SHE BAFFLES THE LAWYERS

Pleads That Testimony in Bankruptcy Case Might Incriminate Her in Criminal Cases_Court Gives Up the Struggle.

CLEVELAND, Or., Peb. 24.-Smiling and thoroughly self-poesessed throughout the proceedings. Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick to-day defied the authority of the United States as vested in Referee Remington in the bankruptcy courts. J. P. Dawley, her amorney, at first stubbornly refused to alattorney, at first stubbornly refused to allow Mrs. Chadwick to be sworn, though the court peremptorily ordered her to rise and take the eath. It was only after a conference that she finally took the witness-stand. Even then she refused to answer questions, the only statement of consequence obtained from her being that she had no personal property in New York.

Mrs. Chadwick sought refuge in her privilege as an accused person, and she refused to answer most of the questions on the ground that what she said might tend to aid the prosecution of her in the criminal cases. Referee Remington found in her favor, although he insisted, against her counsels wishes, in making her give a quasi explanation of her refusal.

m quasi explanation of her refusal.

"My financial uffairs are so crosely allied with the case in the Federal Court that anything affecting the one must pecessarily affect the other," said Mrs.
Chadwick, and the referee declared that that explanation of her position was as admirably expressed as it could be.

"What they want is to get possession of your information," stoutly declared Attorney Dawley, on behalf of Mrs. Chadwick. "They want a look at our hand.
They are trying to ascertain our defense. Now, if the Government will tip off its hand, we might arrange the deal."

Acts on Counsel's Advice.

Dawley frankly told the court that Mrs. Chadwick would be only following his advice in refusing to be sworn. He said he did not intend to be discourteous to the referee, but he demanded the protection which he said the Constitution gave Attorney Grossman, for Trustee Loeser, insisted on an examination, however, and Referee Remington finally decided that Mrs. Chadwick would have to be sworn and take the witness-stand at last. "We are reliably informed, and we have reason to believe, that there is a large amount of property, including big sums of money, that ought to be in the hands of the trustee for the benefit of the credors, but which are not," declared Gr

"Yes, but you must not turn the bankruptcy court into an instrument for pros-ecution," said Dawley. He declared that the trustee had seized all Mrs. Chadwick's private papers, and turned over informa-tion to the United States Attorney which had resulted in at least two, probably three, additional indictments.

"It is the duty of every good citizen," said Referee Remington, "to give the anthorities all the information in his possession." Despite Dawley's objections and his trate declarations that Mrs. Chadwick was being unitarity and Chadwick was being unjustly and im-properly imposed on, Mrs. Chadwick was forced to take the stand and be sworn. This she did very gracefully, smiling pleasantly and cheerfully as the referee administered the oath.

"I want to do all I can to aid the trustee and help the creditors," announced the witness before any questions had been asked.

Refuses to Tell Her Name.

So insistent had been Dawley's obsections and so hot had been the fight | Hard Work and Much Entertainment iony, that an hour was consumed in getting the examination started. And then it struck a snag. At the out-set, Mrs. Chadwick refused to give her name. It was in vain that Grossman eclared he had no designs of trapping the witness into an incriminating re-ply. Mrs. Chadwick simply refused to say that she was Mrs. Cassie L. Chad-pletely run down and that it was imwick, and smilingly persisted in that possible at present to make any safe just what her privilege was and just what amounted to contempt of court. asperated at her cheerful indifference.
"Is this by your advice?" he sternly inquired of Dawley.

"Counsel can take care of himself," he added significantly. "I am not under obligations to disclose to anyone, not even a court, the nature of my professional advice to my client."

Dawley frankly stated that he wished the court would commit Mrs. Chadwick to fail for contempt and get the thing off his mind. Remineton took decided objection to this attitude, and remarked that if Dawley persisted in it there would be trouble.

The whole examination was a series of just such wrangles and disputes. Mrs. Chadwick answered a few*questions, but her answers were remarkably free from information. Finally the court and counsel on all sides agreed that the examination might just as well stop abruptly, because there was no hope of securing any infrom the bankrupt. cordingly, March 13 was set for a re- present in India negotiating a oc sumption of the hearing, with the un-derstanding that Mrs. Chadwick would Anglo-Thibet treaty. testify freely on that date if the crim inal cases against her had been dis-

He was accompanied by Captain Nicho-las von Besen, commander of the destroyed battleship Sevastopol, and 11 Russian naval Lieutenants, all of whom were taken prisoners by the Japanese and released on parole.

In an interview he told a graphic story of the siege of the Russian stronghold. Had General Stoessel held out, Captain Saxe said, the place soon would have been converted into a mere cemetery. Almost 8000 men were scurvy-ridden; 22,000 were wounded, some of the men having been such quality as induced sickness. When General Stoessel surrendered, 8000 or 9000 soldiers and sailors under arms were suf-fering from wounds. Hundreds were tak-en from the hospitals to bear arms, but were unable to walk and even fell and died at their nocis. dled at their posts.
