BALTIMORE, Feb. 22.-In his farewell address at the anniversary exercises of Johns Hopkins University last night, Dr. William Osler (who is about to become head of the medical school of Oxford University), declared that nothing in the world is accomplished by a man more than 40 years old, and that men of 60 years should be retired or chloroformed. American medical colleges are, he de-clared, teaching hybrid systems of medicine and producing ignorant practitioners, and Europe is far ahead of the United States in medical universities.

"My idea as to the comparative uselessof men above 40 years of age," he "may seem shocking, and yet the world's history bears out the statement. Take the sum of human achievement in action, in science, in art, in literature, subtract the work of the men above 40. and, while we should miss great treas-ures-even priceless treasures-we would practically be where we are today.

CALLS FOR SHOWDOWN. House Wants Facts Regarding Osage

Oil Lease. WASHINGTON, Feb. 22. - The House today adopted a substitute for the Stephens resolution calling on the Sec-retary of the Interior for information in regard to the Foster lease of Osage In-dian oil lands, which was reported by the committee on Indian affairs.

The language of the substitute is that the Secretary of the Interior is hereby requested to furnish the House with all convenient speed a copy of the lease made between James Bigneart, principal Chief of the Osage Nation of Indians, and Edwin B. Foster on the 18th day of March. 1896, and a copy of the departmental ap-proval thereof; also a copy of subleases which have been submitted to the Interior Department and approved, and a list of all subleases which have been submitted to the department, and which have not been approved, and also all docume and correspondence pertaining thereto."
The draft of the inquiry was made on suggestions of the committee that the Stephens resolution contained inquiries on matters which the House had no right to ask of any department secretary, and also that its original form would make it subject to a point of order in the House and prevent its adoption.

Bill Regulating Pipe-Line Rates. SPRINGFIELD, III., Feb. 23.-In the Senate today, Stubblefield introduced a bill making all pipe lines for the convey-ance of crude oil within the state common carriers. Rates for transportation of crude oil are established by the bill, ranging from 5 cents a barrel for six miles or less, to 25 cents a barrel for 256 miles or over. The State Board of Railroad and Warehouse Commissioners is to have general supervision and con-trol of the business of the pipe line.

Kansas Senate Kills Gas Bill.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 23.-The Senate killed the anti-gas pumping bill this afternoon. The various pipe line companies are thus free to pipe the Kansas gas in any way they see fit. The oil men secured their legislation first, and by the time the gas men began their agitation the Legislature concluded it had done enough for the oil and gas belt. The anti-discrimination bill will be a special order in the House tomorrow.

After Much Ceremony in Monastery, Body is Laid in Vault-Grand Duchess Almost Falls When Kissing the Dead.

MOSCOW, Feb. M .- The solemn cere mony of blessing the remains of Grand Duke Sergius was performed at 10 o'clock this morning, amid the tolling of bells of all of the churches and monasteries of the ancient capital. Immense crowds thronged the open squares in front of the palaces and there was a considerable dis-play of troops in the streets. Grenadiers of the Kieff regiment furnished the guard at the Chaudoff Monastery, which was the scene of the funeral services. So far as the public was concerned, nothing could be seen beyond the car-riages of those invited to the funeral, who quickly filled the small available space, After the blessing, the body was conveyed to the adjoining church of St. Andrew, where it was laid on a catafalque. The coffin was concealed by a mass of oral wreaths and crosses. The officials of Grand Duke Sergius' household and his nides-de-camp formed a circle around the bier, while the regiments of the Moscow garrison furnished contingents for the guard of honor.

The scene within the church was pathetic. The coffin was covered with cloth of silver trimmed with ermine. The mangled body lay in state, dressed in full uniform, but a vell of fine lace was dis-posed over the remains of the mutilated A gloved hand held an icon of St. Nicholas.

Grand Duchess Bears Ordeal Well. The Grand Duke's widow, the Grand Duchess Elizabeth, took her place at the foot of the coffin in front of a group of other members of the imperial family. She was arrayed in the deepest black, save the scarlet ribbon of the Order of St. Anne, and was the center of all eyes. Throughout the ordeal she displayed the same fortitude she showed yesterday when she followed the dead coachman to the grave.

The metropolitan and ten bishops conducted the service, which was accomplished by recitative chanting by the imperial choir After the liturgy the metropolitan ad-

The memory of Grand Duke Sergius is that of a great martyr, and the services he ren-dered to the state will live for all time among the Russian people. The Lord will accord everlasting rest to the spirit of this martyr. His soul will live as the blood of the ancient martyrs, as the memorial of streth ancient martyrs, as the memorial of truth and of the true faith. We may be sure the blood of the Grand Duke will sow germs of repentance over all classes of society. The metropolitan's address lasted 15 nutes and much of it was directed to nclation of the corruption of youth-interment.

After the coffin was placed on the catafalque. Grand Duchess Elizabeth laid on it a beautiful cross of white roses. The metropolitan chanted the farewell prayers as all present passed by, bowing to the coffin and to the metropolitan, who blessed them. At Grand Duchess Elizabeth's order, the chapel was hung with pure draperies, and on these were placed in-rable wreaths Widow Kisses the Dead.

When the metropolitan read the prayer for absolution, all present knelt, many of those in the rear of the church pros-trating themselves. The children of Grand Duke Paul sobbed aloud, but it was only when the time came to kiss the dead, ac-cording to the custom of the orthodox faith, that the Grand Duchess Elizabeth almost broke down. Her tall, slight fig-ure shook and swayed, and she was about to fall when Grand Duke Constantine gave her support, and she kissed the uniform on the left breast thrice.

When this touching ordeal was over the coffin was borne on the shoulders of the Grand Dukes and aldes-de-camp attached to Grand Duke Sergius' household, to the Church of St. Andrew, within the monas-tery. There was a brief service of con-signment to the grave, after which the body was placed in a vault, where it will remain until removed to St. Petersburg. At the conclusion of the ceremony Moscow's 500 belts began tolling. The streets were quieter than usual. Most of the shops were closed.

All the members of the imperial family who attended the requiem for Grand Duke Sergius at Tsarskoe-Selo remained to a family council in the evening. The dowager Empress, who has been at Tsars-koe-Selo since the eventful "Red Sunday." January 22 becoming impatient at the restraints which were advised by the police for her safety, rebelled against the alleged necessity of remaining at Tsarskoe-Seio, declaring that she is not afraid that the sands of her life have almost run out and that it assessed as the same of run out, and that, if assassins want her life, they may have it. The imperial fam-ily anad authorities implored her not to return to St. Petersburg, and she finally yielded. General satisfaction is expressed, even among Liberals, that the funeral day of among Liberals, that the funeral day of Grand Duke Sergius passed off with no untoward incident. Even the extreme radicals respected the day of grief of the imperial family. The police precautions both here and at Moscow, though extensive, apparently were not needed.
