forces Plan Campaign.

I. H. Amos, one of the prohibition leaders, outlined a certain extent last night what he thought would happen in the coming months. "We have no serious thoughts at this time of putting the state to extra expense by calling an election," he said, "unless it be in those counties where the people were tricked out of their rights by the opposition. This, however, will be because there is an election in the county and desired to force the question out of its orbit."
